

Tibetan Woman a Worker

A married woman in Tibet not only manages her household, but she even helps erect her house. Cooking, sweeping and water carrying do not encompass her talents. She helps the men sow, reap and plow, and develops her muscles by cutting firewood and carrying huge bundles to her abode.

Souvenir From Garden

of Eden for Tourists

If, on your vacation you happen to stumble into the town of Qurna at the junction of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers you may not be impressed by the scenery or the city, but you will soon be informed that it is the site of the Garden of Eden, and to prove it you will be shown the "Tree of Knowledge," says a writer in the Washington Star. The tree is merely a decayed trunk with a few scraggly branches and these will soon be out of business, but the natives have thoughtfully planted another tree nearby and this baby will probably do service as "the tree" when the older one has departed.

Anyone visiting this locality is presumed to have come to see the tree, for there is little else, and the children of the town are eager in their efforts to act as guides to visitors. The new arrival is at once escorted to the "tree," where the guide gives a full and complete tour of the site. Arriving on the ground the boys will bound into the branches and offer chips as souvenirs.

Just Another Example of Unrewarded Genius

Mankind has a habit of ignoring its benefactors and allowing its geniuses to die in want. Benjamin Dancer, who died in poverty and blindness in 1887, is a case in point. Dancer, whose name is practically unknown, would, if he could survey the world, see one of his inventions used untold millions of times daily. Every time a button is pushed to ring a bell and the ringing stops when the pressure is released, it is time to ring up one more for Dancer. He invented the spring electrical contact interrupter, which is the basis of all push buttons. This device was also used for years on automobiles and X-ray machines. He invented the porous cup used for years in wet batteries. Among other things he invented were various appliances for research work by scientists.

Polish Mourning Traditions

Polish tradition is very strict as regards mourning, at least in the case of women. Mourning is signified above all by a black hat and veil. In the hard postwar years poverty compelled opinion to accept any dark-colored dress and even at the funeral itself.

The hat and veil were worn, not only by women but also by girls of all ages from ten upward. It is quite common to see a schoolgirl running about with a veil trailing behind her such as only an old-fashioned widow would wear in western Europe or America.

This custom does not affect working women, since they rarely wear hats, but only shawls over their heads.

Burbot May Out Codfish

The nearest fresh-water relative of the cod, the burbot fish, may strip its kin of honors in producing medicinally valuable oil.

Scientific experiments, reported to the bureau of fisheries, have demonstrated that burbot liver oil is eight times as potent as cod liver oil in the treatment of rickets.

The burbot, inhabiting the Great lakes and considered a pest by fishermen because it tears their nets and preys on small fry, may become a significant part in the commercial catch, it is believed.

The annual catch of the fish, known also as lawyer or eel pout, was $10,972 pounds in 1927.

Cigarette Statistics

The United States Department of Agriculture says that burned or burning cigarettes are discarded in the United States at the rate of 170,000 a minute, or $100,000,000,000 a year. Ignition tests made with pads of dry grass showed that a burning cigarette butt would start a fire in 90 per cent of the cases with a wind velocity of three to four miles an hour. The cigarette is one of the greatest fire hazards the forest knows. A trifling fraction of the enormous number of butts discarded is enough to do immeasurable fire damage in forests, wood lands and grass lands.

Grades of Ebony

Ebony is the wood of a number of related trees, found in nearly all parts of the tropical world. Its northernmost range is northern Bengal, in India, and in localities of similar latitude and climate. The best grades are from a certain species native to southern India and Ceylon. Another much appreciated variety is from Madagascar. Other places where ebony grows are in Africa, especially Angola; in the East Indies; and the poorer Jamaica variety, in the West Indies.

The Peaceful Colt

Two County Cork boys were in a moping-up party that were followed the main assault. In a large shell hole they found a group of ten or twelve Germans sound asleep, apparently missed by the first wave.

"Well," said Sean, "shall we shoot 'em or stick 'em?"

"Ho, hum," said Denis, looking up at the sky, "it's a fine day. Let's wake 'em up and have a fight!"—Pullman News.

