FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

The following is an abbreviation of an address delivered by the editor of the Sentinel before the Endeavor societies of the Presbyterian church and published in a recent issue of the Masonic Analyst.

Character is the greatest thing there is. It is greater than riches, for riches are an emanation to the person lacking in character. It is greater than religion, for church buildings would rot and decay and preachers would die of starvation if persons of character did not stand as the bulwarks of religion. It is greater than our social fabric, because were it not for character men would fear to associate with each other. It is greater than government, for without character our governments would crumble in the dust, anarchy would triumph, property rights would vanish, food and clothing would cease to be an institution and women would be the playthings of the powerful. It is greater than reputation, for reputation may be despoiled and taken from us by an ill spoken word, but character is ours while life is ours and cannot be lowered by scandal, nor heightened by undeserved praise or compliment.

Reputation is what folks say about us. Character is what we know about ourselves. Reputation is for time. Character extends beyond the grave, into the boundless realms of eternity. Reputation we leave here. Character we take with us. We make our own character and can mould it at our will. Reputation is made by our friends and enemies. A scandal monger may ruin reputation in a moment, but character remains ours to be used in living down the poisoned words of the tale bearer.

While good name should be maintained and is of great value in our dealings with the world, by loss of good name we have lost only something of material value, while if we retain character we keep all our spiritual wealth. When character is lost we have lost everything, both material and spiritual, and are poor indeed. Character is symbolic of our attitude toward the laws of God and man; character is exemplified by our interest in the welfare and comfort of our fellow beings; character is proper fulfillment of duties we are capable of performing toward a worthwhile service; character is everything that we are, everything that we hope to be. The distinction made between character and reputation, is not intended to underrate the value of a good name, which has been considered something of great value since the beginning of written history. Even wise old Solomon recognized this when he said, "A good name is rather to be desired than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver or gold." Do not be careless with your reputation, but do not confuse it with character. Careless regard for reputation indicates a flaw in character.

Never before has there been greater need for men and women of character than today at no time in history when there has been less interest, by so many people, in the nobler and better things, when there has been more seeking for pleasures and sins that weaken character, when there has been less interest in the work of organizations that strengthen character, when there has been greater corruption on the part of those seeking and holding public office, when there has been less interest taken in the election of men of character to office, when there has been greater disregard for law, when there has been greater disrespect for the rights of others, when there has been more selfishness and fewer sacrifices. Never before has there been greater looseness in sex relationships. Men and women of character are needed for public position, men and women of character are needed to give examples of respect for law, men and women of character are needed for mothers and fathers of those who soon will take our places. The greatest trouble with the world today is that children haven't the parents that children had in the good old days, to which, we would not return but from which we might learn much in character building.

A half century ago a preacher who hadn't denounced companionate marriage would have been driven from his church. Today he can say without fear that companionate marriage must not be greatly condemned because it is little, if any, worse than what we already have. This forcibly indicates the change in character during half a century. It illustrates more forcibly than anything that the need today for men and women of character is the greatest it has ever been.

Building of character today is by far more difficult than ever. Pleasures are too common, life is too easy. Great characters were built in the days when men and women came to Cottage Grove, drove back the cougar, the rattlesnake and carved homes out of the wilderness, when food and clothing were of the coarsest, when school children sat on benches hewn from logs and walked two or three miles to get there, when preachers travelled hundreds of miles covering a circuit, when men and women provided their own pleasures, when the work day was from dawn to dark, when there were no true lies magazines and the Bible was the principal reading of leisure hours beside the tallow dip; when there was greater belief in the power of prayer and less belief in the power of pelf. Great characters are built in overcoming trials, in overcoming great obstacles, in hurdling obstructions that others said we could not surmount, in achieving great ends against great odds.

George Washington, the social lion, the man of wealth, built character that fateful winter at Valley Forge. Abraham Lincoln, the great emancipator, built character when he studied by the light of the fire-place while companions frittered their time away. Frances Willard built character in her great fight for prohibition.

You, too, can build character by doing those things other have done, but you can't build character by doing things just because others have done them. You can only build character when you do the things you know you ought to do.

After a person's face becomes marked with sin and intemperance, it is impossible to entirely remove the traces by even the most upright life; but a life of crime will quickly disfigure the once spotless window of the soul.

