

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Though the Ford tires are designated as 30 x 4.50, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel-spoke wheels.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the sidewalls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent premature wear.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

High School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL CITIZENSHIP.

This is the first of the first six weeks of this semester and points for the citizenship cup are about to be awarded. Which class will be in the lead? This contest should be carried on in a spirit of friendly competition and each class should cooperate with the others. Each class that does this will gain points in social efficiency, while the class that does not gain points. The whole aim of the citizenship cup contest is to instill in the minds of students a desire for civic improvement of the school. Projects of each class are designed to improve conditions of the school and if each class will help the other classes in their projects, the object of the contest will be achieved. Each and every student must do his part individually as well as what he does for the class as a whole. For example the senior and freshman classes are trying to keep the paper picked up off the floor, to keep it out of the desks, to keep the boards in good condition, etc. Every student will have to do his part in this or the school cannot be kept clean.

The juniors are planning to take charge of assembly programs. Let every class and every student cooperate to make these programs interesting. The sophomores are going to sponsor a series of going to school. It is impossible for a few students to keep these projects going. Let's all join for the improvement of C. G. H.

The following boys reported the O. S. C. educational exposition: Lawrence Kelly on Dr. Taylor's address; Kenneth Ward on boys' conference and entertainments and exhibit; Kenneth Goss on the convention and the presentation of football awards to members of the squad.

Daisy Warwick has been absent from school for a week because of illness. She returned Monday but was forced to return home during the day and is still absent. Louis Cave has been absent from school the past week.

An assembly was held Friday morning. Typing certificates were awarded as follows: Frances Wells, Beth Bede and Gladys Venous received certificates from the Remington company and Helen Olson was presented a silver pin from the Remington company. Letters for making 500 points in G. A. A. were presented to Beth Bede, Frances Wells and Alberta Williams. Stripes for making 250 points over their large letter were awarded to Frances Keene and Genevieve Meranda. The boys then went to the gymnasium and Mr. G. Smith had charge of reports from the O. S. C. delegates. Miss Lewis had charge of the girls' assembly. Mary Vinson reported on the women's gymnasium and some lectures she heard while there. Connie Hutchison reported on lectures, the memorial building and commerce exhibits. Beth Bailey summarized Dr. Taylor's address, told about the University of Washington and O. S. C. basketball games and Waido hall, the girls' dormitory. Viola Strong told about the sorry history of "Alpha Omicron Pi," where she was a guest Friday and Saturday.

"Adam and Eve" has been selected as the senior play. Miss Clements will direct it and it will be presented May 10 in the Arcade theater. The cast of characters has been selected as follows: James King, a rich business man, Glen Markibow; Cora, the maid, Genevieve Meranda; Julie, the king's older daughter, Ruby Melick; Clinton, Julie's husband, Kenneth Goff; Aunt Abbie, Beth Bailey; Eva, the king's younger daughter, Connie Hutchison; Dr. Dismontz, Glen Arne; Uncle Horace, Fred Wankor; Adam, Roy Hilton; Lord Andrew, an Englishman, Harold Cooley.

Cottage Grove high defeated University high 22 to 18 Friday on the local floor. The game was close but the locals maintained a lead during most of the game and they played a good brand of ball.
