One of the charming affairs of the week was the benefit card party given Wednesday afternoon and evening in the new Legion club rooms by the officers of the American Legion auxiliary for the benefit of the American Legion drum corps. The rooms were artistically decorated with myrtle, Oregon grape, daffodils and ferns. Hanging baskets were used effectively with the other decorations. Five hundred and bridge were played. Delicious refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served. The officers who were sponsors for the affair were Mrs. Vinal Randall, president; Mrs. Ray Nelson, vice president; Mrs. Max Bird, secretary and Mrs. Herbert Whitlock, treasurer.

Mrs. H. A. Miller entertained the O. L. H. club Tuesday afternoon. Invited guests of the club were Mrs. Clara Burkholder, Miss Belle Burkholder, Mrs. O. M. Kem, Miss Myrtle Kem, Mrs. E. W. Ames, Mrs. Hiram Griggs, Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. S. V. Allison and Mrs. George Jacobsen. The affair was in keeping with St. Patrick's day and each guest was presented with a bow of green ribbon. Bridge was the diversion. Hyacinths and daffodils were used as decorations. The dainty two course luncheon was in keeping with the St. Patrick's idea.

Mrs. H. A. Hagen entertained the Elmarites club at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Gray Goose Wednesday. Table decorations were red and white carnations. Favors were suggestive of St. Patrick's day. Invited guests of the club were Mrs. W. A. Garoutte and Mrs. E. W. Frans. Following the luncheon the club went to the home of Mrs. Hagen, where bridge was played. Mrs. Charles Hall won high honors. The rooms were effectively decorated with sweetpeas and carnations.

The Ladies' aid of the Presbyterian church met Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors with Mrs. W. J. White, Mrs. C. A. Bartell, Mrs. J. P. Currin, Mrs. James Robinson and Mrs. V. W. Shaw as hostesses. At the business session the following officers were elected: Mrs. Charles Adams, president; Mrs. E. W. Ames, vice president; Mrs. James P. Graham, secretary-treasurer. A St. Patrick's day program was given and Mrs. George Matthews sang an Irish solo. An Irish luncheon was served.

The Tuesday Evening Study club met this week in the city library rooms, taking as its study topic famous women writers. Mrs. Charles Adams gave a comprehensive review of the lives of Edith Wharton and Ida Tarbell and spoke briefly on their most popular books. Mrs. George Matthews told of two of Oregon's noted women writers, Eva Emery Dye and Anne Shannon Monroe, and their best books.

Mrs. C. S. Roberts was hostess to the Tounjors Prete club Tuesday evening. Following a short business session the members spent the evening learning a new type of art work. Mrs. Schofield Stewart was an invited guest and assisted the hostess in serving a dainty two-course luncheon. Bouquets of daffodils were room decorations. A radio concert was the entertainment during the supper hour.

Mrs. S. S. Lasswell was hostess to the Tuesday Bridge club at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Gray Goose Tuesday. Invited guests were Mrs. A. W. Helliwell and Mrs. N. J. Nelson Jr. Wild Flowers and daffodils were used as decorations. Mrs. Schofield Stewart won high honors at bridge.

The Women's Research club was entertained at the home of Mrs. D. A. Forbes Tuesday afternoon. A study of China was taken up with Mrs. Van Osdel as leader and a round table discussion was held. Room decorations were daffodils and plum blossoms.

Mrs. Herbert Eakin will be hostess to the past matrons club Monday. She will entertain in place of Mrs. Nelson Durham, who is ill. The W. C. T. U. will give a special program at its meeting Friday afternoon in the Methodist church parlors.

Mrs. N. E. Compton entertained the Social Twelve with a 1 o'clock luncheon today. Election of officers was held.

Mrs. Albert Hull will be hostess to the Latham Community club at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Fish Candles

A curious custom exhibited at the Royal Horticultural society's show, the "Bushman's candle," so called because it burns when the stems are green and filled with waxy sap, has a marine parallel in the candle fish, which frequents the western Pacific.