The boy who is taught to keep his things in their proper places thinks his parents should practice what they preach—and that the proper place for a slipper is not on the rear of his anatomy.

The person who is continually parading his virtues attracts suspicion. He should remember that the most successful counterfeit is to one that attracts the least attention.

The person not to be pitied, in our opinion, is the joker who gets sore when it is on him.

Another John Doe, said to be no relation to the others, has paid a fine of $2 for violation of the motor vehicle laws.

SOCIETY

Mrs. W. I. Hatch, Mrs. L. W. Coiner, Miss Stella Robinson, Mrs. H. A. Miller and Mrs. Mary Robinson were hostesses for the Presbyterian ladies' aid society Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors. The program, following a short business session, consisted of guessing contests and a farce appropriate for Washington's birthday. It told of the making of the first flag and Mrs. D. P. Cameron enacted the part of Betsy Ross. It was under the direction of Mrs. Coiner. Later a dainty luncheon was served, the guests matching valentines for partners. Pussy willows and green foliage were attractive decorations.

The women's missionary society of the Christian church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. Taylor as program leader. Twenty-three members were present. The subject for discussion was the negro and the remarkable work of missions in the field. Mrs. Ada Oakes and Mrs. Williams each gave a reading in negro dialect and Pastor Clive Taylor sang several negro spirituals. Mrs. Strome of Santa Clara, district secretary, talked upon the aims of the society. The group will hold its next meeting the second Wednesday in March.

Miss Jessie Sanborn and Miss Naomi Wynne were hostesses for a number of members of the Neighbors of Woodcraft lodge Monday night at the home of Miss Sanborn's mother, Mrs. W. L. Hatch. An auxiliary, to be known as the C. C. C. club, was formed. Miss Sanborn was elected president and Miss Wynne secretary-treasurer. The club will meet once a month and the next meeting will be March 5 at the home of Mrs. W. O. Wilson, with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Mabel Dixon as hostesses.

Mrs. N. E. Compton was hostess for a 1 o'clock valentine luncheon on Thursday for the Social Twelve club. Four courses were served and the luncheon table was attractive with a centerpiece of yellow jonquils and fancy red valentines as place cards. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Brighton Leonard. The afternoon was spent in a social way with needlework. Mrs. Compton was presented with a pink cineraria plant in honor of her twenty-ninth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Morris entertained Saturday evening with a bridge party for a group of friends. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Garoutte, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ventch, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett and Mrs. Tom Laffoon. Three tables of bridge were formed and Mrs. Earl Garoutte and G. A. Sanders held high score and Earl Garoutte low score. Red sweetspans in keeping with the valentine season were decorations.

Mrs. Clarence Cone entertained Thursday afternoon with a valentine party for the Ad Libitum club. Additional guests were Mrs. Robert Quigley, Mrs. A. G. Sprankle and Mrs. Raymond Cone. A pleasant social afternoon was enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served. The rooms were attractive with valentine decorations, potted plants and ferns. The luncheon table was centered with red carnations and red hearts were place-cards.

The Bona Tempo club held a covered dish supper Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garoutte in celebration of the birthday anniversary of the club. A birthday cake with one candle was the table centerpiece. A three-course dinner was served. Room decorations were sweetspans, daffodils and pussy willows. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Witte and Mr. and Mrs. James Dungan were initiated. After dinner the group went to the Arcade for a theater party.

Initiatory work was put on for one candidate at the regular meeting of the Eastern Star Friday evening. Following the work, refreshments were served. The valentine idea was carried out in the refreshments and decorations. The tables were artistic with red hearts and pussy willows and lighted tapers cast a soft glow over the assembled guests. Mrs. Earl Hill was chairman of the hostess committee.

An entertainment was given at the close of the regular session of the Royal Neighbors Thursday night. An interesting program was given and at its close and refreshments were served. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Fred Anderson, Mrs. Nellie Blackmore, Mrs. Herbert Breedlove, Mrs. S. V. Allison and Miss Helen Breedlove.

