

ARCADE Theatre

WEEKLY PROGRAM

Thursday, September 30
"THE MARRIAGE CLAUSE"

with Francis X. Bushman and Billie Dove.
 Talk about love! Don't talk about it but see this love story without a flaw. A perfect picture. Comedy.
 Felix Cops the Prize and International News.

Friday, October 1
"THE OLD SOAK"
 with Jean Hersholt supported by an all-star cast. This picture is full of "dry" humor—100% proof unadulterated joy. It's a picture of a boy's grand old dad. Comedy.
 What's the World Comin' To?

Saturday, October 2
"LONE HAND SAUNDERS"
 with Fred Thompson. A story of the west. A story of love, laughs, hardriding, quickshooting, against a background of breath taking beauty. A real Western. Also, a good comedy.

Sun.-Mon., October 3-4
"LA BOHEME"
 with John Gilbert and Lillian Gish.

The two most talked of stars in the industry playing together in one of the biggest pictures of the year. What more can you ask? This picture thrilled Broadway for many months at $2 a seat. Satisfaction guaranteed. Comedy.
 George the Winner.

Tuesday, October 5
"THE SILVER TREASURE"
 with George O'Brien supported by an all-star cast. A mighty romance of love, life and honor in the struggle for wealth. A picture of real entertainment. Comedy.
 From the Cabby's Seat.

Wednesday, October 6
"FOOTLOOSE WIDOWS"
 with Louise Fazenda and Jacqueline Logan. The romance of a pair of gold diggers, or what every young man should know. A pair of desperate girls posing as wealthy widows. It's a knockout. A good comedy, too.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Jane Smith and Robert Mills held a joint party Monday afternoon at the J. T. Smith home in celebration of their sixth birthday anniversaries. Guests were Margaret and Patricia Short, Dana and Charlotte Burkholder, Joseph Grube, Robert Nelson, Marjory Titus, Margaret Stewart, Robert Crannis, Stewart Roberts, Ray Dickson, Kathleen Daugherty, Mary Craig, Mary Cameron, Frankie and Earl Baldwin, Phyllis Monson, Betty Jane and Marjory Quigley, Sidney Wynne, Dan and Mack Trask, Gene Durham, Billy Helliwell and Richard Smith. Part of the afternoon was spent playing games out of doors. Later the children went to the playground in the basement, where a fish pond was the entertainment. The room was decorated with yellow snapdragons and autumn leaves. Delicious refreshments were served at long tables, a candle marking each guest. Two lighted birthday cakes, one frosted in yellow, the other in blue, were cut by the host and hostess. Miss Madeline Beidler and Miss Jean Short assisted Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. Earl Garoutte was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the Elmar club at the home of Mrs. Victor Ken. Mrs. Ivan Barker was initiated. Mrs. W. A. Garoutte was an additional guest. Drawing of names for the annual Christmas tree was held. The rooms were attractive with baskets of autumn leaves. A luncheon was served at the Gray Goose at the close of the afternoon. Snapdragons were the table decorations.

Mrs. Glass was hostess Tuesday to the LaComus club. Additional guests were Mrs. Harold Johnson and Mrs. S. S. Lasswell. Mrs. George M. Scott, a member from Eugene, motored down for the afternoon. The afternoon was spent socially and a delicious two-course luncheon was served. An attractive basket of fruit was the centerpiece and yellow chrysanthemums were room decorations.

The Presbyterian missionary society entertained with a silver tea Monday afternoon in the church parlors. The money raised, $18.10, will be used to help pay a general missionary fund, deficit. About 30 were present and nine attended from Creswell. Mrs. H. A. Miller and Mrs. Bert Trask presided at the tea table. Autumn leaves and marigolds were the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl K. Mills entertained at a dinner Sunday in celebration of the birthday anniversary of their son Robert and of Mrs. Ida Stannard of Eugene, great aunt of Robert. Guests were Mrs. Sophronia Howe and Miss Lola Howe, grandmother and aunt of Robert, and Dr. D. C. Stannard, all of Eugene.

The Tuesday Evening Study club entertained Saturday afternoon with an informal affair at the home of Mrs. B. R. Job in honor of wives of school board members, teachers in the schools and wives of teachers. It is an annual custom of this organization to give such an entertainment. Heretofore a reception has been held in their honor.

Mrs. K. K. Mills was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the M. P. G. club. Mrs. Charles Beidler was welcomed as a new member. The afternoon was spent with needle work and a dainty lunch was served. Autumn leaves and French marigolds were the decorations.

