Storage Binders. The Senti-

Society

Mrs. Cleo Morelock, Mrs. R. R. Meeks, Miss Evelyn Veatch and Mrs. Sam Veatch were hostesses Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. T. Smith at a shower, honoring Miss Hazel Swanson, bride-elect. About 40 were present. A bride's cake was baked by Mrs. Roy Short and Mrs. Smith. Richard Smith, dressed as a cupid, brought the gifts in a pink and white decorated wagon to the honor guest. Pink and white flowers were used as room decorations and a pink and white color scheme was carried out in the table decorations.

Mrs. J. H. Chambers was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the women's foreign missionary society of the Methodist church. The lesson was on the subject, "Prayers," and Mrs. N. E. Compton and Mrs. E. E. Cone were the leaders. A leaflet on the work of Miss Perkins, a missionary in India, was read. Mrs. Peary, one of the members, had met Miss Perkins in Iowa. The meeting was held on the porch and the hostess served watermelon.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Compton entertained with a dinner party Wednesday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stanley of Earlham, Ia., who visited them yesterday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Ashworth of Eugene and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Leonard of this city.

Mrs. A. C. Spriggs will entertain Friday afternoon for the W. C. T. U. The program will be: Devotionals, piano duet, Madelle Beidler and Frances Mackin; violin solo, Ramona Spriggs; address, Pastor J. D. Chappelle of the Baptist church on "Conditions in the East;" business session, and offering for budget.

The American Legion and the American Legion auxiliary will entertain Sunday with an all-day picnic at Boswell Springs for members and their families. The organizations will provide coffee and members will bring basket lunches. They plan to leave at 9 o'clock from Legion hall.

The Elmarites club will hold its annual picnic this afternoon at Anlauf. Mrs. Harold Dugan of California is a special guest of the club.

Anna Japon entertained several friends last Monday with a card party in celebration of her birthday anniversary.

Early Newspapers Met
Opposition of Church

The first newspaper was produced when written accounts of the imperial armies of Rome were sent to the generals commanding in all parts of the provinces.

In 1569 the first official news sheets were published in Venice. They were written by hand and exhibited in public places. People paid the small coin of a gazetta to read them. Hence the name. The church opposed the enterprise, and Pope Gregory even prosecuted the editors.

The oldest form of newspaper in England was in the beginning of the reign of James II—the so-called News-Letters, written by hand, and sent by post to subscribers in the country. In 1709 the first daily paper, the Daily Courant, was issued.

The oldest of the London daily papers, the Morning Post, is the oldest of existing morning papers. Founded in 1772, it was followed about 1788 by the first daily evening paper, the Star.

The Times first appeared in 1788 as a continuation of the Daily Universal Register. Its originator and owner, Mr. John Walter, succeeded in 1814 in printing the Times by steam.

In 1845 the Daily News was founded, with the help of Charles Dickens. It was the first paper to lower its price from six pence to three pence (twelve to six cents).

Midnight Sun to Be Seen Only in Summer

The midnight sun is visible with in the Arctic circle and at near midsummer. The sun is then observed to skirt the horizon without slipping below it. This results from the inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of its orbit. The elevation of the pole at any given spot is equal to the latitude of that spot; and the sun's polar distance on midsummer day being 90° degrees, the sun can barely graze the horizon. Still further north the midnight sun is observed for some days before and after midsummer; and at the pole itself a day of six months begins at the spring equinox, the sun circling at first round the rim of the horizon, then in gradually more elevated circles parallel to it. At the North cape, latitude 78° degrees north, the midnight sun is visible from May 12 to July 29. At no place in England has the sun been visible at midnight.

Apples Are Best

Two beliefs have been dispelled by a statement made by a doctor in a recent lecture. We used to believe that the only way to preserve a child's teeth was to encourage it to use a tooth-brush vigorously. Some of us also imagined that while apples were food for health, it was unwise to eat them last thing at night. Now, however, this doctor tells us that a piece of apple after each meal and at night is better than any tooth-brush. It will certainly be more popular in the nursery. But the doctor's further advice—that children between five and ten should visit the dentist once every three months—may not commend itself quite so much to the kiddies.

Jenner Highly Honored

Jenner, the celebrated physician who made vaccination popular and insisted on the efficacy of fighting smallpox in this way, suddenly found the doors of royalty open to him late in the eighteenth century when his method was held to be proved sufficiently valuable to attract the interest of the populace. So great was his reputed success in saving the lives of thousands after he had demonstrated vaccination that he became a very famous man and not only was received by royalty in all European countries but received a large grant of money from the British parliament.—Montreal Family Herald.

Led Move for Freedom

The first step toward making the British house of commons a really independent and powerful legislative body was taken at the instigation of Sir Edward Coke, who was born February 1, 1552. It was this eminent lawyer who led the commons in the decisive action of entering on the journal of the house the immortal petition of 1621, insisting on the freedom of parliamentary discussion and the liberty of speech of every member.

Cities' Water Consumption

Rome uses more water than any other city in the world, according to figures cited by London Tit-Bits. But this does not mean, necessarily, that Romans are cleaner or thirstier than others, it is pointed out. The high consumption is due to the fact that Rome has 430 public fountains.

The consumption of water per capita in Rome is 110 gallons a day. New York is second with 84½ gallons. London consumes 35½ gallons and Paris uses 75 gallons.

