Walker-Snyder
A quiet home wedding was an event of Sunday afternoon, August 4, when Miss Agatha LaVelle Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Snyder of Eugene, was united in marriage to Lynn Walker, son of Mrs. Viola Walker. The hour was 2:30 and Rev. I. G. Shaw performed the ceremony, using the ring service, at the home where the young couple will live, 1311 South Sixth street. An improvised living room formed an attractive setting for the ceremony. The fireplace was banked with fir boughs, ferns and Shasta daisies. At each side were tall baskets of ferns and daisies and baskets of gladioli and sweetpeas were room decorations. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the room on her father's arm and met the bridegroom at the altar. The bride wore a becoming gown of orchid georgette trimmed in cream lace and carried a shower bouquet of pink and lavender sweetpeas and red Brunner roses. Her only attendant was Miss Altha Williams, who wore a frock of yellow georgette trimmed in gold lace with a corsage bouquet of lavender and pink sweetpeas. Cad E. Ellis Jr. of Redmond was best man. A buffet luncheon was served at the close of the service. The guest list included: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Scott and daughter, Ione, Mrs. Ed Savage and son, Bobbie, Mrs. Velma Addington and small daughter, Patty Lou, Thomas D. Hanson and George W. Johnson, all of Medford; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Snyder, Miss Lois Hicks, Mrs. Armeta Heller, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Sharpe and Miss Thelma Sharpe, all of Eugene; Mrs. Charles West and Vergil Wolf of Los Angeles; Mrs. Lela Redifer and daughter Shirley of Klamath Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Redifer and son Willis, Mr. and Mrs. William Bartels and son Eddie, Mrs. Virginia Walker and Miss Alberta Williams, all of this city, and Cad Ellis Jr. of Redmond.

Highest Sense of Duty in 'Doing Unto Others'

Men talk much of duty, but chieftly spend the most of their lives in efforts to evade its full obligations as readily expressed through the ages.
Tennyson says: "Sweet it is to have done the thing one ought."
To appreciate and realize this sweetness is the reward of duty. Sometimes it is hard to do the thing we ought to do, but conscious satisfaction invariably soothes the soul that has been true to itself.
Duty is a protean in aspect, but there is never a possibility that one will fail to recognize it in any expression, in any manifestation. There can be no mistake. It speaks a various language, but we inevitably understand.
The thing we ought to do makes for spiritual growth and development always. We may evade, refuse to do our duty, but in so doing we invite suffering and loss of spiritual stature and estate.
To do unto others as we would that they should do unto us is duty in the highest sense. If men would live this simple rule all our problems would be soon solved and the world would be very glad.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

New 'Angle' on Ghosts; Apparition Made Noise

"Tearing a walking tour in the north of Scotland last year a friend and I were approaching a lonely house standing in a field used by road," says a contributor to the London Post. "It was about eight o'clock in the evening and just getting dark when we saw a coach coming up the road. It was a good deal of noise as it jolted in and out of the ruts. It pulled up by the gate, and as far as we could see, a man with powdered hair descended and dashed up the drive. His footsteps echoed loudly up the drive and then ceased. We were fairly close by this time, and we both wished to look on more closely, but when we were within about 15 yards the coach was no longer there. We searched the grounds of the house, but it was absolutely deserted. On making inquiries as to next stopping place we were told that no one used the road after dark, and that the house had stood empty for 50 years."

What's in a Name?

In the hearing of a liquor case, Lieut. Harley D. Blodgett of the vice squad was asked the name of the owner of a reputed speakeasy. "What's in it?" he replied. "Are you sure of it?" defense counsel queried. "That's the name I've been told," returned the lieutenant. "What's in it?" insisted the counsel. "I'm just as sure of it as I can be of any of the names of those men," expostulated Lieut. Blodgett. "They're liable to go under any kind of names. There's one down on Columbus avenue who has signed his lease by the name of 'Tiddie Winks'."—Springfield Union.

'Faint Heart Never'

They were talking of a fellow club member. "When I come to think about it," said one man, "I don't think I've seen old Harry for nearly a week." "I'll bet you haven't," agreed another man, entering at the moment. "He's been dead three days."

Snake Unjustly Condemned

It is commonly believed that the small snake known as the puffing adder blows poisonous powder or spray from its mouth. Frequently reports are published that persons have been injured seriously by venomous spray spat into their faces by these serpents. The breath of the puffing adder, it is said, will kill a person at a distance of 25 feet. All this is fancy, pure and simple. The puffing adder is perfectly harmless. According to the United States biological survey, the snake's teeth are too short to inflict a wound even if it did strike a person.—Detroit News.

'Frock Ladies' in Africa

With the introduction of modern styles on the Gold coast of Africa "frock ladies" and "cloth mummies" have appeared. "Frock ladies" wear American and European clothes of latest style and highest cost. They are considered to be literate and are always referred to as "Lady." They never carry bundles from the store, invariably being accompanied by another female or shop attendant. "Cloth mummies" wear native attire, consisting of voluminous prints and band hand coverings, and do all the menial work.

