Odd Divorce Customs Found Among Malays

There is a peculiar Malay tribe in Sumatra, numbering only a few hundred persons. The husband and wife live on the water, a small boat being their life-long home. The stern of the craft has the rudest kind of a shelter, while amidships there is an arrangement of stone in which a fire is built. Forward there are baskets and other means of carrying fish and other commodities which these persons gather and trade. They have no sex or organization, but they have rather definite ideas of marriage and divorce. The lover, man, meeting the girl of his choice, asks her parents. If found to be agreeable the youth has to pay down 12 Dutch dollars (equal to 30 guilders); that is, if he is able to. But he also must purchase on the installment plan and make time payments. But in this case he cannot get a divorce unless the full amount is paid to the wife. The pair then go through a ceremony. If the husband wants a divorce, then he loses the 30 guilders paid, but if the wife wants to get divorced, then she must pay 120 guilders to the husband, which she will be able to do in the rarest cases. If the man gets his divorce, then he may decide whether the children must go with him or whether they may remain with the mother; if the wife obtains a divorce and has paid the 120 guilders, then the children may choose for themselves.

Simple Way to Handle Child's Fear of Dark

If your child develops a fear of the dark, do you know how to handle it? It is possible to help him in a very simple way. When you put him to bed tonight, leave the door partly open and a dim light burning in the hall. The child will sleep in the dark, but he will lie in bed trembling with fear. This is not your aim. Your real purpose should be to remove the fear, to recondition the child. Children, the Magazine for Parents.

Good Qualities of Fruits

Nutrition and Diet says: "The apple leads among the orchard fruits. It carries small amounts of vitamins A, B, and C. It has definite laxative properties, probably owing to the large cellulose content. The young apple contains a large amount of starch, but as it ripens this is rapidly converted into sugar until when fully ripe it contains little or no starch. The acid content decreases as the sugar increases. In like manner its pectin value in the formation of jelly decreases with the ripening process. The citrus fruits are next in importance to the apple. The orchard culture is being enormously increased. Oranges come first. They offer an excellent source of readily assimilable glucose, and for this reason orange juice is used when there is necessity for quick-assimilable carbohydrate which will throw the least burden on the digestive organs. The orange contains both vitamins A and B."

Samplers in History

The earliest mention of a sampler so far found is in 1502, when Elizabeth of York paid 8 pence for an ell of linen cloth to make one. A sampler is referred to by John Shelton, the poet, about the same time. Originally samplers were intended for practical purposes. Needlework and embroidery were practically the only relaxation of women at that time and samplers were made for "handkerchiefs, tablecloths, sheets, towels, napkins and pillow covers." The earliest American sampler was that of Louisa Standish. The next reported was that of Mary Hollingsworth of Salem, which was probably made about 1695. Sarah Lord made one in 1698.

Trees Don't Freeze

Notwithstanding the popular belief that trees freeze in the winter, scientific investigation has proved, according to a Belle Isle forester, that they cannot freeze but remain dormant during the winter much like certain wild animals. "Every day or so some one asks about the trees freezing," he said, "and they seem to doubt my word. Sap circulation stops in the winter and the cells remain inactive. The sap congeals and prevents freezing else the tree would die. Sometimes frost will split a tree trunk but this is due to contraction and expansion and not to freezing."—Detroit News.

"Hope Chest" Forest

The little Turkish town of Tschekirge owns a forest not like any other forest in the world. Every tree is a potential hope chest. No girl there could ever get in the marriage market without a hope chest, for Tschekirge girls have always had hope chests. So it is a custom for every father to plant a tree when he is blessed with a new daughter. It grows up with her, and when the time comes to start the significant hope chest the tree is cut down, cut up and sold. The money thus derived is stowed in the chest. Every tree in this municipal forest is named for a girl.

Safer Than Canoe

Just Tenkles says he is still afraid of a dirigible, but, at that, he believes it is safer than a canoe.—Washington Star.

Banish Worry

Worry is one of the greatest burdens we carry through life. It saps more of our strength than any other one thing. And it is so cowardly. Care seldom rides on the back of the man who faces his problems with courage.—Grit.

True Friendship

It is essential to true friendship that it be reciprocal. A one-sided attachment can never be called friendship. In the judgment of mankind there is no crime so base as ingratitude toward a friend.—James Cardinal Gibbons.

Nice Distinctions as to "Why" of Whistling

Whistling is the boy's own music, according to the Springfield Republican. It is as natural for him to whistle as it is for a bird to sing—although the music is not always as melodious. But whistling, like other practices, is restrained and quieted by unwritten rules of etiquette. It is interesting to view this subject from the standpoint of manners.

A boy reprimanded, a servant dismissed, goes away whistling, if he dares. He wishes to express contempt, and he succeeds, at least, in enraging his master generally. A hobbyist, just the reverse of the breach of the proprietaries common to bursts into a whistle. This is to save his face, meaning no harm; but it signifies "I don't care" which just the reverse of the apology needed. At best it shows indifference; at worst, as the dullest feel, insult and provocation.

Roswell tells a little story of whistling illustrating the independent significance. Johnson and he were dining with the duke of Argyll, who asked a man present to fetch some carriages from another room. He brought the wrong article, and the duke sent him back.

The exact position of this man to his host is undiscovered. However, Roswell says: "It could not refuse, but to avoid any appearance of servility he whistled as he went out of the room. On my mentioning this afterward to Doctor Johnson he said it was "a nice trait of character."

Boswell grasped with ease the objection, which is unintelligible to some persons.