Thifty, Lying Americans?

About one-half of the homes in the United States are owned by men with incomes less than $2,000. So, after all, this thing of saying Americans are not thrifty is based on imagination instead of facts. We guess that about 90 per cent of what we Americans say is untrue. We have developed into a race of liars, we regret to say.—Atchison Globe.

Phoenicians First

While ancient Egypt knew ships which would sail upon the Nile, credit is usually given to the Phoenicians for the building of the first galleys which could stand sea travel. As early as 900 B. C. the Phoenician war galley had reached the trireme stage and had decks, masts, yards, sails, etc.

Breaks in Slumber

In an average night, our most restless adult sleeper awakens about 42 times, our quietest sleeper about 21 times, our most typical sleeper about 35 times. Most of these periods of waking are brief and the sleeper can remember perhaps two to five the next day.—Dr. H. M. Johnson.

Hard to Picture Orient

Without the Date Tree

For untold ages the date has been a staple article of diet in the Orient. It is said that a half-pound of dates and a half-pound of milk make a sufficient meal for a person of sedentary habits. The date needs milk to round out a food balance. An intensely hot climate and plenty of water are necessary for the production of dates. As an old Arabian saying goes: "A date palm must have its head in fire and its feet in water." Some believe that when Adam and Eve lived in the Garden of Eden, they subsisted very largely upon the date. In fact, that part of Mesopotamia which produces to this day the best dates is regarded as the probable site of the Garden of Eden. Archeologists, in making excavations in this region, have uncovered ruins thousands of years old, among which have been found broken sculptures of the date palm, together with references to the use of its fruit as a food. According to an old Arab story, after God had created Adam, some of the soil clung to his hands and the palm tree was a date palm. The leaves were set in a feathery crown at the top the same as He created man. So it is only natural that the palm should be as nearly perfect a tree as Adam was a human being.

Seam of Burning Coal

Keeps Mountain Warm

A unique Australian phenomenon is the "Burning Mountain" at Wingen in northern New South Wales, which scientists say has been on fire 1,000 years. According to a party of geologists, who have just returned from an exploration of the mountain, says an Associated Press dispatch from Sydney, there lies below the surface a burning coal seam, which has been known to the aborigines, and to them it owes its name, Wingen, signifying "fire." The geologists report that the summit presents the appearance of the debris of a vast block of buildings consumed by fire with an explosion or two thrown in. Smoke and steam continuously are issuing from different points, and there are numerous deposits of alum and sulphur.

The burning seam probably is 30 feet or more in thickness, say the geologists, and is being consumed at the rate of 120,000 tons each year. The warmth of the mountain in winter time attracts cattle, horses and wild animals.

Paper Has Kept Growth

In the United States the history of paper is the history of the country. When the Revolutionary war broke out there was hardly enough paper available to write the orders of their officers. There was virtually no paper. By 1810, however, the use had increased to about one pound per capita per year. It had grown to eight pounds in 1850. The Civil war greatly accelerated consumption, which reached 25 pounds in 1865. In 1899 it was 57 pounds; in 1923, 150 pounds, and today the people of the nation annually consume more than their own weight in paper.

Gems Always Desired

Brilliant objects have always inspired man with a desire for their possession, and precious stones have occupied an important position on account of their form and color. The history of gems runs parallel to that of humanity, and has been associated with the development of religion and science from the most remote times. Their connection with the church can be traced from the offerings of jewels in temples to the end of the fifteenth century as the chief possession of the "treasury" of Christian churches.

Authentic Giants

Ellis Ewing, known as the Missouri giant, was born in Scotland county, Missouri, of normal parents, and at birth weighed 45 pounds. She grew up normally between the ages of eight and twenty-two years until she reached the enormous height of 8 feet 4 inches. She wore a number 24 shoe. It took 30 yards of silk to make a dress for her. When she stopped at hotels two ordinary beds had to be placed side by side so she could sleep across them. She made a fortune traveling about on exhibition and died at the age of forty years.

