IKE PATTERSON FOR GOVERNOR.
I. L. Patterson, of Eola, known to his friends as "Ike," was a visitor in the city over Friday night.
Ike has many qualifications to recommend him for the position he seeks. He is a business farmer and has acquired a competence from the soil. His sympathies are with the producer, while he is familiar enough with business transactions and with business of the state to give Oregon a business administration.

While a member of the senate he served as chairman of the powerful ways and means committee and spent many weary days and nights in parceling out the state's money and in becoming familiar with the financial affairs of the state. He has served as chairman of the republicans state central committee and his republicanism is beyond question.

As a member of the senate he was careful of the state's funds, but not niggardly to the extent of hampering the conduct of the state's business.

It is the belief of The Sentinel that Ike would make a first class governor and embellish the position. He is both mentally and physically qualified to do so and has a dignity that should go with the position, yet is warm hearted and cordial in his relations with his friends. He is hoary-headed but youthful in energy.

Ike will be a formidable candidate and Oregon will not regret its action should he be elected to the highest office the state can give.

A Portland newspaper proudly cites that a resident of that city took from his garden on groundhog day green onions, cabbage, beets, celery and radishes, all grown outdoors. It made a good item for apartment house consumption, but the initiated know what radishes, beets and cabbages are like that have stood in the garden all winter.—Eugene Guard.

We don't know what they may be like in Eugene, but we do know that Cottage Grove gardens are producing all that the Portland paper listed, and more, and that all are as crisp and fresh as though raised in the good old summer time.

Editor Claudius Ingalls of the Corvallis Gazette-Times expresses the belief that stopping a cockfight recently at St. Paul was an infringement upon the rights of personal enjoyment. He doesn't say whether the cocks and the spectators were getting the enjoyment, but the officers probably were well within the law under which the humane society operates. Claudius has gotten away with crime often in his editorial columns, but he may not continue to do so if he defends cockfighting.

A great deal of fuss is being made about the automobile registration law making it difficult to secure license plates for 1926. We have been assured by the secretary of state that any citizen known to him to be reputable, or vouched for by a police officer or magistrate, can easily get his new plates by filing an affidavit of ownership, which is not a great deal of trouble considering the value the registration law may some time prove to be to him.

Corvallis Gazette-Times: The Cottage Grove Sentinel, whose editor is an expert on feminine ornamentation, wants to know who told the dear things they look well in goshes. We do not, but in any event, he was far more shrewd and practical than the onion who induced them to wear their furs in summer.

"Eugene Men Catch Fish With Knife-Like Tails" says a headline in the Eugene Register. That is no way to catch fish, use a hook and line. Only the devil is supposed to have a caudal appendage that lends itself well to that kind of sport.

Mrs. George T. Gerlinger of Portland says that the girl of a generation ago was not as attractive as the girl of today. We trust that Mr. Gerlinger does not take that view of things.

A lot of good people are quarreling because the ten commandments are not read in the schools every day. Meanwhile much good could be accomplished by reading them in the home every day.—Eugene Register.

If you have paid your Christmas bills you are in a position to understand why some folks insist on calling it XXXXmas.

They say that Tammany is paying court to the Lady South. She probably thinks to marry him to reform him.

Randall-Duggan
At a simple wedding held in the study of the Christian church of Eugene Saturday, February 6, Irma Mildred Randall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Randall of this city, became the bride of Melvin E. Duggan of McMinnville. Pastor E. V. Stivers performed the ring ceremony. Those present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Randall and son Vinal Jr., of Cottage Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Duggan, Mrs. McCullah and Mr. McKenzie of McMinnville.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Trask and sons Burdick and Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. William Thum, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Moody, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Godard, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schaefer and W. B. Cooper.

The bride is well known both in Cottage Grove and McMinnville. She graduated from the local high school in 1919 and has attended both the University of Oregon and the Oregon state normal. She taught in Lane county for the past three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Duggan will be at home after February 8 at McMinnville.

Mrs. D. C. Bosley was hostess for a valentine party at her home Thursday afternoon. The guest list included members of the Research club and Mrs. D. H. Hemenway, Mrs. J. H. Chambers, Mrs. C. F. Hoskins, Miss Naomi Hoskins, Mrs. F. L. Grannis, Mrs. Claude Lawton and Mrs. Clem Parker. The rooms were effectively decorated with red hearts, some pierced with cupid's darts and valentines. Games pertaining to hearts furnished the afternoon's entertainment. Mrs. D. H. Hemenway, Mrs. Van Osdell and Mrs. F. L. Grannis won high honors in the games, while Mrs. D. A. Forbes, Mrs. M. S. Power and Mrs. C. F. Hoskins received consolation prizes. Dainty refreshments were served. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. M. S. Power.

