

Weird and Wonderful

Bishra Girls' Dances

In Bishra one hears the sound of the African tom-toms and the playing of pipes, the tapping of the drums, all night long, writes Lilian Genth, in the American Art Magazine. The Street of the Ouled Nails is not only the most interesting street in Bishra, but the most interesting street I have ever seen in my life. The green overhanging balconies, the many notes of color in the dresses of the girls, the gleam of gold coins on their bodies and the clink of their anklets and bracelets as they walk down the street make a barbaric spectacle.

At night when the girls have their dances in the little coffee houses in the Street of the Ouled Nails, it is a most interesting sight. Every one seems absorbed in the dance. The attendants and the audience sit around in a ring on their haunches, sipping mint tea and coffee, calling to the girls and dancers who sit on a platform before you.

Each awaits her turn to come down to her dance with the confidence of a prima donna on the opera stage. The dance is very wonderful. First the gyrations of the neck, the rest of the body held absolutely rigid. Then the quivering of the shoulders with the rest of the body rigid. The hum and the din of the little cafes become very exciting. These Ouled Nails dancers, daughters of the Nile, are often murdered for their gold.

Conceit and Timidity

Bars to Advancement

Henry Ward Beecher once called conceit "the most incurable disease known to the human soul."

Conceit, however, is not to be confused with pride, self-respect or self-confidence. There is merit in these qualities and many a man of limited abilities has stamped and pounded his way to the seats of the mighty.

But the conceited man moves in quite a different realm. His is simply an unreasoning, unfounded opinion of his own importance. He is a giant in the world of pygmies. Many men fail because of timidity and modesty. They secretly tell themselves that they don't amount to much, that they are mediocre and that nobody is interested in their words or deeds. They sink into the hidden recesses of obscurity of complete failure.

There is a sane middle ground upon which those who get anywhere worth while in life must ever stand. Neither conceit nor timidity will carry anyone very far. Honesty is the best policy even in praising one's own talents.—Thrill Magazine.

Books Must Have Air

Recent tests by the United States bureau of chemistry, analyzing a large number of worn leather bookbindings, show that leather books need pure air and deteriorate when exposed to harmful sulphurous and acidic impurities. Backs of leather books deteriorate quicker than the sides because ordinarily they are more exposed to light and impure air, the tests reveal. To prolong the life of treasured leather bindings, steps should be taken to prevent their deterioration through the absorption of atmospheric impurities, the bureau advises. Certain coatings and finishes, notably neat's foot and castor oil, are stated to be excellent for the purpose.

Nelson's Column

The Nelson column in Trafalgar square, London, cost the comparatively small sum of £28,000, including the statue, but excluding land-seer's four lions, which were not added until 1868, nearly twenty-five years after the completion of the memorial itself. This long delay in the delivery of the lions sorely tried the public's patience, and when they were eventually forthcoming opinion was by no means unanimous concerning their artistic merit. Many cruel jests were uttered at their expense, one being that the old lion on top of Northumberland house refused to acknowledge them as brethren.

Shakespeare's Greenwood

Less than three hours' travel from dirty, busy London is the forest of Arden, which is hallowed in the minds of all who speak English by the fact that Shakespeare found in it the inspiration for his woodland scenes, and especially for the fantastically beautiful one of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The great oaks under which his fairies danced still stretch out their branches over the shadow-dappled sward.

Unknown Influences

The rhythmic law of nature merits wide study. But we have collected enough evidence to show that body growth in children, body weight in adults, appetite for food, fitness for work, the recurrence of illness, periodic mental depression, tendency to crime, impulsion to suicide, rise and fall of blood temperature, and falling in love are all influenced by a mysterious revolution.

Qualities of Good Citizen

Definition of a good citizen: A good citizen is one who observes all national, state and municipal laws and is willing to assist in their enforcement; he is honest and fearless; he is loyal to home, friends and country; and he does what he can to assist in promoting the moral, intellectual and physical welfare of the people.—Exchange.

Of the Making of Books

And further, by these, my son be admonished: of making many books there is no end; and much study is a weariness to the flesh.—Ecclesiastes 12:12.

Air Traffic Grows 200 Per Cent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.

(UP)—Air mail traffic over the lines of the Pacific Air Transport operating between Los Angeles and Seattle has increased more than 200 per cent in the last year and passenger traffic has increased more than 2000 per cent, according to Verne C. Garst, president of the corporation.

