SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—(U. P.)—Mrs. Jennie Goldman today paid a $10 fine in police court because she wheeled a baby carriage on a downtown street.

While there was no objection to the carriage there was a decided protest against its contents. The carriage was a miniature bar, with 35 bottles of liquor as its stock.

The liquor was discovered when Louis D'Spain, prohibition officer, peered into the perambulator to see if the baby resembled his own.

HOOTCH MAKES OCEAN SEEM LIKE DAKOTA

SEASIDE, Ore., Aug. 18.—(U. P.)

—Comparison of the beautiful scenery of the Oregon coast with the rugged hills and far-reaching plains of South Dakota landed a man calling himself "Al Smith" in jail.

Smith gazed upon the ocean and wept bitterly. "I'm homesick," he said, "the ocean reminds me of South Dakota."

"Why does it?" a former Dakotan inquired.

"Because it is so different," moaned Smith.

After spending a few hours in jail Smith agreed with the arresting officers that "fire water" rather than homesickness brought on by ocean water caused his tears.