Decatur's Schoolboys

The dashing Decatur who humbled the proud city of Algiers, and after whom so many New York boys were named when he was in the zenith of his naval glory, lived in Powder Mill lane and went to school at the Lower Dublin academy in Holmsburg. For all its pretentious name, the "academy" was a small log and stone structure with only two front windows and a shingled roof. Stephen Decatur did not go to school there, but he is said to have carved his name on every desk in the school room.—New York Times.

Matter of Long Dispute

The true origin of the expression "O.K." is not definitely known, though several explanations have been derived from a Choctaw Indian word meaning "it is so"; it has been attributed to an Indian chief, Old Keokuk; it has been considered the initials of "Ori Korrect"; it has been called an error for "O. L." (ordered record). Another authority ascribes it to Aux Cayes, pronounced o-kay, in Haiti, from whence the best rum and tobacco was exported in Colonial days.

Mrs. George Matthews and Mrs. George Jacobsen entertained Wednesday afternoon of last week at the Matthews home with a large bridge party. Guests were Mrs. A. A. Richmond, Mrs. Nelson Durham, Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. C. M. Kohn, Miss Myrtle Egan, Miss Esther Sibley, Mrs. W. W. McFarland, Mrs. A. W. Kline, Mrs. James P. Graham, Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. S. L. Godard, Mrs. Vinal Randall, Mrs. William Thum, Mrs. George Knowles, Mrs. W. E. Lebow, Mrs. H. K. Metcalf, Mrs. D. H. Hemenway, Mrs. H. C. Bryden (Eugene), Mrs. T. C. Wheeler, Mrs. Elbert Smith, Mrs. L. L. Stewart, Mrs. L. W. Colner, Mrs. L. W. Arnes, Mrs. C. F. Hoskins, Mrs. A. W. Swanson. At cards Mrs. McFarland held high score and Miss Sibley low. The room were attractive with dahlia, gladioli and chrysanthemums in bright hues. At the hour a dainty two-course luncheon was served and the hostesses were assisted in serving by Elsie Jacobsen and Madeleine Beidler.

Members of the Epworth League, young people's organization of the Methodist church, were entertained Tuesday night at a "hobo" party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Harvey. Guests came dressed in hobo clothing and to reach their destination had to walk a stretch of miniature railroad track. The house was made to appear a hobo hangout. Curtains were taken down, newspapers patched the windows wrapping paper, wooden socks and handkerchiefs were scattered about the room, and a collection of pieces were cabbages, cauliflower and lettuce that had gone to seed. Improvised games in keeping with the hobo spirit were played. The "hobo" also asked the neighbors for handouts but were put to work and earned $5 for the league treasury. On their return to the Harvey home they were fed muligan stew from a large iron cauldron.

The Constellation club held its first fall meeting of the club year last Tuesday afternoon in Masonic hall with Mrs. T. C. Wheeler, Mrs. O. L. Nichols, Mrs. William Thum and Miss Mariette Hamant as hostesses. Special guests were Mrs. J. H. Chambers, Mrs. A. L. Van Ouden and Mrs. C. W. Beatty. A short business meeting was held. A pleasant afternoon was spent with needlework and a dainty two-course luncheon was served. After gladioli, snapdragons and other fall flowers were colorful room decorations. The young son of Mrs. Veatch caused considerable excitement when he fell down stairs. He suffered no serious injuries.

Mrs. Herbert Eakin, Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. A. W. Shofstall, Mrs. Oliver Veatch, Mrs. Esther Sibley, Mrs. A. L. Van Ouden and Mrs. C. W. Beatty were hostesses Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors for a meeting of the Presbyterian ladies aid society. A short business meeting was held. It was decided that the October meeting will be the annual experience social and plans were made for a "clean-up day" to be held Wednesday, September 18, when women of the church will meet at 9 a. m. and clean the church. A social hour followed the business meeting and members related their vacation experiences. Watermelon and cucumber bouquets were served as refreshments.

