Nation's Faith in God
Expressed on Coinage

"In God We Trust" first appeared on the coins of this country in 1864 and owes its presence very largely to the increased religious sentiment in the dreary days of the Civil war. S. P. Chase, then secretary of the treasury, having received a number of appeals from devout persons throughout the country suggesting and urging that the Deity be recognized suitably on our coins in a manner similar to that commonly found on the coins of other nations, addressed a letter to the director of the mint, at Philadelphia, stating that "no nation would be strong except in the strength of God or safe except in His defense. The trust of our people in God should be declared on our national coins." He ordered that a device be prepared without unnecessary delay, with a motto expressing in the fewest words possible this national recognition. Various mottoes were placed on coins in 1862 and 1863. The first ones bearing "In God We Trust," however, were coined in 1864.

Seemed Something of an Odd Combination

He didn't really want to bring the two cats home from Colorado, but what good is the argument of a mere man against those of a wife, three children, and a mother-in-law? So the family started home last week with the cats enthroned in a box on the back seat of the car.

He was somewhat ashamed of the ugly yellow cats, and his mortification was complete when he was forced to ask a garage owner, in the town where they spent the first night, for cellar space in which to park his car.

"I suppose," he said to the garage man, "I suppose you don't see many tourists crazy enough to be taking common alley cats with them, do you?" "Oh, yes I do," replied the garage man. "They come in here every day with all sorts of pets. But," he added, as an afterthought, "by George, you're the first feller I've seen that was totin' cats and a mother-in-law both."—Los Angeles Times.

Rattlesnake's Rings

The rings on a rattlesnake do not tell exactly the age of the snake. The biological survey says that the rattlesnake acquires from two to four rings a year, usually three. Under normal conditions one ring is added each time the snake sheds its skin. The young rattler is provided with a single button at birth, and within a few days it sheds its skin and commences feeding. In about two months it sheds its skin for the second time and then the first ring of the rattle is uncovered or added. This has been growing under the old skin, and its pressure is apparent in the swollen appearance of the tail at the base of the original button. The last seven or eight vertebrae fuse together shortly after birth and form a composite bone known as the "shaker" and it is around this bone that each cap or ring of the rattle forms.

Little Sermon

Lo, the young intellectual! He is esthetic. He dwelleth among his kind and talketh confidently of his art. He letteth his hair grow long and discourseth of Freud. He shaveth not, but he understandeth the futuristic. He laugheth to scorn the conventions and prate of free love. He derideth industry. And yet, being hungry, he buyeth sustenance with money which his father hath earned. For he remaineth esthetic only so long as he is comfortable.

So we mock him, knowing in our hearts that we, too, would be esthetic. But for the absence of rich fathers.—Kansas City Times.

In the Glacial Age

It is impossible to say how long a period the glacial waters of Lake Agassiz covered the greater parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, North Dakota and Minnesota. The lake, from its earliest measurements, appears to have been 110,000 square miles, with a length of 700 miles, width of 250 miles and a depth of 700 feet. Besides the reclaimed land now known as the Red River valley there remains still of Lake Agassiz the shrunken remnants constituting Lakes Winnipeg, Manitoba, Rainy lake, Lake of the Woods and Red lake.

Sharp

"Oh, doctor," cried a wild-eyed man, "I am dreadfully afflicted. The ghosts of my departed relatives come and perch on the tops of the fenceposts all round my garden when dusk is falling. I can look out into the gloaming any evening and see a couple of dozen spooks sitting on top of the posts, waiting, waiting, waiting! What shall I do?"

"Sharpen the tops of the posts," came the cool reply.

Hamming Birds

In regard to the materials used by humming birds in constructing their nests, I wish to say that no hair or feathers are ever used. The nests are built of lichens and attached to the limb which is as nearly as possible the exact color of the lichens used, hence the difficulty in locating the nests of humming birds with the human eyes. The nest is never hidden but merely cunningly camouflaged.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Almost Perfect

Government scientists have produced disks with a surface so flat that they differ from a true plane by less than two ten-millionths of an inch.

Gave Up Prized Sword
in Expiation of Crime

In the high mountains beyond Nikko, in central Japan, nestles Lake Chuzenji, and above it the sacred mountain Nantai San rears its bare crest. Once it was the dwelling place of a pacific Buddhist hermit saint. Pilgrims from all parts of Japan climb its steep slopes. They are dressed in white robes, carry staffs and rosaries in hand, and chant a Buddhist prayer as they climb. An avenue of scarlet lacquer "torii," or gateways, guides the pilgrim to the shrine on the summit.

Near the peak is a bare patch of rock, overlooking a steep precipice. On this rock is a heap of swords, daggers and other weapons, rusted with age. In ancient times a man who had committed a deed of blood made a pilgrimage to Nantai San and offered up his weapon in expiation of his crime. To the Samurai, the warrior, his sword was his most prized possession, and the murderer who sacrificed his precious sword gave up in atonement what he valued more than his own life.

This heap of ancient sword blades, daggers and other weapons can be seen on Nantai San at present, a relic of feudal times.

"Shut-ins" Not Dead to
All Worldly Affairs

The Woman visited a friend at a sanatorium the other day—one of those places in the country where they try to make convalescence bearable. She had to wait until she could see her friend, so she sat down on the porch. At the far end of a group of women patients were talking with absorbed interest.

The one in the wheel chair evidently had a great deal to tell. The Woman wondered what it could be about. She knew the story of those particular patients. All three had been invalids for years; they always would be bound to their chairs and crutches.