It cannot be broiled or fried, as it almost completely melts into oil. When dried it may be used as a torch or candle. The extraction of its oil is a thriving industry on the coast near San Francisco.—London Tit-Bits.

No Contrast

The Ritzup hotel was chosen by the Van Wolf's for their second honeymoon trip to New York. Thirty years before they had stopped at the Astor, and ever since had been discussing on the wonderful meals served at the time.

Two days of Ritzup dining prompted this remark from Mrs. Van Wolf: "Henry, the meals at this hotel are just simply awful." "Yes," answered the lesser half, "and we left home for a change, too."

Egotism That Might Be Termed Sublime

Standing passively by the dancing floor he glanced languidly over the young females that ogled him as they passed. Carelessly he brushed the suspicion of a stray hair back into place. There was Loretta—a giddy thing in April blue—and, as usual, trying to vamp him. He met her glance coldly and pulled softly at his tie—it would bring the red out a little more in the knot.

Julie—a creamy bit of insanity—a stinging reply finished her meaningless babble. He wondered a little, though, if he had blended the face powder properly. Nanette—a drab splurge of colors—was simply not noticed. He pulled the handkerchief out a little from his pocket. Oh, well, he was tired of being admired, and it was boring to be constantly avoiding their praise. He strolled into the smoking room, pulled out his silver cigarette case—gold was so gaudy—tapped a long, thin cigarette reflectively, lit it and walked over to the mirror. He studied himself a moment. His features stiffened, he bit his lip. Finally, his eyes blazing, he hurled his cigarette case at the glass. "Liar," he muttered and turned and walked out of the room.—Notre Dame Juggler.

Particles in Millions Make Up Human Body

Science has made one of its greatest discoveries in the last 15 years. It is that every kind of substance on earth, including the human body, is made up of invisible particles of positive and negative electricity, which the scientists have labeled "protons" and "electrons." While these particles grouped into atoms are too tiny to be seen, scientists have been able to count them by the flashes of light they give off when projected against a screen under a magnifying glass. These tiny units of electricity have an enormous attraction for each other, which is lucky for us, for that is what knits matter together. In fact, a Yale scientist calculates that if all the positive particles of electricity in a cubic inch of solid matter could be separated and put in one pile, and all the negative particles of electricity contained in the same cubic inch of matter could be similarly separated, that the force of attraction between the two piles, provided they were placed one inch apart, would be thirty-six times a hundred times a million times a million times a million tons. And hard as that is to believe he is probably right about it.—Capper's Weekly.

Dances Worth Seeing

Behind the pantomime of most Javanese dancing lingers the inspiration of Indian heroic legend, permeated in the Sanskrit epics. But distinctively the Javanese are the dancers' costumes of batik, silk and brocade, with fantastic gilded head-dresses. Javanese, too, is the melodious music of the dances.

The "siva," or dance, gives perennial joy to the pleasure-loving, flower-crowned, tattooed Samoan youth. In his sun-soaked paradise. Clad in balloon-like layers of "tapa" the befeathered Fijian woman performs a ritualistic dance in the best Fijian tradition.

The Solomon Islander's dancing is dramatically barbaric, recalling the savagery and cannibalism still secretly indulged in by the lively Islanders. Disciplined, not spontaneous, is the dancing of the Japanese "geisha," with her gay, butterfly kimono.—Asia Magazine.

He Didn't Pay

A man commissioned an artist to paint his portrait, with the stipulation that he need not accept the picture unless it was like him. When the painting was finished, he was not satisfied, and refused to pay. The painter sued him, and another artist was called into court to give an expert opinion.

"Do you see that picture of my client?" asked the counsel for the defendant. "No," answered the witness; "I do not." "There it is!" said the man of law, pointing to the canvas. "Is that a portrait?" "Certainly not!" answered the expert; "it's a map of him."

