HIGH SPEED RESULTS IN WRECKING OF TWO CARS

An automobile from Portland, driven by a woman, was badly smashed in an accident Friday on Pacific highway north of here. The car, which was struck by a south bound stage, swerved completely around and left the pavement on the opposite side of the road, landing in a ditch. The woman was accompanied by her mother and daughter and all were shaken and bruised but not seriously hurt.

The driver of the automobile which was bound north claimed that the stage crowded her car but the stage driver said that the woman was driving at an excessive rate and apparently lost control of her car.

A second wreck on the highway north of here occurred Friday afternoon when a sedan left the highway near Saginaw. A broken wheel was the only damage. The name of the driver was not learned. It is thought that the car was being driven at high speed and could not make the turn on a curve.

ACREAGE TRACTS SOLD COUNTY TO BUILD ROAD

Three tracts of the W. H. Oslander property northeast of the city have been sold recently through J. A. Lang. One was a 10-acre tract and two were 2 1/2-acre tracts. Houses are being built on the two smaller ones.

The county commissioners have promised that the road through the property will be graded and graveled, some of the work to start this fall. The crossing over the Southern Pacific tracks on North Lane street will be eliminated in the spring and the road will cross under the tracks near the railroad bridge. It is planned to have this road connect with east Main street near the city park.

William A. Fisher Dies.
William Allan Fisher, who had been a resident of Lynx Hollow for 20 years, died Saturday in a Eugene hospital. He was aged 64 years, 10 months, 5 days.

Mr. Fisher was born in Sylva, N. C., October 16, 1861. He is survived by his widow, five children, Lawrence Fisher, Twin, Wash.; Henry Fisher, Snoqualmie Falls, Wash.; Mrs. Delbert Bennett, Wendling, and Nora Fisher and Owen Fisher of Walker; three grandchildren, two brothers and five sisters. Mr. Fisher was a farmer. Funeral services were held at 2:30 this afternoon from the Walker church, Pastor Morningstar of Drain officiating. Interment was in the Walker cemetery.

Presbyterian Rally Wednesday

The Presbyterian church will hold a supper and rally Wednesday evening in the church parlors and more than 300 invitations have been issued. Pastor Cameron invites everyone either closely or remotely connected with the church to attend whether he or she has received an invitation or not. A cafeteria supper will be served at 6:30 and a short musical program will be given. Brief addresses will be given by George Knowles, president of the men's discussion class, F. E. Mendenhall, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Pastor Cameron.

Union Services Are Held

Pastor J. D. Chappelle was the speaker at the union church services held Sunday evening in the Methodist tabernacle. His subject was "The Right Use of a Wrong Life." The last of the union services for the summer will be held next Sunday, Pastor Duncan P. Cameron to be the speaker. A union service of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches was held Sunday forenoon in the chapel car. Pastor Chappelle spoke on "The Inspired Evaluation of the Inner Life."

Rains Help Fruit Crop

Rains of the past week have been more beneficial than harmful to fruit and if there is not too much orchard owners will be thankful, according to C. E. Stewart, county fruit inspector. "There has been some appearance of brown rot in the prune orchards but not much and the slight damage is more than offset by the benefits," Mr. Stewart said.

Entertainment at Hebron Church

The Christian Endeavor of the Hebron Christian church will give a program Friday, August 27, in the Farmers' Union hall to raise money for the purchase of new song books for the church. Readings, vocal numbers and instrumental music will be included in the program. A main feature will be a reading by little six-year-old Dorothy May Elsonsohn of Eugene.

As a pin-prick in the undue inflation of some chap's overweening conceit is always amusing, the more so, because everyone has been bored with braggarts of some sort or another, this scrap of conversation from the Erin of New York City is reprinted from Life: "Well," observe Murphy, as he chatted, "there's one thing Oj can say—Oj's a self-made man." "It is bastin' ye are?" inquired Pooley, "or apologizin'?"

In "Lord Grenfell's Memoirs" there occurs this story, told to Lord Grenfell by a surgeon that had practiced in South Africa: A medical friend of his nearly lost his practice with a Boer family for prescribing ablutions for an elderly Dutch woman. Her husband strongly remonstrated, saying: "Young man, you are a stranger in this country and recommend new customs contrary to our usage. I have been married to my frau for 35 years, during which time water has scarcely touched her body! You are ignorant, sir, of our mode of life, and do not understand our wants! Begone!"

President Anderson of the Anti-Saloon league was talking about a campaign that had failed. "We know human nature too well for that," he smiled rather bitterly and resumed: "Once a boy got vaccinated. The medico as usual prepared to put a protecting white band round the boy's coat sleeve above the vaccination, but the youngster said: 'Put it on the other arm, doctor.' 'What for?' asked the doctor. 'I put it on the sore arm, of course, so that the boys at school won't hit it.' 'Put it on the other arm, doctor,' the lad persisted. 'You don't know the boys at our school!'"

Secretary Herbert Hoover said at a dinner party: "Bolshevism has been tried and it has turned out to be a failure. Lenine won't admit this though. Lenine is like the hypochondriac who, after insisting for seven years that he was made of glass, announced one morning that he was dead. Dead, eh? This was rather serious. The hypochondriac would be an intolerable nuisance if he could not be reasoned out of his new delusion. Accordingly the doctor began to reason with him. 'Dead men don't bleed, do they?' said the doctor. 'Of course they don't,' said the corpse. The doctor took out a lancet and cut the hypochondriac's finger a little. 'There,' he said, as the blood trickled out. 'Look at that blood. That proves that you aren't dead.' 'Not at all,' said the hypochondriac, as he wrapped his handkerchief around his bleeding finger. 'It proves that dead men do bleed!'"

While Amos Jones was no Napoleon, his tactics whenever a drink was in prospect were invariably sound. On one occasion, as he was rushing from his house, his wife asked, "Where are you going in such a hurry?" "Over to Robinson's house," was the reply. "He just telephoned to ask if I could lend him a corkscrew, and I'm taking it myself." "Couldn't you send it?" "My dear wife," said Mr. Jones in incisive tones, "the question you ask indicates why most women are unfit to lead armies or make decisions involving millions in business deals. When the psychological moment arrives, they don't know what to do."

London policemen have a wonderful knack of summing up a situation without loss of words or of temper. A prosperous-looking owner-driver swung round a west-end corner of his wrong side of the street refuge, and a constable pulled him up. He was ready with excuses, but the policeman shook his head. "You've got a nice little o' gadgets on that car o' yours," he observed, quietly, looking at the offender's sumptuously furnished dashboard. "You only want a driver!"

Car Wrecks Telephone Pole

Mount View, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—A car with a party of young people from Eugene skidded on the wet gravel near the Richard Hanna place Tuesday afternoon and struck a telephone pole, wrecking the radiator of the car. The crash knocked down the pole, which fell onto the top of the car, demolishing it. No one was injured. A car came up from Eugene for the party and towed the wrecked car back.

Seized Cars to Be Sold

Several cars, seized as liquor carriers, are to be sold September 14 by the sheriff's office. Two of the cars concerned are those taken from George Robinson and Heston Baimbridge of this city. That taken from Robinson is said to be a rented car owned in Portland.
