Was Flirting With Other Fellow's Girl

He was a gallant post-office clerk and for the moment business was slack. Presently to his joy a pretty girl entered the office.

"What can I do for you?" he asked with unusual affability.

"I want a two-cent stamp," said the girl. "And would you mind weighing the letter for me, as I'm afraid it may be a little too heavy."

Mind? He was delighted and chatted glibly about the weather while he executed her order. He even volunteered to affix the stamp for her, a courtesy she accepted with a faint blush.

Just as he was placing the stamp on the envelope, however, she stopped him.

"Put it upside down," she requested.

"Why?" he asked. "that means something to Charlie!"

And the clerk's interest vanished as the clouds of monotony once more gathered on his horizon.

Bride (at the telephone): Oh, John do come home. I've mixed the plugs in some way. The radio is all covered with frost and the electric ice-box is singing "Way Out West in Kansas."
