Opportunity Seized by Men of Small Caliber Let this fact sink into your mind—it is the non-commissioned officer of life who hurt, and against whom resentment is felt. The foreman and the petty overseer; the small men with near horizons and no vision beyond; the little go-behinders who have acquired the habit of tyranny—these form the grit of the machinery of industry. Sometimes they are for the bosses and make life hell for the men under them. Sometimes they stand for rebellion against the higher direction, but invariably their objective is power. They are ready to adopt the shibboleths of either side so long as they gain authority thereby.

Not Original With Lincoln The saying, "You cannot fool all of the people all of the time" is commonly attributed to Abraham Lincoln and also to P. T. Barnum. Though it is not in their biographies, a little book published by A. Wessels company in 1903, "The Wisdom of Abraham Lincoln," gives this as a quotation from Lincoln's speech at Clinton, Ill., on September 8, 1858. It is quite likely that this was a proverb or popular saying long before he uttered it. A book of old English proverbs lists a similar saying: "No one is a fool always; every one sometimes."

Nature Has Hung Out Traffic Sign for Bees Highly specialized flowers often have lines on their petals to show insects the way to the glands forming their nectar. In these nectar is stored to be turned by bees into honey. Honey guides are strongly marked on the upper pair of the nasturtium's five petals. They converge to show the way to the deep spur filled with what children call honey, when they bite the spur to taste the sweet stuff. On the three lower petals, which have no honey guides, will be seen formidable barricades, blocking the entrance to the tube by the way of these petals. This remarkable force of bristly stretches right across the faces of the lower petals. They keep at bay such climbing insects as ants, which might try to steal the honey, but would be of no service to the flower.

Famous Old Canal The original canal connecting St. Mary's falls and rapids was a crude affair made by trappers and traders in 1797-98 to connect with the Northwest country in order to permit them to compete in the transportation of furs with the Hudson's Bay company. This work was practically destroyed by United States troops in 1814 during the war with Great Britain, and in 1853 a system of canals was begun by the state of Michigan within the United States borders to connect Lakes Superior and Huron. This cost $1,000,000 and had two locks. It was enlarged in 1870 in co-operation with the United States government, and in 1882 Michigan relinquished control to the federal government.

Treacher Cheaply Bought The 30 pieces of silver for which Judas betrayed Jesus Christ in our money would be worth $11.

Fatal Thrust Coup de grace means a finishing stroke. Generally the term is applied to the thrust of the dagger which kills.

Rigid Rules Laid Down for Wifely Department Wifely comportment of the standard of 1383 is outlined in an excerpt from "The Goodman of Paris" recently translated into English for the first time by Eileen Power. This author, a Paris merchant, was sixty years old, his wife fifteen: "When you go to town or to church, you should be suitably accoutred, according to your estate, and especially by worthy women, and flee suspicious company... and as you go, bear your head straight, keep your eyes lowered and still look straight before you about four rods ahead and upon the ground, without looking nor turning your gaze upon any man or woman to right or to left, nor looking up, nor glancing from place to place, nor laughing nor stopping to speak to anybody on the road. And when you have come to church, choose the secret and solitary place before a fair altar or image, and there remain and stay without moving hither and thither, nor going to and fro, and hold your head upright and keep your lips ever moving saying orisons and prayers."—Kansas City Star.

Child Behavior Merely Reflection of Parents' There is no mystery about children. They are puzzling, often, but they are never incomprehensible. At least, they are not incomprehensible to old folks, and I think they need not be to parents. Fathers and mothers are themselves the keys to their children. A disorderly father should be able to understand why his image will not put away his toys. A quick-tempered mother should not have to call a doctor for her daughter's tantrums; he can only advise self-control—in the mother.

Moon and the Weather Curiously persistent are the various superstitions relating to the effect of the moon on the weather or on the farm crops. One of the most unreasoning of these beliefs, says the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture, is that if the horns of the new crescent moon tip downward, it is a "wet" moon, portending rain.

Phrase Often Misapplied Probably the majority of people who see the phrase "of that ilk" are ignorant of the real meaning of "ilk." It does not properly mean kind, set, family or race, as often supposed. "Ilk" is from the Anglo-Saxon "ile," and means identical or same. In Scotch "of that ilk" denotes that a person's surname is the same as the name of his estate. "Knockwinnock of that ilk" means simply "Knockwinnock of Knockwinnock," the name of proprietor and property being identical. The improper use of "ilk" to mean kind or sort probably originated as a joke and has been perpetuated through ignorance of the true meaning.—Exchange.

Hence as Barometer If Cayenne pepper is added to the diet of white hens which have been hatched from carefully selected eggs, their feathers become paler, rose in color, and they flush to a brilliant red when the weather is damp, and increasing humidity indicates the coming of a storm. These hens thus become veritable living barometers, and the progression of color from pale to brilliant is so exact that a scarlet hen stalking about the barnyard is regarded as certain prognostic of a storm that may be expected within 12 hours.—The Tycoo, Rochester.

Education's Value It has been estimated that the daily value of education in an elementary school is $3; in a high school, $40; and in a college, $100. The study was based upon a survey of less than a thousand people and for that reason it is subject to inaccuracy.

Incubators in Use in Egypt Ancient Models The incubator for hatching chickens is probably as old as history, which in the Mediterranean region runs back more than 4,500 years. There were, doubtless, incubators in Egypt before Moses was born, and to this day in that country they are just what they were in the lifetime of the great Hebrew leader.

The art of hatching chickens is handed down from generation to generation, from father to son, a secret that keeps your eyes lids lowered and still look straight before you about four rods ahead and upon the ground, without looking nor turning your gaze upon any man or woman to right or to left, nor looking up, nor glancing from place to place, nor laughing nor stopping to speak to anybody on the road. And when you have come to church, choose the secret and solitary place before a fair altar or image, and there remain and stay without moving hither and thither, nor going to and fro, and hold your head upright and keep your lips ever moving saying orisons and prayers."—Kansas City Star.

"Custard" Joke Old Custard, it appears, had its place in comedy as far back as the Middle Ages, for it is related that one of the feasts of the lord mayor of London's fool was bound by his office to perform on lord mayor's day was to leap, clothes and all, into a huge bowl of custard. This was considered funny and pleased the lower class of spectators who never seemed to tire of its yearly repetition. Shakespeare refers to this performance in "All's Well That Ends Well."—Detroit News.

Daily Thought When we lose one we love, our bitter tears are called forth by the thought of the hours when our love had been all too slight. If we always had smiled on the one who is gone, there would be no despair in our grief; and some sweetness would cling to our tears, reminiscent of virtues and happiness.—Maurice Maeterlinck.

All are members of group No. 1 of the campfire girls. Mr. Cudley paid the girls of the group a commission of five cents on each dozen doughnuts sold and the group cleared $25, to be used for summer camp expenses. The answer will be found in small wastes about the store and the larger wastes which come from paying tribute to needless middlemen, losses from bad accounts, poor management, unwise selection of stocks due to the lack of training and the countless little drains on the cash register paid out for unprofitable purposes. Almost all of our net profit comes from what the ordinary dealer wastes.