Mrs. C. H. VanDenburg entertained Saturday afternoon with a bridge party for a group of friends. Guests were Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. James P. Graham, Mrs. George Jacobsen, Mrs. W. W. McFarland, Mrs. A. W. Swanson, Mrs. George Knowles, Mrs. O. M. Kem, Mrs.

William Thum, Mrs. Clara Burkholder, Mrs. C. A. Stevens, Mrs. O. W. Hays, Mrs. W. E. Lebow, Mrs. T. C. Wheeler, Miss Lula Curria and Mrs. E. W. Armes. At cards Mrs. Stevens held high score and Mrs. Kem low score. A dainty luncheon was served and the hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Eunice VanDenburg. Table decorations were red hearts and baskets of pussy willows and red hearts were room decorations.

The Junior Christian Endeavor held a valentine party Friday evening in the Christian church parlors. The following program was given: Piano solo, Wayne Harbert; song, Eleanor Hays; reading, Ruben; piano duet, Evelyn Hays and Augusta Heck; reading, Elmer Mison; song, Wendell Small; violin solo, Evelyn Hays; piano solo, Thelma Rodgson; song, Grace Alice Carlile; reading, Wilson Stennett; reading, Beatrice Folger; duet, Aileen Turner and Evelyn Hays; reading, William Oakes. Games were played and delicious refreshments served.

The choir of the Presbyterian church held a covered dish supper Thursday evening in the church parlors before choir practice. About 36 were present and husbands and wives of choir members and Pastor and Mrs. Dunnean P. Cameron were additional guests. During the supper hour three large cakes lighted with candles were brought in to compliment Miss Esther Silsby, choir director, Mrs. O. W. Blackmore, pianist, and Miss Myrtle Kem on their birthday anniversaries.

Mrs. W. A. Garoutte and Mrs. Earl Garoutte entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Kime with a miscellaneous shower, honoring Miss Thelma Wheeler, bride elect. Seven tables of bridge were formed and Mrs. C. J. Kem held high score and Miss J. Frazier low score. A one-course luncheon was served. The house was attractive with bouquets of daffodils and pussy willows. Many attractive and beautiful gifts were given the guest of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker entertained Saturday night, honoring their son Linn on his twentieth birthday anniversary. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Bartels, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beidler, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whitlock, Genevieve Meranda, Alberta Williams, Agatha Snider, Kenneth Ward and Cad Ellis. A pleasant social evening was enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Smiley Morris and Mrs. Harold Whitlock entertained Friday at the home of Mrs. James Town for a group of friends. Those present were Mrs. Harley Gates, Mrs. Walter McCullum, Mrs. Nelson DeYoung, Mrs. Lem Culver, Mrs. Fred Anderson and Mrs. G. A. Sanders. The afternoon was spent playing bridge and a delicious luncheon was served.

The W. C. T. U. was entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Caldwell. Ten members and two visitors were present. Mrs. N. E. Compton was program leader and the afternoon was devoted to a discussion of preparation for voting. Members were urged to register. Mrs. Hanna Lewis was named director of publicity. A dainty luncheon was served.

The Degree of Honor will give a bridge party Wednesday evening in W. O. W. hall. A large number are expected. Several vaudeville numbers will be put on and prizes will be given.

Lindy Asked to Fly U. S. to China

PORTLAND, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Major Tien Lai Huang, Chinese aviator who was in Portland recently making preparations for a trans-Pacific flight from California to China in three hops next June, has expressed a desire to have Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh accompany him.

According to present plans, Major Huang will have three companions. He has engaged the services of Captain Harold Lynch of Butte, Mont., and Captain Theodore Ling, who will join the noted Chinese flyer in Seattle and has extended an invitation to Colonel Lindbergh.

Chinese businessmen in America and China are financing the flight, Major Huang said.

Pay Promptly and Succeed!

PROMPT payment of bills is one of the cornerstones of success and a good credit record is the passport to financial independence. Make your credit record a "credit" to you—use it as a steppingstone to bigger things.

Keep your credit record clear! Protect your credit and it will protect you.

In your home city, you can establish a good credit record by paying your merchants before the 15th of the month following purchase. It is on this basis, that they are granting you credit.

COTTAGE GROVE CREDIT ASSOCIATION

Our purpose is to make it harder for those NOT entitled to credit—and easier for those who are entitled to credit.
