COTTAGE GROVE DEFEATS CRESWELL IN SIX INNINGS

The Cottage Grove high school baseball team defeated Creswell 18 to 4 in a six-inning game played Tuesday at Creswell. The local team had everything its own way.

George Scheufele was the star slugger, getting three hits in five times up, one of these being a home run. Creswell got but three hits off Huston Dunn. Creswell went to pieces in the fourth inning and Cottage Grove scored 10 runs off five hits. A well executed double play in the last inning, Chestnut to Roy Scheufele, spoiled Creswell's last chance of adding to its score. Runners were on second and third and the double play cleaned the sacks.

Batteries were: Cottage Grove, Dunn and Gordon; Creswell, Petty and York.

The locals will play the Methodist twilight league team this afternoon.

In Valhalla

tried to freeze him with a stare. "It's needless to say, Mr. Blake, that you're forgetting yourself. Such a question is an insult. Let me pass, please."

"Do you love that cub you smuggled aboard the yacht and turned loose on this island to spy on me?" he asked, stepping in front of her to block the way.

For a second his blazing eyes and flushed face startled her, and the answer that sprang to her lips died unexpressed.

"Oh, I know he's here," he continued, sneering. "I've met him on the island. If he's your lover, Miss Alice, you'll have trouble in finding him."

"Whom are you talking about?" she managed to ask.

For reply, the man smiled craftily, with a gleam of triumph in his eyes.

"Very odd that you shouldn't know," he said finally. "Very innocent, aren't you, Miss Alice! You haven't seen him since that day he fished your bag out of the river? You didn't send him down to the yacht with a fake package so he could get aboard and hide? Of course not. You're innocent of—"

"Please stop, Mr. Blake!" she interrupted. "You're getting quite silly. If you mean that I'm pretending not to know that the man who picked my bag from the river isn't here on the island, I'll save you further speculation. I know he's here. I saw him yesterday—had a talk with him. But I didn't smuggle him aboard, nor help him to get down here. Will that satisfy you?"

"No, it won't!" came the blunt reply. "I don't believe you!"

"Thank you!" was the rejoinder. "Now let me pass. I've taken enough of your insults. When uncle's better—"

Liberty

PROCLAIM liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof—this was the legend inscribed on what was later to be known as the Liberty Bell, when it was recast in Philadelphia in 1753.

Twenty-three years later this prophetic admonition was carried out when the now historic bell heralded the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

A century after this assertion of American liberty, Alexander Graham Bell gave to America and to the world, in the telephone, an instrumentality of a new form of freedom. Limitations which had confined the scope of the spoken word were swept away. Doors of isolation were thrown open. In his contacts with his fellows, man had achieved a new independence.

For fifty years this emancipation of speech has undergone an unceasing evolution into a larger and ever larger liberty. Year by year man's voice has reached out over greater and greater distances until today it speeds from coast to coast, borne on the wires of a nation-wide telephone system.