Old Wall Papers

A recent exhibition in a Paris museum showed wall paper which originated in France in the sixteenth century. The first papers were decorated with "illumined" hand, later printed designs and imitation leather or embossed papers were most popular. In 1841 "frescos" were painted on rolls of paper for the covering of stonework. Jean Bouchardon in this year painted 50 rolls for Louis XI. "The Passion of Christ" and "The Destruction of Jerusalem" were reproduced on rolls.

Educators' Salaries

Expenditures for salaries of teachers amount to approximately 75 per cent of the total current expenditure for elementary and secondary schools. In colleges and universities it constitutes a somewhat smaller part, or approximately 50 per cent of the total spent for operation and maintenance.

Cremation in America

The first crematory in the United States was established at Washington, Pa., by Dr. P. Julius Le Moine in 1876. The first cremation was that of the body of Baron de Palin, in December of that year.

All Humanity Put on Level by Seasickness

It is refreshing to discover that, after all, the great and alleged-great are not unlike ourselves. One of the best places in the world to find this out is on board an ocean-going liner. One saw a famous surgeon, whose skill in the attack of disease brought relief to thousands, fold up like a sack in a heavy sea. The roll and pitch of the ship was more than his science could fathom.
On another trip was a celebrated woman athlete. Her name is familiar in midwestern. The young lady was sitting in the ship's foyer by the side of a woman companion. The great liner was rolling as it plowed its way through the resisting sea. Slowly the lady began to show signs of seasickness. She turned pale and her chin sank low on her bosom. Then the craft suddenly pitched forward and the young woman nearly fell from her chair. Several times she vainly attempted to reach the bracing arm of the promenade deck. It was a few feet away, but inches spelled miles to her. Another lurch and the athlete was propelled to the staircase that led to the corridor in which her cabin was situated.
A few weeks later her name was on page one of the newspaper. Her prowess at her particular game was flashed around the world. It is comforting to know that the celebrated are not superhuman.—Washington Star.

Years of Experiments to Perfect Photograph

In the development of photography the first important step was the observation that certain salts were sensitive to light. In 1777 Carl Scheele, a Swedish chemist, discovered that silver chloride was blackened quickest by the violet rays of the solar spectrum and that light rays are not all alike chemically active. About 1801 John Ritter of Jena demonstrated the existence of nonvisible chemical rays beyond the violet rays of the spectrum. The first man to produce pictures on a sensitive surface were Thomas Wedgwood and Humphrey Davy. This they accomplished in 1802, but the pictures were not permanent. It was left to John Niepce of Chalon-sur-Saone, France, to produce permanent ones. His process was called heliography. He was joined in his experiments by Louis Daguere in 1829, and in January, 1839, they announced their discovery, the daguerretype.

Poetry of Nature

"But turn out of the way a little toward you honey-suckle hedge; there we'll sit and sing, whilst this shower falls so gently upon the teeming earth, and gives yet a sweeter smell to the lovely flowers that adorn these verdant meadows." "Look! Under that beech tree I sat down when I was last this way a-fishing. And the birds in the adjoining grove seemed to live in a hallow tree, near to the brow of that primrose hill. There I sat viewing the silver streams glide gently toward their center, the tempestuous sea; yet sometimes opposed by rugged rocks and pebbles, which broke their waves and turned them into foam."—Isaiah Walton.

The Silver Lining

"Well," began the multi-millionaire, "there you have the facts of the case and I'll leave you to it." The lawyer nodded and arranged the papers which the wealthy man had thrown down on his desk in more orderly array. He knew that it was not going to be an easy task to straighten out the affairs of the rich man's son, but still, money was money. "Now, you'll look after my boy, won't you?" went on the great man. "He has had a rotten time all told. He's lost a great deal of money, and his wife, too!" "Lost his wife, has he?" echoed the lawyer, who knew the lady in question. "Well, I reckon he's about even, then."

Stranger From Space

Scientific interest is being directed to a 35-ton meteorite recently discovered in southwest Africa which has all the appearances of being a meteor. It was discovered on a farm near Grootfontein and is quite different in every way from any of the rocks to be found in that part of the country. This is almost as large as the meteorite which was brought from Greenland in 1867 by Commodore Peary, and if the African find proves to be a meteor by answering certain scientific tests, it will be regarded as a very valuable find.

The Penalty

Five-year-old Freda had taken her watch to be repaired over a week ago, and was now seeing what had happened to it. "Ready on Tuesday, miss," declared the man behind the counter. "You promise?" asked the little maiden seriously. "I promise," replied the other with a smile. But on reaching the door the little girl turned round again. "Mind you," she said gravely, "if it isn't ready by Tuesday I shall sue you for breach of promise."

Bounty Payments Are Light

Bounty payments were light for the month of July and only five bobcat bounties and one coyote bounty were collected at the office of the county clerk.

$10,000 Damages Caused By Black Butte Fire

Damage, estimated between $10,000 and $15,000, was done to property of the Quicksilver Syndicate last Thursday night when fire destroyed the mining company's office and the house occupied by the manager, Robert Betts. A short circuit in wiring in the attic was believed the cause of the fire.
Most of the records of the syndicate were saved from the office but office equipment and supplies were destroyed. Some furniture was saved from the Betts house.
Considerable difficulty was experienced in saving other buildings of the company property due to the extreme dryness of the grass and the materials of the house. The fire fighters were aided by there being no wind and the fire pump was used to keep the flames from spreading.