The Mothers' club was entertained Friday by Mrs. T. C. Shaw and Mrs. V. W. Shaw at their home a mile and a half east of Cottage Grove. Guests were Mrs. Maurice Raymond, Mrs. H. H. Quimby, Mrs. Melva Thompson, Mrs. C. L. Stover, Mrs. W. A. Kime, Mrs. Kelly McNew, Mrs. C. H. Land, Mrs. Small, Miss Dorothy Hatch and Miss Marilyn Shaw. The time was spent in quilting. Three quilts were finished, bringing the total made this winter to 11. Country refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be Friday, February 26, at the home of Mrs. L. McAbey.

Mrs. Clara Burkholder was hostess at an informal afternoon of bridge at her home Wednesday. Guests were Mrs. H. H. Vetch, Miss Naomi Hoskins, Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. R. R. Meeks, Mrs. Earl Hill, Mrs. A. A. Richmond, Mrs. C. A. Kurrq, Mrs. Nelson Durham, Mrs. George Knowles, Mrs. J. Q. Willets, Mrs. James P. Graham, Mrs. Ball, Mrs. W. B. Johnston, Mrs. W. J. White, Mrs. E. W. Armes, Mrs. T. C. Wheeler and Mrs. D. H. Hemenway. The rooms were decorated with potted ferns and hyacinths. A dainty luncheon was served, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Miss Belle Burkholder.

Mrs. James P. Graham, Mrs. S. V. Allison and Mrs. George Jacobsen were hostesses to the Constellation club Thursday in Masonic hall. Additional guests were Mrs. N. E. Compton and Mrs. W. H. Ostrander. Decorations for the affair were in keeping with the valentine idea. The hall was effectively decorated with red hearts strung on streamers of crepe paper. A potted red cyclamen formed the centerpiece for the table and hearts were used as place cards. The color scheme was carried out in the dainty luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinal Randall entertained Thursday evening with a five hundred party in honor of the birthday anniversary of Herbert Whitlock. Three tables were formed. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Lowry, Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobsen, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Godard, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitlock, Miss Rita Kelly and Robert Stacey. Potted hyacinths were used to decorate the rooms. A delicious two course luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith were honored at a surprise party Friday night by a group of their friends. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Short, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Titus, Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Helliwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Mills. Gifts were given Mr. and Mrs. Smith for their home. The evening was spent with music and cards. Delicious refreshment were served.

Mrs. W. O. Wilson entertained Friday with a carousal party in honor of her daughter Wilberta's (Continued on page 3.)

Roake?"
With an expression of annoyance the inspector hurried out into the hall and returned immediately. His grimaces indicated that he was curbing an outburst of ugly temper.

"Oze to you, Miss Lathrop," he mouthed. "The food is still there."
"And the tray?" said Margaret sweetly. "Surely my cousin didn't eat the tray and leave the food?"
"Of course the tray is there," snapped Roake. "You are playing the giddy monkey with me, but I shall get you yet, my lady, as an accessory, if you are not careful."

Margaret surveyed the mean face critically. "I don't suppose you care what you say when there are no witnesses," she remarked. "If, for instance, I were to report your threats to the commission at Scotland yard, you would deny that you had used them?"
"Roake saw that he had gone too far, and he apologized with a clumsy attempt at geniality.

she said, "unless the coroner is an absolute idiot, he will wonder why my cousin will not have returned home when Blissett's murder is reported in the newspapers."
"Perhaps Sir Guy will return before the inquest," grinned Roake. He felt that that was a trap worthy of his acumen.
But Margaret was too wary to fall into it. "I am sure I hope he will," she declared. "It is a large order for a girl to have a murder in the house and no man to help her."

CHAPTER XIV.
Margaret sought relief from the ghastly memories of the morning in a stroll to the village.
There she met "The Reverend Charles Danvers," who quietly suggested a walk along a little frequented road. There she confided to him all that she knew about the night's mystery, and told him about Guy's presence.
To her intense relief he was not angry with her for her silence as to Sir Guy's return and concealment.

Thousands Are Finding These Startling Star Facts True

Motor Performance that ranks Star Six with Highest-Priced Sixes! In your demonstration ride, you will be greeted by a mighty flooding of practical power—Star Six will do things worthy of a $2000 car. No wonder the Coast is alive with Star Six enthusiasm!

The ratio of economy to performance is nothing short of remarkable! 60 miles per hour, 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline. These facts come as a shock to most drivers, but that's why Star Six is the raging news of every Auto Row.

Genuinely pleasant riding ease is engineered into the Star Six! Not only 90 inches of soft-cradling, semi-elliptic springs for the 107 inch wheelbase, not only biggest-cushion full balloon tires, but hand-tailored Spanish leather upholstery of "Morris Chair Comfort." Star Six riding is the riding of cars that cost hundreds of dollars more.