More than 40 tons of mail were carried on the coast route last year. The peak month was October, with nearly 8000 pounds.

Two five-passenger planes have been added to the fleet and frequently there are more applicants for passage than the planes can accommodate. More than 1200 passengers were carried during the year.

Ancona Hen Lays Double Egg

THORNTON CORNERS, Jan. 11.

(Special).—An egg within an egg was laid recently by an Ancona hen owned by S. P. Shortridge. When the outer shell was broken, a small soft-shelled egg was found inside. The outer shell was perfectly formed. The egg was not as large as a usual hen's egg.

Cigarettes

Young folk of today probably do not realize the injurious effects of cigarettes. They undoubtedly believe it clever to smoke cigarettes and be able to "get away with it," but they are not "getting away with it." The law may not stop them but the cigarettes will. Nicotine found in tobacco is a deadly poison. Tobacco smoking also causes many minor ailments that may result in much trouble in later years.

But the young folk of today do not think of such things. They think only for the present, not for the future. They follow the old saying, "Eat, sing and be happy, for tomorrow you may die."

What would happen in YOUR family if you or the breadwinner should be injured or killed? Could your family meet the heavy expense of prolonged illness—when the money is all outgoing and there is none incoming?

Every 40 minutes someone somewhere in the United States is injured in an automobile crash. No one knows who will be next.

Automobile accidents are only one way in which you might be injured—there are street cars, trains, boats, taxis, elevators, falling building walls, all often causes of serious accidents.

Remember this policy protects you for $1000 riding in or driving your own auto or riding with any one else and walking across the streets or highways anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Yamhill County Claims Paid:

Less than a year ago a large number of policies were issued in Yamhill county under the auspices of the McMinnville Telephone-Register, the policy being the same as that now offered in connection with subscriptions to The Sentinel. Among Yamhill county holders who have been paid claims are:

MRS. ELVES APPERSON, $50. LILY L. SHIRLEY, $10.
EARL NOTT, District Atty, $40. C. J. KUHN, $77.
JOHN HERMANS, $22.86. LULU NOTT, $100.

Protect your loved ones from the possibility of dire necessity. Provide an income should you be incapacitated by an accident covered by this policy.

Can You Take Such Risks, When $1⁵⁰ Will Protect You?

The Sentinel extends to all its readers the privilege of its unique, beneficial, widely popular accident insurance policy under which thousands of people are now insured in Oregon. We expect to place 1000 or more policies this year among our readers since we sincerely believe this service is the lowest priced and most satisfactory insurance of its kind which anyone can offer.

What Does The Policy Cover?

The policy, written by the North American Accident Insurance Co. of Chicago, one of the largest companies in the United States, is a limited policy providing indemnity for loss of life, limb, sight or time by accidental means. The payment is limited to accidents of railroad trains, street cars, auto busses and private automobiles in which the insured is a passenger or driver, but not for hire. The policy also covers injury by being struck by train or auto, or being injured by lightning, or by the collapse of a building or the burning of a public building. Payments for loss range from $1000 to $7500 and smaller payments for permanent injury to any part of the body.

Remember this policy protects you for $1000 riding in or driving your own auto or riding with any one else and walking across the streets or highways anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Disability Provisions

If the insured sustains injuries as enumerated in the policy which shall immediately, continuously and wholly—disable insured from performing all his regular duties, the company will pay $10 weekly indemnity until 15 weeks have elapsed or the insured has recovered.

Why Is The Policy So Cheap?

It is but natural to think that something so reasonable is of little value. Such is far from the case. The reason this is so inexpensive is: (1) All agent's commissions are paid by The Sentinel, which remits in full to the insurance company. Usually insurance premiums are liberally shared with the agent. (2) The policies are written in huge quantities, reducing overhead. The Seattle P-I. alone wrote tens of thousands of these policies. In California alone more than 400,000 are in force. The company, by doing so much business on so low a scale, can turn the benefits over to the insured.

How Can I Secure This Policy?

The insurance policy is issued by The Sentinel in connection with a year's subscription. With this subscription, policies at $1.50 each may be taken for all members of the family who receive the paper.

The Sentinel offers this policy (1) as a service feature and (2) as an inducement for subscriptions.

To obtain the policy call at The Sentinel office, or send a representative or mail the attached coupon to our office. New and old are equally eligible for the policies. Policies may all be renewed at the end of the year.
