RELIABILITY QUALITY GOODS ALWAYS AT LOWER PRICES

417-421 Main Street, Cottage Grove, Oregon

Not Now and Then But All the Time

A good value in a store today should be a good value there every day.

If an article is accepted as a good value today and its price is reduced tomorrow, the store reducing the price confesses by so doing that after all, it wasn't such a good value yesterday.

If the price is raised tomorrow then the store raising it admits that the article is no longer a good value.

The quality of the article and the extent of the service it will give, does not change—and so why should you be asked different prices for it?

Our values and prices do not change.

ADELA'S A FLAPPER

Adela Larkin is a flapper. She admits it proudly. She rolls her stockings, wears the latest bob, and her pants are the wock of the neighborhood. Yet folk like Adela Larking. She's so frank about everything. Even Adrian Klyne, reserved, hardened by years as a detective, is quite taken in by Adela. "A clever little miss," Klyne says of her. And then he adds "as deep as the sea." Adela's father is the countryside's parish minister. Adela does not understand everything about her father. What daughter is there that does? But Adela learns a few things about "The RED RAIN" that's being found in rain-gauges about the country. And the more she learns about the "rain" the better does she think of Adrian Klyne. Like most flappers, Adela has a good common sense view of things. She decides that even though her father does seem to be connected with the mystery of the "red rain" it is better that the entire thing be cleared up. So she joins in with Klyne, and the two work together. There is a love story between these two. It is unfolded with all the art of a skillful writer. You will not want to miss a single installment of the story, "The Red Rain Mystery."