Just then she was called, and as she passed the group she heard: "When I bake tomatoes I fill them with bread crumbs and butter and..."

"That's just the way I fix peppers, and my husband used to say..."

The Woman went inside. She was "smilin' round the mouth, but sort of teary around the lashes" when she thought of that hopeful, reminiscent group of cooks.—New York Sun.

Mirror Made Trouble

To the back fields of South Africa there penetrated one day a traveler, who possessed many treasures the old farmer had never seen before. Among them was a mirror.

"Where did you get that?" asked the farmer, as he gazed into it: "that picture of my father?" The traveler did not explain, but gave it to him as a souvenir, and it became his most cherished possession. Every day he looked at his "father's picture," and kept it carefully locked up, showing it to no one.

But there came a day when he left his keys behind, and his wife, who had long wondered what it was he kept so carefully, started rummaging and found the mirror. "Oh," she murmured, as she gazed into it, "so that's the cat he's after, is it?"

Birthstone Old Ornament

Birthstones are among the oldest forms of jewelry. The group of 12 stones, one for each month of the calendar year, may have been related to the 12 stones in the breastplate worn by the High Priest Aaron as described in the Book of Exodus. Each of the 12 stones represented one of the tribes of the Children of Israel, and the name of the tribe was inscribed on the stone. As early as 4000 B. C. another high priest, this time in Egypt, wore a breastplate of 12 small stones or crosses. Ancient Egyptian carvings preserve this interesting bit of history. A relationship between the breastplates of the two high priests seems probable.—New York Times.

North Carolina Giant

Miles Darden, who was born in North Carolina in 1798, and died in Harden county, Tennessee, January 23, 1857, was the world's biggest man, claims the North Carolina Historical Review. He was 7 feet 8 inches tall and weighed a little more than 1,000 pounds.

Thirteen and a half yards of cloth one yard wide were required to make him a coat. When he died 24 yards of black velvet were needed to cover the sides and lid of his coffin. This was 8 feet long, only 1 inch less than 3 feet deep and was 32 inches broad. Miles Darden lived a quiet, uneventful life; apart from his world record size he seems to have been a hard-working, ordinary man.

Athletic Writer

Because of his size and strength Dr. Samuel Johnson was advised by a certain luckless publisher to get a porter's knot and turn porter. Set upon one night by four footpads, he kept them at bay until the watch came up. He frequently in his younger years walked from Litchfield to Birmingham and back again, a distance of 30 miles, without fatigue, and in his trip to the Hebrides Boswell says that "ninety-five days were never passed by any man in more vigorous exercise." He was a bold swimmer, and though he ordinarily moved like a mannequin elephant, he at sixty-eight writes delightedly, "I ran a race this day and beat Baretti."—Scientific Monthly.

Watch for These Surprises!

Spring doesn't come all of a sudden and neither does our spring merchandise. Even as we can hardly wait for Spring in nature, we can scarcely wait for our spring shipments of glassware and dishes. You'll be surprised and delighted at the amazing beauty and exquisiteness of colorings and patterns. They were designed by a designer of silks in Paris, and surpass anything heretofore attempted in dishes.

A NEW HOSE HAS INTRODUCED ITSELF TO OUR HO-SIERY DEPARTMENT—MAY WE INTRODUCE IT TO YOU

Not a new hose, either, but a newly stocked hose by us. In the most delightful of the season's smart shades, blonde, parchment, nude, sunset and dove gray, comes this "Adelcide" full-fashioned, pure thread silk-to-the-hem hose at an amazingly low price for its quality. Compare it with any $2.25 stocking and you'll never pay more than $1.69 for that's its price and no more.

From the Print Shop!

We might well call our dry goods department the "Print Shop" for almost every piece of material in it is printed. Never did dress materials vie so closely with nature in the gorgeousness of their colorings and elaborateness of design. All fast colors and priced from

NOTICE

Whereas in chapter 127, general laws of Oregon, enacted in 1919, it is declared to be the duty of every person, firm, copartnership, company and corporation owning, leasing, occupying, possessing or having charge of or dominion over any land, place, building, structure, wharf, pier or dock which is infested with ground squirrels and other noxious rodents or predatory animals, or as soon as the presence of the same shall come to his, their or its knowledge, at once to proceed and to continue in good faith to exterminate and destroy such rodents by poisoning, trapping or other appropriate and effective means; and

WHEREAS gray digger ground squirrels (Citellus douglasii) are noxious rodents in Lane county, Oregon. Now, therefore, all of such persons, firms, copartnerships, corporations and companies owning or having dominion over land in said Lane county, Oregon, are hereby required to take steps to exterminate said gray digger ground squirrel (Citellus douglasii) within thirty days from the date of the first publication of this notice. If such steps are not taken, a person or persons appointed by the county court of said Lane county will enter upon said lands and proceed to exterminate said gray digger ground squirrels (Citellus douglasii) and the cost of said extermination will be levied against said lands.

The county agricultural agent hereby designates Monday, April 4, as a day to be known as "squirrel poisoning day" throughout the said Lane county, and it is hereby recommended that poisoned barley, as prepared by the undersigned and representatives of the United States department of agriculture, be used for the purpose of such extermination. Such poisoned barley may be secured from the undersigned at his office in Eugene, Lane county, Oregon, at approximately the cost of preparation.

Date of first publication of this notice March 10th, 1927.
