CULP CREEK.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

July 18.—Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Stewart removed to Cottage Grove this week, and will immediately start the construction of a home.

Ray Husted, who has been operating a steam shovel at the Woodard mills south of Cottage Grove since the shut down of his work for Anderson & Middleton, is contemplating moving his family to the job, thereby eliminating a 20-mile drive.

Henry Sanders is over in the Klamath county during the logging shut down in this section.

Ray Potter is home from a few days in Bohemia, where he was a guest of John (Smithy) Smith. Ray is a lover of flowers and found thousands of mountain lilies in bloom. He brought down a mammoth bouquet.

Anderson & Son are now operating their mill and hope for sufficient business to carry on without further shut downs. Wicks Brothers and Potter & Owen are furnishing logs, one coming in from down the river out of the Wicks holdings of timber and the other from the Potter ranch on Sharps creek.

HEBRON.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

July 20.—Mrs. Telford and granddaughters Imelda and Emma Telford of Klamath Falls returned home Wednesday after visiting at the home of Mrs. E. J. Edwards, daughter of Mrs. Telford. Mr. Edwards took them to Eugene to take the train over the Nafton out off to Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Jessie Gilerast and little grandson Lloyd visited Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Lewis Wooley in Cottage Grove. Grandma Wooley returned home with them to spend several days. Mrs. Wooley will be eighty years old in September but still is spry and gets around as well as many do at sixty. After the camp meeting she plans to visit at Spokane and possibly in North Dakota.

The Farmers' union will hold a roll call at the next meeting on July 28. Members are to answer roll call by giving a reading, a quotation or music. Ice cream will be served.

Haying and berrying are the principal occupations of the farmers and their wives these days.

Indian Songs Brought Forth After 50 Years

BERKELEY, Cal., July 21.—(U. P.)—After half a century reposing in libraries throughout the United States, the significance of a collection of Klamath Lake Indian songs has just been brought to light.

Further corroboration of the fact that horses brought over by white men reached California and Oregon and exerted influence upon the Indians before the white men arrived is now in process of preparation for publication.

The essential features of the intangible culture of the southern Oregon Indians have been recorded for history just one step ahead of the opening of railroads into the country and the probable degeneration of the old Indian life.

These are some of the interesting features of an investigation recently completed by Dr. Leslie Spier, newly appointed head of the anthropology department of the University of Oklahoma at Berkeley, where he is now conducting a summer session course.

Day's Trip Is 400 Miles.

CULP CREEK, July 19.—(Special.)—Last Monday E. D. Tibbitts of Toledo, Oregon, accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Howard of this place, left here at 4 a. m. They breakfasted in Grants Pass at 9:05; slipped into Medford at 11:15 and visited an hour and were resting at the lithia springs at Ashland at 1 p. m. The party arrived here at 12 o'clock that night, having enjoyed a delightful tour over a wonderfully picturesque part of Oregon. As they rolled into Culp Creek the speedometer showed 400 miles, an average of 20 miles an hour, including all stops.

Mitchell Takes Over Cottage Hotel.

The Cottage Hotel has been taken over by H. C. Mitchell, who formerly owned it, and he will assume management at once. Several months ago Mr. Mitchell sold the hotel to John Grimes of Ione. Mr. Grimes traded the business to Arthur Chandler of Coburg, who has now traded it back to Mr. Mitchell.
