Spotting the Record.

A crowd of visitors, who had just finished a sight-seeing trip through a mid-western penitentiary, were waiting to be counted out the gate, when a convict came running up to them with a pocket-book.

"Hey," he panted, "did any o' youse drop dis poke?"

"Oh, thank you!" exclaimed one of the ladies in the party, her face beaming with pleasure. "That's mine!"

"Well," replied the prisoner, handing her the purse, "I wish you'd be a little more careful. Things like dis give the joint a bad name."—Goblin.

Her Executive Power Developed in Nursery

Recent papers seem to have been full of brighter news for the married woman. A London evening paper announces proudly that "married women won the prizes in a 'nursery show at Clapham' (why there should be supposed to be any connection between matrimony and thick ankles is left unexplained), and at Amsterdam, to the International Federation of University Women, Mrs. Frank Galbraith of New Jersey addressed the congress on her experiences as the mother of 11 children and president of a firm of industrial engineers."

This is creditable, but not particularly surprising; the successful president of a nursery of 11 should obviously be able to reduce even an industrial engineer to reason. In fact, to go down to the works and do a little strike breaking must be a nice quiet change from the nursery. Even if it is only an annual meeting experience should tell—the hand that has rocked the cradle (11 times) should be equal to controlling the savagiest set of shareholders.—Manchester (Eng.) Guardian Weekly.

Sanity and Insanity Matter of Emotions

Where mental disorder becomes insanity it is difficult to say. Physicians today do not like to use the word insanity, on account of the difficulty of defining it. Sanity is a social concept. A sane person is willing to co-operate with other people in the affairs of life, and has confidence in others in varying degrees, as his judgment guides him. He has a direction of movement and purpose which he is able to control.

Insanity is the reverse of this. Yet it is easily seen from this definition that a perfectly sane person can be violently insane for a minute, five minutes, or half an hour. By the excess of his emotions he can be cut off for the time being from rational judgment of anything or co-operation with anybody, and from any sense of ordered direction of his action. But sooner or later his reason reasserts itself, and in repeated circumstances of the same sort is likely to be on its guard. Insane people have periodic or permanent inability to overcome their emotions.

PASTOR CHAPPELLE WILL REMAIN UNTIL APRIL 30

Pastor and Mrs. J. D. Chappelle, chapel car missionaries of the Baptist church, will remain here until April 30, according to recent announcement. Several large gifts to the new church building fund were made on the condition that the missionaries remain here until then.

It was believed by those most intimate with church conditions that it would be unwise to change ministers at this time. Pastor and Mrs. Chappelle will make several short trips to conduct meetings in other communities but the chapel car will remain here and Pastor Chappelle will have charge of church management.

Tentative arrangements have been made to have several men prominent in Baptist church work speak at the church whenever Pastor Chappelle is away.

The sermon will be followed by a baptismal service.

First and second grade children taught by Pastor Chappelle in the week day religious school will give a demonstration of their work at the evening service. Baptismal service arranged for this hour will be postponed until the Sunday evening following.

Sewer Extension Expensive.

Reporting on the lack of capacity of sewers on the west side, resulting in standing water at the west side school, City Engineer Coier reported at the council meeting Monday night that the cost of constructing a sewer to carry off the surplus probably would cost $2000. Funds for this work are not available. The report was referred to the school board, which may offer to bear part of the expense.

Another Medical Marvel.

40 FAMILIES ARE AIDED RELIEF ORGANIZATION

A report of Christmas relief work, given at a community relief committee meeting yesterday, showed that 40 families were aided and $125 spent. Expenditures for Christmas relief were low because of the generous donations of the city schools. Most of the supplies given by the schools have been distributed but those remaining have been left with Mrs. L. McAbey to be given out as need arises.

Twelve organizations have joined the relief organization. Money on hand totaled $208.59, with $50 more to be turned in. The general committee will meet once a month and the executive committee, composed of Pastor Cameron, Mrs. B. R. Job and Mrs. McAbey, was authorized to handle any emergency need.

Question. Does God answer prayer, if so why are some prayers unanswered? Is Christ necessary to salvation? Should a person under 17 read "True Story Magazine?" Are our schools failing in the making of character among our young? Is discipline too lax?
