Arthur Brisbane Says:

"They (country newspapers) are the most important newspapers and incidentally, in proportion to their circulation, their advertising results are the biggest and their advertising rates are the smallest in the country. They are read through from end to end. Every copy of circulation means an entire family, not a family that lives in one room with a can opener, but a family that owns its own home, and land around it, at least ninety times out of a hundred, a family that buys everything from the roof on the house to the cement on the cellar floor, from the hat on mother's head to the skates on the boy's feet. Country newspapers not only pay well, but the service that their publishers render to the public is, in my opinion, the most important service rendered by any class of citizens in the United States."

Timber Sales Are Few In Siuslaw Forest Area

Trees Are Mostly Second Growth Because of Fire 100 Years Ago.

Timber cutting and sales in the Siuslaw national forest during the past year and for several years have been light, as it is the policy of the forestry department that this area shall be preserved for stumpage many years hence.

J. M. Shelley, supervisor of the Siuslaw area, says a policy is adopted for each national forest, this policy being based on whether large areas are ready to be logged.

"We are cutting no second growth timber in the Siuslaw forest and the only sales made are of small stands.

About 100 years ago, it is estimated, there was a huge conflagration in what is now the Siuslaw forest area and an enormous acreage was destroyed. For this reason the larger part of the timber in this district is second growth. The small areas ready for cutting are parts that were not touched by the big fire, the supervisor explains. In other national forests not swept by fire there is a considerable amount of timber that is ripe for cutting and is being sold. Seeond growth timber in the Siuslaw area is from 60 to 100 years of age. The timber can remain for 200 to 300 years before cutting is required.
