

Presbyterian Church Sunday, March 3

7:30 P. M.—'Is There a Second Chance?' Does death end the opportunity for Salvation, or is there, as many think, a second chance. Hear this theme discussed. The following questions will be answered: (1) Will the U. S. be asked to send an Ambassador to the Pope at Rome? (2) Is it wrong to play cards just for pastime? (3) What is the creed of the Ku Klux Klan? (4) How was the Jewish Sabbath changed to the Christian Sunday? (5) Does higher education lead to atheism? H. A. M.—'The Great Refusal,' the final sermon in the morning series. This church will participate in church loyalty week, March 3 to 10.

Old Newspaper Tells of Assassination

An interesting piece of Americana was displayed at the Bank of Cottage Grove today. It was an old copy of the New York Herald, telling of the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln. The paper was issued on Saturday, April 15, 1865. The paper is owned by George E. Guard of Drain, who had been keeping it in a safety deposit box in the bank and who took it out today to give to a daughter.

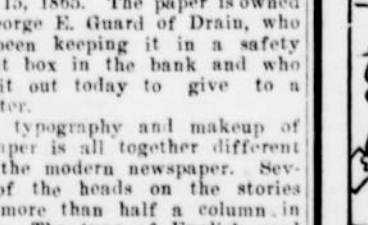

The typography and makeup of the paper is all together different from the modern newspaper. Several of the heads on the stories were more than half a column in length. The type of English used then varies greatly from the newspaper English of today.

Heavy black column rules were used to give an appearance of mourning to the paper.

Had His Lesson

An employee of a large industrial concern was given a paper to sign. "Lots of bending on it," he observed as he perused the text with interest.

"Huh!" remarked the clerk who had given him the paper. "I'll be jarridin' recently for the marriage license as carefully as that."

"Maybe not," was the reply, "but ever since I signed that I'm reading everything."

Husky Centenarian

To celebrate his hundredth birthday a few days before, M. Melrose kicked off at a Jockey's foot-bath match at York, England, recently. Melrose was formerly lord mayor of York, and on his birthday he received a telegram from the king, who referred to his long and useful life as an example of patriotism.

Odd Liguat Mixup

When a German bridegroom and a Lancashire (England) bride were married recently at the Birkbeck register office three languages had to be used to complete the ceremony. Neither understood the other's language, and the courtship had been conducted in Esperanto.

Pistachio nuts are imported from Sicily, Syria and Persia and the West Indies.

Think Fish Do Feel Pain

A German judge stated that fish have no feelings and, therefore, can not suffer pain. English fishermen disagree. According to J. R. Norman of the National History museum, South Kensington, London fish have highly organized sensory systems and can suffer pain. The fact that fish dance about after being caught certainly seems to suggest pain, he believes. He also declares that a sick fish goes pale and its eyes become blurred.

Lost Island of Atlantis

Atlantis was a large island which, according to an ancient tradition, was situated in the Atlantic ocean near the pillars of Hercules. It was first mentioned by Plato. Nine thousand years before the time of Socrates it had been a powerful nation, but had finally been engulfed by the sea. Many authorities consider the account of Plato as a pure invention, while others look upon it as a real tradition. Various attempts have been made to identify the island, but none has been satisfactorily accepted.

For an Emergency

The victim had been properly patched up, both broken legs set six stitches under the chin, plaster cast around the chest and a small silver inset in the skull.

"By the way, doc," he whispered as the weary surgeon gave one last proud look at his handiwork, "I don't know just when I'm going to pay you for all this; I've got a few hundred set by in the bank, but to tell you the truth, I'm saving the case in case of an emergency."—Medical Economics.

Then the Fireworks

In an auction room a fur wrap was being sold. A man near the auctioneer was bent on possessing it; so also was a woman standing on the outskirts of the crowd.

There were no other bidders, and they continued to bid against each other, till at last the woman gave up.

The purchaser's name was called. He was the woman's husband!

Active Centenarian

Although past one hundred five, Daniel Robinson of Maghera, Ireland, is still fishing. He seldom misses a day with hook and line, and when out fishing with his grandson recently caught twenty pike. Robinson lives with his son, who is seventy-five, and both draw old-age pensions. In the house next to him are his granddaughter and baby great-granddaughter. The aged man declares that he has never been sick a day in his life. He does not smoke, drinks very little and prefers buttermilk to porter.

Early Short-hand Forms

Godfrey Dower, in a monograph on shorthand, says: "Abbreviated writing to take down lectures and also for the preservation of poems recited at the Pythian, Nemean and Olympic games was practiced by the early Greeks and there are specimens of ancient Greek notes or shorthand in the Vatican library at Rome, the Bibliothque Nationale, Paris, and the British museum."