The Utopia club held a housewarming and covered dish supper Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Richmond. Various games were played during the evening and Mr. and Mrs. Richmond were presented with a fernery.

Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. Andrew Frund and Mrs. Earl Hill will be hostesses, this afternoon to the Constellation club in Masonic hall.

The Joker club will be entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Clara Burkholder.

Dorena Society.

Mrs. Clara Kirk entertained Sunday with a dinner in celebration of her birthday anniversary and that of her daughter, Mrs. Merle Holstrom. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kirk, Mrs. Holstrom and sons, "Johnny and Everett, John Wetz of Marcola and Mr. and Mrs. Green Pitcher and Mrs. Sarah Kerr and son Ray of Cottage Grove.

WALKER.

(Special to The Sentinel.) Sept. 28.—Walker high school opened September 13. A number of students were working and did not attend the first week of school. The present enrollment is thirty-three. The teachers are Arthur H. Pengra of Springfield, principal, and Miss Frances Gothard of Beaverton.

A meeting of the Walker literary society was held Friday, September 24. New officers were elected and a membership committee was appointed.

Officers for this term are: Louis Caldwell, president; Charles Cotter, vice president; Frances Schmidt, secretary and treasurer; Mr. Pengra, sergeant-at-arms; Gwendolyn Haight, editor of The Spy-Glass.

Lester Porter was appointed chairman of the membership committee. The entertainment committee for the next meeting is Alice Kent, Audrey Wolford, and Evelyn Benston. The next meeting will be October 8.

The freshmen of Walker high are to be initiated Friday evening, October 1, at the high school. As is customary the sophomores will perform the initiation ceremony with the juniors, seniors and teachers as audience.

With the help and supervision of Mr. Pengra, the boys are building two dressing rooms in the basement of the high school to be used by students taking gymnasium work and at the time of athletic contests.

High school was dismissed on Friday of last week in order that the students might attend the Lane county fair.

All high school students have had or will have heart and lung examinations to determine whether they can take part in athletic activities.

The girls of the baseball team are going to buy green ties to wear during basketball games in order that they may distinguish their own players from those of their opponents.

Hazel Miller has entered the normal school at Monmouth. Beulah Rank is attending O. A. C. this year. Both are members of the class of '26 of Walker high school.

The first meeting of the student body was held Wednesday, September 15. A discussion was held on the advisability of entering the state league and the class B league. The officers for this year are as follows: Gwendolyn Haight, president; Max Sears, vice president; Evelyn Benston, secretary and treasurer; Gladys Kirkendall, librarian; Gerold Conner, yell leader; Donald Witche, sergeant-at-arms; Marion Weitz, athletic manager; Audrey Wolford, girls' basketball captain; Donald Witche, boys' basketball captain; Alice Kent, girls' baseball captain; Lawrence Porter, boys' baseball captain.

Old Turkish Capital

Presents Two Views

Approaching Constantinople one may get the impression that it either is the world's most beautiful city or that it is the most squalid city on earth, depending upon whether it is approached from the sea or the land. From the land the city's 680 mosques and minarets, its 500 palaces and gardens, rising in the form of an amphitheater above the Golden Horn, give it the appearance of the type of oriental city described in the Arabian Nights, says E. Alexander Powell in the American Magazine.

Alexander von Humboldt, noted traveler and student of nature, declared Constantinople was one of the three most beautiful cities in the world, Naples and Salzburg being the other two. Lord Byron also extolled Constantinople's position as being incomparable to any he had ever seen.

The historical interest that abounds in Constantinople even surpasses, for many, that of its beauty. The city's history extends back nearly 3,000 years. Since the corn-laden galleys from the Black sea glided through the Hellespont in the days of Darius and Alexander, and the Phoenicians moved in from the Marmora sea, down to the present time, when gigantic battleships swing at their moorings off Seraglio point, Constantinople has been an object of desire for ambitious military leaders and land-seeking nations.

There are few manifestations of nature's power more awe-inspiring and at the same time more fascinating than a violent thunderstorm. Comparatively few adults acknowledge a feeling of terror in the presence of this majestic display. There is, however, a distinct difference between fear and caution. The danger from lightning is never great, but it exists and it should be reduced as nearly as possible to the vanishing point.

