Professor Thinks Pipe Is His Watch

Eugene, Oregon, Aug. 1.—(U. P.)—Not all absent-minded professors are products of the imagination. University of Oregon summer school students relate.
Some of them exist in real life. A story is told here of one professor who always lays a watch on his desk before starting a lecture. One day he opened the class and removed a pipe from his pocket and laid it carefully in the place usually reserved for his watch.
The error was discovered when the instructor became curious as to the time of day.
Comstock Shingle Mill Burns.
Fire Friday night completely destroyed the plant of the Comstock shingle mill and damaged a cabin adjoining the mill. The loss was placed at $3000 and was not covered by insurance.
The mill had been operating during the day and it was thought that sparks might have caused the fire. A small fire had broken out during the afternoon but had been extinguished. Two men sleeping in a cabin near the mill did not awaken until flames had set fire to the cabin.
John Dornath was owner of the mill. He was planning to move his plant to the coast. Only a small crew was at the mill cleaning up in preparation for moving. A quantity of shingles and boxes was destroyed.
Garoutte Clan Picnic Held.
A number from here attended the Garoutte clan picnic held Sunday at Tenmile, between Coos bay and Bandon. There were 71 present. Included among those from here were Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Garoutte, the A. W. Kime family and Miss Reta Kelly.

CULP CREEK.
(Special to The Sentinel.)
July 30.—Lloyd Arrington and Ray Sater left Tuesday morning for Klamath Falls, where they expect to find work.
H. B. Howard went to Disston Tuesday morning to work in the forest service road camp. He is driving a Holt caterpillar tractor in connection with the road work.
Raymond Potter and Carl McCullum left Wednesday evening on a trip into eastern Oregon.
W. J. Howard is working at the forest service road camp above Disston.
W. B. Patton and a group of friends went to Bohemia Thursday morning. They will visit Al Churchill and from there plan to go over into the Steamboat creek country on a fishing trip. They plan to return to Culp Creek the first of the week.
The wild blackberry season in this section of the country is fast drawing to a close. Weather conditions this year have been favorable for growing this luscious wild berry and people here and from neighboring towns have picked hundreds of gallons.
The fire which has been burning for sometime at Mineral on the Sharps creek route, has been gaining headway, making it necessary to call out more fighters, including three men from the forest service camp near Disston.
The Frank Bryce creek road is in the best condition in 25 years is a common remark nowadays of those who have travelled this road for many years. Many improvements are being made. One of these is widening the road to 18 feet. This work is under the supervision of District Forest Ranger Ray Engles. The camp road foreman is Harry Mayben.