Mrs. H. A. Miller and Mrs. Jos Smith were joint hostesses for the first fall meeting of the Port Thum's club Monday afternoon, entertaining at the home of Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Hunt and Miss Mariette Hamant were special guests. A business meeting was held and names were drawn for the annual Christmas tree. A pleasant social afternoon was enjoyed and a delicious two-course luncheon was served at the tea hour. Baskets of colorful fall flowers were attractive about the rooms. The club will be entertained at its October meeting by Mrs. C. E. Frost and Mrs. J. Q. Willits at the home of Mrs. Frost.

For the pleasure of the teaching staff of the Cottage Grove school, Mrs. F. L. Gramis, Mrs. D. A. Emerson and Mrs. William Thum entertained with a tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gramis. The rooms were attractive with baskets of asters, zinnias, marigolds and other fall flowers. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. William S. Averill and Mrs. Elbert Smith. A bouquet of zinnias in a silver basket flanked by yellow candles in silver candlesticks added to the attractiveness of the tea table. Over 30 attended.

The Mothers' club met Thursday of last week for an all-day session at the home of Mrs. H. C. Schaefer. Twenty members were present and Mrs. R. B. Reed was a guest. A covered dish luncheon was served at noon on the lawn. Two quilts were completed. Mrs. Rosa Currin, in charge of welfare work, reported that 40 garments, nine hats and five pairs of shoes had been given out during the preceding month. The club will hold its next all-day meeting October 3 at the home of Mrs. Vinal Randall.

The Research club met Tuesday evening in the library for the first meeting of the fall and took up the study of China. Mrs. Payne Isom was program leader and gave an interesting talk on the geography of the country. The club will hold its next meeting September 24 and Mrs. A. W. Shofstall will be leader.

Typewriters for rent, Sentinel.

The Delphian society held its first meeting of the season Monday evening in the library. The club took up the study of Shakespeare's play "As You Like It." Mrs. R. A. Trask was program leader. The plot of the play and act I were given by Mrs. Alice Miller; act II, Mrs. C. E. Unphrey; act III, Mrs. Elbert Bede; act IV, Mrs. C. C. Crum; act V, Mrs. S. L. Godard. Character sketches were given as follows: Rosalind, Mrs. John Kelly; Orlando, Mrs. Alice Miller; Jacques, Mrs. F. E. Mendenhall; Touchstone, Mrs. Vinal Randall.

The ladies' circle of the Baptist church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. H. Randt and 20 members were present. A surprise shower was given for Mrs. Harold Mendenhall. A regular business meeting was held and it was decided to divide the circle into five groups, each group to arrange and give an entertainment or program during the year. The group in charge this year is Mrs. L. G. Shaw and Mrs. Madden as hostesses. A business meeting was held and plans were made to hold the annual experience social on Friday, September 18. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The W. C. T. U. was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. F. Wells and the following officers were elected: Mrs. Elbert Applewhite, president; Mrs. Frank Houser, vice president; Mrs. Anna Traylor, treasurer; Mrs. S. E. Compton, secretary. A gift was given the hostess who is going away. It was announced that the county W. C. T. U. convention would be held Friday in Eugene. A watermelon feed was enjoyed.

The ladies' aid society of the Christian church met Wednesday afternoon of last week in the church parlors with Mrs. L. G. Shaw and Mrs. Madden as hostesses. A business meeting was held and plans were made to hold the annual experience social on Friday, September 18. Refreshments were served.

The young people of the Christian church held an enjoyable party Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hemenway west of the city. The girls had planned a party for that evening and the boys came on Thursday. After the girls had assembled at the church the boys kidnapped them and carried them to the Hemenway place, where the evening was spent with games and music. Refreshments were served.

The Joker club met Friday evening for its first meeting of the club year and a 6 o'clock dinner was served at the Colonial cafe and was followed by an evening of bridge. Members present were Miss Eunice Vandenberg, president, Mrs. William Thum, Mrs. T. C. Wheeler, Mrs. O. M. Miller, Mrs. S. V. Allison, Mrs. W. E. Lebow, Mrs. C. E. Frost and Mrs. A. W. Swanson.