Pretty Indian Legend

Long ago, before the white man came to this country, a great famine spread over the land, says the Detroit News, in telling of the legends of Michigan Indians. One day a mother bear with her two hungry little cubs, walked along the shore of Wisconsin and gazed wistfully over at Michigan. Finally, driven by the pangs of hunger, she plunged into Lake Michigan, followed by her two babies, and struck out for the Michigan shore. When only a few miles from the land of plenty, one cub, too exhausted to go further, sank. She struggled to reach shore with the other, but it, too, sank. She herself at last reached shore and sank exhausted. As she gazed out across the waters, two beautiful islands slowly arose to make the graves of her children. And these are called Manitou, meaning the home of departed spirits.

American Indians' Shields

The heavy iron shield used by knights in the days of chivalry had its prototype in the rawhide disk of the American plains Indians. While the design imprinted upon the iron defender of the medieval warrior was symbolic, it was not magical like those emblems painted upon the aboriginal escutcheons now in the possession of the University of Pennsylvania museum, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Art alone did not prompt the American Indian to embellish his defensive weapons, but a belief in the supernatural power of color laid in designs to ward off evil, according to Henry Usher Hall, curator of the section of general ethnology of the museum.

Artificial Pearls

The method used by the Buddhist priest in producing pearl images was to insert a small wooden wedge between the two shells of the mussel, when these were open, to keep them from closing. All mussels can only open their shell a little way, just enough to extend the foot by means of which they slowly plow through the mud of the river bottom, and two tubes, one bringing in water loaded with microscopic animals and plants upon which the mussel feeds, and oxygen for breathing, the other carrying away the waste water and refuse. The wedge once quickly and carefully slipped in makes it possible to work in the interior.—Nature Magazine.

Trees Live Long

Thomas Parr, who lived to be one hundred and fifty-two years old, is credited with a record, but this longevity, as well as that of all other members of the animal kingdom, is easily surpassed by those of the vegetable kingdom. The life of the great forest trees varies from 100 to as much as 5,000 years, says London Tit-Bits. Cypress trees are said to live for 350 years, ivy 450, chestnut 600, cedar 800, oak 1,000 to 1,500 years, yew 2,500 and the baobab tree 5,000 years.

Suggestion

Sign on the back of a ten-ton truck: "If you bump me, use your head!"—The Outlook.

Just a Tale.
 It was one of the first cold days of winter. Many were the eyes which looked upon her because she was startling in her new fur coat. Knowing something of her history, I was interested to see how she would be received at that cold stone mansion. Would she be recognized and admitted into her rightful place in that ancient household? or would she be thrown into the street, and become as thousands of others who are made to fend for themselves in this world of illusions and temptations? Just as she reached the door it was opened, the butler dismissed a caller, and she walked in, this shiny black pussy cat.

Chrysler "60's" Astonishing Sales Success Result of Standardized Quality

The lighter lower-priced six, Chrysler "60" is proving itself the most sensational value in the history of the motor industry as the direct result of Chrysler's plan of Quality Standardization.

Within three weeks of its introduction overwhelming demand required a production in excess of 500 cars a day. But even this has now fallen far short of supplying an insistent and enthusiastic public which has singled out the Chrysler "60" as a six of value far in advance of anything in its field or at its price.

In the lower-priced Chrysler "60" you get the same Chrysler Standardized Quality of scientific engineering and manufacturing precision comprehended in the Chrysler "70" and Imperial "80."

Sixty miles—and more—per hour; lightning acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 7½ seconds; the economy of 22 miles to the gallon; characteristic Chrysler smartness and beauty; phenomenal riding ease; the safety of Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes; oil filter; full pressure lubrication; impulse neutralizer; road levers front and rear, roomy luxurious bodies; and scores of other features which bespeak dependability and long life.

There isn't a lower-priced six on the market that will begin to give you as much for your money.

See the Chrysler "60" for yourself; drive it; put it to any test. We know the Chrysler "60" will sell itself to you—that you'll be satisfied with nothing else at its price.

Avoiding the Mechanical

There are no bars, wickets or turnstiles in Skaggs Stores—nothing to prevent you from walking in, looking around and leaving without buying a thing, if you so desire. We do not question your integrity or suspect you of having some article of our merchandise secreted about your person. In fact we do everything in our power to prevent our stores from becoming mechanical, disinterested, food-vending automatons. We want them to be just what they are—wide-open, human, friendly stores, inviting you to shop at your leisure—with always a well-informed, courteous salesman, ready at your call to assist you in selecting the best values and advise with you about your needs. And—with all of this—the savings at Skaggs Stores must be consistently greater than you can obtain elsewhere.