He Was Willing

We had just finished luncheon on one of the spring cleaning days. I was tired after a long day doing housework. I said to friend husband, "Dear, won't you please go in the parlor and straighten things out?"

"And he replied complacently, "Willingly, dear. I'll go right in and straighten myself out lengthwise on the couch."—Exchange.

Remedy for a Remedy

A household magazine says a room may be freed from tobacco odor by mixing formaldehyde, lemon oil, eucalyptus oil and alcohol and allowing it to evaporate slowly. This odor in turn may be eradicated with a strong cigar.—Detroit News.

Offer Good Excuses
for That First Lie

"It was this way," said the Doctor. "My star patient was getting better. Rather than lose him, I decided an operation was necessary. You may call that lying if you like, but the operation was necessary—for me."

"My client confessed his guilt to me," said the Lawyer, "but for professional reasons it seemed unwise to let the case go by default. So I took it into court and won. For all we know, my client may have lied to me. At all events, I needed the money."

"My first lie," said the Psychoanalyst, "came as the result of an accumulation of inhibitions and repressions dating back to infancy. Need I go farther? I love the truth, but, oh, you libido!"

"My first lie," said the Diplomat, "was merely preliminary to my second, which as you may recall, enabled me to pull a nation out of a most embarrassing predicament. Was I justified? History shall be my judge."

"I never tell a lie," said the Chronic Liar, "unless it is absolutely necessary. And," he added, thoughtfully, "it almost always is."—Kansas City Star.

Nerves of Invalids
Soothed by Pictures

Art is being used successfully in the treatment of nervous diseases in a Philadelphia hospital. Pictures in proper color, which exhibit to patients, have a soothing effect. It has been found. Reds and other "hot colors" are not used, since they disturb the nervous system. In some of the more turbulent cases it has been necessary to hang the paintings out of reach of the patients.

The basic idea is that of the emotion being affected by color, so great care is exercised in selecting the right pictures.

"The colors we find most advantageous," said a hospital attendant, "are the cool ones. These bring a calming influence. For this reason landscapes, seascapes and mountain scenes are preferable. The wave-wash on a New England coast, a sunny pastoral scene, purple white clouds striding mountain peaks, all reveal peace, stillness, rest."

Explaining "Sea Serpent"

It can be said that many of the stories of the sea serpent can be explained as being due to mistaken interpretations of large fishes, dolphins and whales; but there are two or three well-authenticated statements, such as that reported by the warship Daedalus of Ohina, and another reported from Lord Crawford's yacht, which seem to resemble prehistoric types.

There is nothing impossible in the suggestion that there should be animals living of which we have no knowledge, but there is a great difference between the possible and the probable. There are, for instance, giant squids, which have enormous feelers, and which, if raised above the water, would present somewhat of the appearance attributed to the sea serpent.—London Mail.

Many Self-Taught Men

"That middle-aged man who just went out came in about a year and a half ago," said a Detroit bookseller to a news reporter. Then he bought an arithmetic. Later he came in after algebras and geometry. Today he dropped in for a trigonometry and key. I venture to say when that man completes his mathematical study all dug out by himself, he will have a more thorough knowledge than most college graduates. You'd be surprised to learn how many of these self-taught men are in Detroit delving into every sort of subject. Which is not strange. But it is easier and quicker to get it in college if time and means are to be had.

From Personal Observation

One of the questions put to a class of rural adults was: "In the sentence, 'The bird flew over the house,' is 'flew' a regular or an irregular verb?" This proved a stickler for the class, but finally one man ventured an answer. Said he, "If the bird that flew over the house was a wild goose, it went in a straight, regular line, so the verb is regular; but if it was a woodpecker, then it went in a crooked, zigzag line, and so the verb is irregular."

All but the grammar-bound examiner was satisfied with this rational explanation.

Expert With Knife

Despite the sneers of the super-perfect, the great art of eating with a knife is not lost in America. One 100 per center, observed on a Pennsylvania diner of St. Louis, whose pockets bulged with all contracts, did it with infinite dexterity, conveying semi-liquid morsels to his mouth without losing a drop. He also spurned napkin and finger bowl. There was really no call for either. He had not mussed himself up a bit.—Outlook.

When Two Are Enough

A woman looking for an apartment, said to a janitor one day: "I hope there are no barking dogs in any of the adjoining flats?" "Oh, no, ma'am," said the janitor. "Not on your life, ma'am."

"I guess I'll take the place, then," said the woman, with a sigh of relief. "You see, I've got two dogs of my own that bark like fury, and I really couldn't stand any more."

Ancient African Kingdom

Monomotapa was a former native kingdom of East Africa in the Mozambique-Zambesi region. It was visited by the Portuguese in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Nothing very definite is known concerning it.

Streets Are to Be Paved.

An ordinance for the paving of central Madison avenue was adopted at Tuesday's session of the city council and advertisement was ordered for the paving of short pieces of Q street, J street, Villard court and Gibbs avenue.

"By the Queen's Command!"

The ancient Queen—with all her wealth and power and her horde of faithful slaves—could not command one-half the luxuries and delicacies that are matters-of-course to the average American housewife. The marvel of modern merchandising methods has enabled every-day folks to regularly enjoy many good things that even the most powerful potentate of old could not have obtained.

Dispensers of foods have kept pace with modern progress and Skaggs Stores are proud to have had a part in bringing about this desirable condition. The thought that we are rendering a real economic service is a constant spur to increased efficiency on the part of our entire personnel. We all earnestly enjoy doing good work.
