ON KEEPING NAME OUT OF PAPER

Some amusing things happen in the life of an editor. Some would be more amusing were there not a serious side to them.

About the most common thing an editor is asked is to "please keep my name out of the paper" in connection with some news item.

The means taken to keep a name out of a paper are various. Sometimes the editor is threatened.

Often friendship is played upon.

Then there is the fellow who thinks that to keep something out of a paper, all that is necessary is to ask.

None give much consideration to the rights of the reader.

All the characters in the category are revealed in the fellows who have such a dislike to seeing their names in cold type.

A few days ago a young fellow asked that his name be not mentioned in connection with a minor law violation.

The editor explained as courteously as possible that it was the policy of the paper to publish all such news regardless of who might be hit, that others before him had made the same request and had been refused, that a newspaper can play no favorites, also that nothing creates respect for law like the certainty of publicity when the law is violated.

Then the one who had come to ask a favor made a sneering remark.

Following which the editor made some remarks which may not have been courteous but which probably did more good than the ones which were courteous.

Here is a good rule for those to follow who wish to keep their names out of the paper: Do noting that will make the kind of news that you do not care to see your name connected with.

If all will follow that rule, the editor won't have to refuse requests that news be left out.

A weighty three-cornered discussion is being carried on by the Cottage Grove Sentinel, the Corvallis Gazette-Times and the Portland Spectator concerning the contour and utility of the legs of Elbert Bede, editor of the Sentinel. While the contemporaries referred to have plainly taken a leaf from the magazine of H. L. Mencken and are trying to get themselves barred from the mails for the sake of the advertising they would thus receive, we anticipate for them a complete lack of success in this regard.—Eugene Guard.

We'll all be barred all right if Hugh Hume ever gets the picture of those nether extremities which he wishes to print on the first page of the Spectator and Claude Ingalls tells in appropriately descriptive words what he thinks of 'em.

A Coos bay cat is credited with having saved a railway trestle by having made sounds which awakened a Southern Pacific employe, who summoned fire fighters. Yes, we've been awakened that way many times, but nothing like saving a railway bridge ever came of it.

A man's trousers, pants, shoes and pajamas were found recently outside a Eugene hospital. Is that a way they have of keeping their patients inside?

One senatorial candidate has broadened his platform. He is really too outstanding a candidate to have to "take the air."

There's not much difference between love of self and love of self.

Nokes Has Volunteer Potatoes

John Nokes reported that yesterday he dug several hills of new potatoes. Early Rose volunteers.
Nokes was digging some old potatoes and found the new in with the old.

Delegates to Conduct Services

Sunday evening services of the Methodist church will be in charge of the delegates who attended the Epworth League convention held last week end in Medford. Reports of the delegates will be given and Pastor John A. Linn will speak on various phases of the convention. Those who attended the convention were Pastor John A.
Linn, Pearl Monroe, Donna Nichols, Raphael Morgan and Harvey Seaman.

Lorane Road Work Starts

The county is preparing to finish the work it has agreed to do upon the south Lorane road. A rock crusher was started yesterday and rock is to be spread on the east side of the mountain. On the west side the road will be bladed for summer traffic only. The Cottage Grove chamber of commerce is assisting with this work.

Haldeman Baby Dies

The remains of Frederic Adolphus Haldeman, who died Sunday from whooping cough at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.
Chris Haldeman, were taken Tuesday to Kerby, Ore., for burial.
The boy was aged six months, three days. The parents, Mrs. Chris Haldeman, grandmother; and Laura and Ross Haldeman, aunt and uncle, accompanied the body.

O'Hara Will Leave

W. H. O'Hara, who has been with the Cottage Grove Motor company here since its establishment several months ago, will leave with-Albany. The business, including the Chevrolet agency, will be continued by Hanson & Mauling. Mr.

Hanson and Mr. Mauling have been partners with Mr. O'Hara.

Miss Beth Konkel, executive secretary of the Lane County Public Health association, will be at the meeting of the Cottage Grove public health group to be held Monday in the southeast room of the high school gymnasium. Various health projects will be discussed and plans for further health work made.

Flueard Sustains Fractured Jaw

John Flueard, employe of the Bohemia Lumber company, sustained a fractured jaw Tuesday in a logging camp accident. The breaking of a line sent a log flying that hit him on the jaw. He was taken to a Eugene hospital for treatment.

Baptist and Christian churches have changed the hour of Sunday her daughter, a delicate child, Mrs. Ransom Cone; Mrs. Clayton sweetheart, Mrs. E. E. Cone; Elizabeth Burton, Frank Clayton's sweetheart, Mrs. C. E. Umphrey; Kitty, the maid, Mrs. Byron Reed.

The play will be repeated Monday evening when the losing side of the aid will entertain all church members at a social gathering. Mrs.
Glen Haney gave several vocal selections. More than $145 was raised by the aid, the winning side turning in more than $76. The quoto was $125. Decorations were roses and peonies. Ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. Menzle Wheeler, Mrs. N. L.
Bolton and Mrs. Ed Ashby were hostesses Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wheeler in Gow-dysville at a surprise party honoring Mrs. Alma Horning and Mrs.
Hazel Ashby Bolton, recent brides.

tained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. K. Metcalf. Red carnations were used as room decorations and the centerpiece for the table was a combination of snapdragons and sweetpeas in pastel shades. A dainty luncheon was served.

Instead of regular practice, members of the choir of the Christian church were entertained Wednesday evening at a weiner roast at the home of Mrs. Albert Hull.

YOUNG FOLK SUGGEST
HEBRON CHURCH SUBJECT

At the request of the young people of the community, Pastor Allan G. Searle of the Hebron Church of God will speak at the Sunday forenoon service on "Love, Courtship and Marriage."
The church is planning for a concert and bazaar to be given May 14. It is hoped that sufficient money will be raised at this entertainment to purchase a piano for the church and to make some alterations to the building. A mock wedding and an oyster supper will be features of the next church entertainment.

PAVING OF MADISON IS ORDERED BY ORDINANCE

An ordinance for the paving of east Madison avenue was passed at Monday night's meeting of the city council. This probably will be the only paving to be done here this year, but no other street is more in need of paving. The width of the hard surface was fixed at 28 feet, which probably will make it possible to get bids at the price which the property owners expressed themselves as willing to pay.

Order to Study

Culp Creek, April 28.—(Special.) —Pupils are giving up 30 minutes of their morning play period to extra lessons in order to complete the prescribed school course.

wrecks in the old days probably belonged to the horses.