Old Churches Put to Variety of Purposes

The oldest English social institution is the parish vestry. It is a descendant of the tribal council of most primitive human establishments, combined with the nearly as old institution of religion. A body of persons entrusted with the administration of the temporal affairs of a parish was so called from the former custom of holding parish meetings in the vestry of the church. In ancient England vestries regulated all parochial affairs, ecclesiastical or civil. Indeed, the parish church of the fourteenth century was the common hall, some times the common market place and theater of its district. When the host and portable altar were removed the church would be employed for all purposes. A landowner who found he had more wool or grain than he could take care of on his own premises could store it in the church stables. A small fee was paid to the person. Even the tower of the church was used. Especially in the more exposed districts near the sea, it was a place of refuge in the case of the inhabitant—Detroit News.

Ants' Fire Brigade

Who are the fire fighters of the insect world?

Tests carried out by a French woman scientist, Mme. Marguerite Combes, have proved that red ants organize themselves into fire brigades and are able to extinguish flames by the application of formic acid.

When Mme. Combes placed a lighted cigarette on an ant hill, the alarm was given immediately, and the insect firemen set about their task successfully. The experiment was changed several times, with the same result, and a lighted taper was also extinguished. Finally a lighted candle was used, and this was put out in about a minute.

When ants were in danger of burning they were dragged to safety by their companions.

Duties of Party "Whips"

Party whips are of recent introduction into the congress of the United States. The office has long been in existence in the British parliament. The duties of whips are (1) to inform members of the date of the next session of the state or party convention, (2) to count the vote in every division, and report the results to the speaker, (3) to inform members of the important division occurs and (4) to tell members how to vote. The government whip must also "keep a house," or quorum, when government business is transacted.

Forbidden Fun

A Chinese boy of fourteen, according to the North China Herald, was involved in an automobile accident, witnessed the death of a pedestrian during a police battle with kidnapers, and was himself kidnapped and held for two hours. He was on his way to school when all this happened and, arriving finally, he apologized to the teacher for being tardy.

Like any normal boy, he realized that under no circumstances should mere adventures and pleasure interfere with his education.

Hard to Find

He was very old, but passionately attached to the royal and ancient game. The more he played, however, the more inaccurate became his strokes, and his play generally was worse and worse as time went on.

Finally, after missing the ball 15 times in succession on one occasion he turned to the patient caddy and remarked:

"Dear, dear! I suppose there can't be any worse players than myself."

"Well," replied the caddy con solingly, "there may be worse players, but of course, they don't play."

Health Hint

Loss of body heat through the skin runs as high as 90 per cent. Proper clothing, therefore, holds this heat in winter while it allows it to be lost in summer. That is why we should change the weight and the texture of our clothing.

Famous Inscription

The famous Rehistan rock in Persia, on which is carved the triumphal inscription of Darius the Great, is 300 feet above the highway. Sir Henry Rawlinson, an Englishman, discovered these inscriptions in 1837, 23 centuries after they had been carved there.

Drains Enrich the Soil

The vast sandy plain on which Berlin is situated provides a soil adapted to the working of the famous Berlin drainage system, established in 1876. Runoff from sewage from the city by radiating mains to surrounding farms, 43,000 acres of which are under municipal control. All are under sanitary supervision.

The bride wore a period gown of white taffeta. A wedding breakfast was served at the Columbia cafe after the ceremony and the table was attractive with summer flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Van Nortwick left immediately for California on a wedding trip. Mrs. Van Nortwick is a teacher in the junior high schools of Eugene and will have charge of physical education. Mr. Van Nortwick is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Van Nortwick. Mrs. Van Nortwick was graduated from the University of Oregon with the class of 1926 and is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Ridenour, salesman for the Cottage Grove office of the Mountain States Power company, and Miss LaVera Robinson of Ashland was solemnized Sunday in Ashland and the young couple returned here Monday night. Mr. Ridenour will leave soon for Riverton, Wyo., to which point Mr. Ridenour has been transferred.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Arnes were hosts Friday evening at a dinner party for a group of relatives. Covers were laid for Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Arnes of Twin Falls, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Norval Arnes and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Arnes of Eugene and Cecil Arnes and the hosts. Dr. Arnes is a brother of E. W. Arnes.

Mr. Hallie Ingle of Albany, president of the Rebekah assembly of Oregon, will pay an official visit to the Cottage Grove Rebekah lodge Friday evening.

Cat Long Considered Emissary of Witches

Cats have bulked large in the thought of both the Old world and the New. During the first of the more notable witch trials at Chelmsford, in England, in 1566, it was charged on Mrs. O. L. Nichols, named "Sathana," which sucked blood, had taken the form of a toad and caused the death of a man who happened to touch it. An injunction widely followed was that cats must be kept away from a corpse to prevent them from mutilating it or from "taking the soul of the dead." Increase Matthews wrote: "There are some who, if a cat accidentally comes into the room, though they may neither see it nor be told of it, will presently be afraid and ready to die away." In eastern Kansas a cat washing her face before breakfast foretells rain; in western Maine a storm is assured if a cat scratches a fence; in Scotch Cove, Newfoundland, tradition asserts that when a cat crouches in salt water, showers from the heavens may be expected.

British Monarch's Title

James I wished to use the title of "King of Great Britain" instead of "King of England and Scotland," and even went so far as to have it placed on his coat of arms. In 1604 he asked parliament to consent to the new title, but fears were expressed lest the laws and liberties of England might be jeopardized and the commons urged that some agreement as to the terms of union precede assumption of the title. James finally yielded to the advice of his minister, Robert Cecil, and the change was deferred. The title did not receive parliamentary sanction until the Act of Union, 1707.
