Old Contradictions of Famous German Writer

Made miserable by fundamental contradictions in character, Heinrich Heine, a genius best remembered for his poems, cried: "I am tragedy—I am comedy." Though he was probably the greatest German poet of his century, the author of "The Lorelei" was constantly appalled by the vastness of his vision and sought a firmer footing on other paths of expression. When he could curb his poetry he was a splendid journalist.

While he hated despotism he was an ardent admirer of Napoleon. As a cynic his laughter still is remembered for its hilarity at sentiment, yet he was such a sentimentalist that his spurned love for his cousin gave exquisite wings to many a poem. He wrote history without method and philosophy with no crystallized philosophy of his own. The capricious quality that pervades all his writings lurks in even his tenderest poems. He shifts from intense passion to careless mockery.

His life, until his individualism, was one of agony of being jerked from poetry to materialism and back again. Yet when he was made helpless by paralysis this strange man of contradictions, who had been impatient and irritable in health, showed an extraordinary endurance and cheerfulness in the long years he spent on what he termed his "mattress grave." He died in 1856 and lies buried in Paris.—Kansas City Star.

Odd Form of "Prayer" Brought Needed Rain

Desperate after a month of drought in what was supposed to be the rainy season, the peasants in Changshien recently dressed up two men like fish and marched them down the street, pouring water on them all the way. This is a new method of praying for rain.

It worked, too! For that night Peking and neighboring towns were drenched in a frightful storm. Nothing like it is ever seen in New York. A peculiar sort of lightning, flashing continuously here and there and everywhere, and thunder keeping up a constant "put-putting" sound, feature the storm. Lakes come into existence everywhere. The storm seems somehow symbolize of the approach of threatening Nationalist troops.

Strangely, the Pekinese prayed for rain in earnest, too. In White Cloud temple, outside Halpimen temple and at Hsizu Pailou, coolies, old men and priests burned incense and bowed incessantly. They followed the ancient rain-praying rite.

But the inhabitants of Changshien are believed to have found a new method of rain praying in the fish parade. People in Peking had not heard of it before.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Animals' Color Sense

The colorful world of green grass and trees, red meat, brownish-gray mice and yellow dogs is all just gray to cats, according to Prof. F. M. Gregg of Nebraska Wesleyan university, who experimented with the color scheme of night-provoking animals. Dogs and raccoons also lack color perception, he finds. In his experiments the animals were taught to recognize various color combinations. They learned that when certain colors were shown they could come up and expect to be fed. When shades of gray corresponded in brightness to the different colors were substituted for the brilliant rainbow hues, the animals apparently noted no change in the dinner signals. The dog, a fox terrier, was quickest to learn, the cat next, and the raccoon the slowest of all.

Vital Part of Tree

The stem of a tree, also called trunk and bole, is the main axis extending from the roots to the crown, or to the tip in case of an unbranched stem. Tree stems range from long to short, straight to crooked, and from erect to prostrate. An examination of a cross-section of a stem will show bark, wood, and pith, says the American Tree association. In the central part of the stem is the pith. About it is the wood, which in many trees can be divided into darker heartwood and the lighter sapwood. Between the wood and the bark is a thin layer known as the cambium. This is the most vital part of a tree, for it is here that all new wood and bark are made up.

Death to Mosquitoes

Efforts to find a poison that will kill the mosquito larvae and not harm fish have been successful in France. Heretofore all poisons designed to spread over breeding places of mosquitoes has been harmful to other life, but the new compound will not only spare the fish, but will be harmless to aquatic plants or warm-blooded animals, it is claimed. It is a formaldehyde compound that can be applied with sand.

Dark Rubber Lasting

For rubber articles that are likely to be exposed to sunlight, rubber of the darkest color will stay "alive" the longest. Recent experiments in the rubber laboratory of the United States bureau of standards, reported by Popular Science Monthly, have demonstrated that the shade of rubber goods has much to do with their durability.

Man Leads As Cause Destruction to Forests

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 13.—(U. P.)—Man again held the leading position as the cause of forest fires in the national forests of Oregon and Washington, according to information compiled by forest service officials with offices in Portland.

There were 1194 fires in the Pacific region, which includes the 22 national forests of Oregon and Washington. Of these 418 were due to carelessness.

Lightning fires were above the average, there being 280 more during the past season. Man, although he still is the principle cause of forest fires, dropped below his general average.

Convictions have been obtained against those responsible for 130 of the 418 man-caused blazes.

Scout Troop to Get Charter

County Scout Executive Clark of Eugene met Wednesday afternoon with the troop committee of the local boy scout organization to arrange for the presentation of a charter to troop 1. The charter is expected to arrive within two weeks and a formal presentation is planned. The troop committee consists of R. L. Stewart, Dr. Harold Asley, Pastor Duncan P. Cameron, George O. Knowles and Earl Hill.

Troop 1 will hold its regular meeting Friday night in Veterans' hall. Instruction on bugles will be given by Al Griffin and drilling will be in charge of P. S. Bukowski.

Leonard Paquette Injured

Leonard A. Paquette, second leader for the J. H. Chambers & Son logging crew, suffered a cut on the left side of his head and painful bruises about 10 o'clock this forenoon when he was hit by a loading tong. He had taken one of the tongs and placed it in the log preparatory to shifting it, when the machinery started to lift the log, causing the other tong to fly around and hit Mr. Paquette. He was knocked to the ground and sustained bruises on the left side and arm. He was unconscious for some time.

Provides Liberal Farm Education

Every division of the Pacific International Livestock Exposition presents innumerable opportunities for valuable education in conducting farming operations.

And yet this training is available to every farmer in this section at a minimum of cost and effort.

During the week of October 29 to November 5, inclusive, the Pacific International holds its 17th annual exposition. Millions of dollars' worth of the nation's finest pure bred livestock will be exhibited—cattle, horses, sheep, hogs, goats and foxes. $100,000.00 will be awarded in premiums. Also there will be Pacific International's spectacular horse show; great dairy, land and manufacturers' products shows; wool show and industrial exposition.

No matter what branch of farming you have adopted, we, here at the First National bank unhesitatingly recommend that you attend this year's Pacific International. Avail yourself of all the information obtainable; then profit by applying the principles learned to the solution of your own farm problems.

Music-Land Entertainers Coming.

The Cottage Grove high school student body is sponsor for a musical entertainment to be given Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium by Mr. and Mrs. William Beck, music-land entertainers. The program will include vocal and instrumental music that runs from the popular ballads of the day to the best among the classics.

William Beck is a versatile artist whose major work is on the cornet and trumpet. He is also a banjo artist and a character impersonator and one of his novelty features is a "slide trumpet." Mr. and Mrs. Beck will give vocal duets from popular musical comedy successes as incidental groups on their program.

Mrs. Beck specializes on vocal and piano numbers and one of her features will be a group of songs sung in costume.

Freshmen Class Initiated.

Initiation for the freshman class of the high school was held during the assembly period this forenoon. Various novelty stunts were given by members of the class. A peanut race was held by the boys who also had to run the gauntlet. Freshmen girls gave several stunts.

High School Teachers Organize.

Teachers of the high school held a dinner Tuesday night to organize a teachers' club. Miss Myrtle Kem was chosen chairman and Herschel Kidwell secretary-treasurer. The group will meet the first Monday evening of each month and books and literature will be studied.

Who was it who told that one about the absent-minded prof who came to teach a class but couldn't remember what he taught?—"Bison."