Prehistoric Sweden

Hidden in the biggest forest on the Swedish island of Oeland the remains of a Fifth or Sixth century town at Ismanstony castle are now being laid bare. They were totally overgrown with weeds and bushes. A circular wall of limestone over 400 yards long has been revealed, and on the enclosed area traces of 90 houses have been found, the majority of which were built up against the wall, while the others were clustered in the center. Some of the houses were divided into two or more rooms and had an arbor-like gabled porch.

The Art of Life

We live amid surfaces, and the true art of life is to skate well on them. Under the oldest, moldiest conventions a man of native force prospers just as well as in the newest world, and that by skill of handling and treatment. He can take hold anywhere. Life itself is a mixture of power and form and will not bear the least excess of either. To finish the moment, to find the journey's end in every step of the road, to live the greatest number of good hours, is wisdom.—Emerson.

Identified

"A man is easy to read," said Roberts to nobody in particular as he and a few of his friends lounged in the window of the club one evening. Just then a street car stopped in front of the window, and Perkins and his wife and sister got off. "Which one is his wife?" some one wanted to know. Nobody could answer until Roberts remarked: "She is the woman he didn't help off the car."

Tasty Good Things

CUT into rather thick slices boiled sweet potatoes. Place in a baking pan with three or four tablespoons of water or barely enough to cover the bottom of the dish. Spread over the potato slices a little melted butter, then cover with granulated sugar and bake until the sugar melts.

Current Jelly Sauce.—Cook one onion in three tablespoons of butter until just browned; add one bay leaf, one stalk of celery, chopped, two tablespoons of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of black pepper, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one pimento, cut into small squares, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and set aside after blending well for an hour or two. Make a sauce of one-fourth of a cupful of flour, the same of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of cream and a cupful of chicken broth. Add the seasoned ingredients and let stand over hot water to become hot. Serve from a chafing dish or on hot buttered bread.

Hot Chicken Salad.—Mix one pint of cooked chicken cut into cubes, one cupful of peas, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of black pepper, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one pimento, cut into small squares, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and set aside after blending well for an hour or two. Make a sauce of one-fourth of a cupful of flour, the same of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of cream and a cupful of chicken broth. Add the seasoned ingredients and let stand over hot water to become hot. Serve from a chafing dish or on hot buttered bread.

Baked Tongue.—Put a fresh tongue in a kettle, cover with boiling water salted; let cook slowly two hours. While hot remove the tongue from the water and take off the skin. Slice a small onion and brown in a tablespoonful of butter, add one-half cupful each of carrot and celery cut into small pieces; stir until well blended, then turn into a roasting pan, pour over about five cupfuls of water in which the tongue was cooked. Cover and bake in a slow oven two hours.

Oyster plant added to a fish chowder makes a most tasty dish, giving an oyster flavor to the chowder, which is well liked.

Hitch on, Pull and Push. Did you ever hear of a farmer buying a binder, and then finding fault with the dealer because it didn't go out and cut his wheat? No. He hitches on to his binder, and guides and directs it, and the job is done.

It is just so with your cooperative organization. It will serve you just so far as you hitch on to it and give it the benefit of your thought and cooperation. The amount of personal interest that the farmer gives the cooperative organization to which he belongs will be the measure of the benefits which the organization will render to agriculture.

SUMMONS.

In the circuit court of the state of Oregon for Lane county. Stephen E. Crabb, plaintiff, vs. Hilma Crabb, defendant.

To Hilma Crabb, the above named defendant: In the name of the state of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons and if you fail so to appear and answer, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in plaintiff's complaint, to-wit: for a decree of the court dissolving the marriage contract and bonds of matrimony existing between you and the plaintiff, on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

This summons is served by publication by order of the Hon. G. F. Skipworth, judge of the above named court, dated the 16th day of February, 1926, and the date of the first publication of this summons will be on the 18th day of February, 1926, and the date of the last publication will be on the 1st day of April, 1926.
