

GET RIGHT WITH GOD.

"Prepare to meet thy God... why will ye die?" "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." "God so loved... he gave... that none perish... the believer will not perish... the disbeliever will perish." "Whoever will, let him take the water of life freely." The Bible is full of God's love to men. Warns us of death and hell. Jesus came to save us from both. It's madness, it's folly, we add sin to sin and go and take others to hell with us, in rejecting the word of God. Jesus says—"He that receiveth me I will receive—He that loveth me and my word I will dwell in him before my father and the angels in heaven." Refusing to accept a hell does not blot hell out. But it spreads the fires and miseries of hell when you refuse. There is Bible enough in this article to save you if you WILL. Get right with God.

Glee Clubs Please With
'Sailor Maids' Operetta

"Sailor Maids," an operetta presented Wednesday night in the high school gymnasium by the combined high school glee clubs, proved an entertaining musical comedy filled with luring tunes and clever lines. The cast and chorus showed careful training and much credit for the success of the production is due Miss Virginia J. Hunt, who directed the operetta.

Of the leads Donna Bartell as Frances Marie was outstanding, both for the quality of her voice and her acting. Miss Bartell has a clear soprano, her tones were true and her solos were the most pleasing part of the operetta.

Mary Vinson as Olga, the Swedish housekeeper, had a difficult role which she played excellently, winning much applause. Her solo and dance were big hits of the production.

The other leads, Ralph Boslaugh as David Kern, Madeline Beldier as Jeanette, Howard Jacobsen as Gerald, Elmer Allen as Edward, Read Hemenway as Cyrus Templeton, Marvin Shaw as Captain Dover, were all good in their parts.

Sailor dances were given during the production by a group of girls and by two boys.

Between acts Jerrine Burrows gave a reading.

Miss Hunt, director, Miss Eariel Lee Gilbert, assistant director, and Mrs. Bert Kerns, dancing coach and class adviser, were given courtesies by the sophomore class, which managed the operetta.

Nutrition Expert Holds Meeting. HEERON, March 5.—(Special.)—

Forty women attended the all-day nutrition meeting held Tuesday at the Heeron hall under the direction of Miss Lucy Case, nutrition specialist of the extension division of Oregon State college. Miss Case demonstrated 20 ways to make sandwiches and made 40 small ones of each kind. She also demonstrated making vegetable chowder. A luncheon was served at noon, the menu consisting of the sandwiches and chowder with jello salads and coffee.

The women were weighed and told whether they were overweight, underweight or average. The afternoon was given over to a talk by Miss Case on eating to reduce or increase weight.

The next meeting, scheduled for April 4, will deal with the use of milk, butter and eggs.

State Legion Commander to Visit. Plans for a visit on March 17 of S. S. George of Eugene, state commander of the American Legion, were made by the local Legion post at its meeting Monday night.

Ray Vinson was appointed to take charge of the cooking of an old-fashioned army feed.

The Legion voted to assist the local club with its production, "Good Morning Judge," which will be given March 11 to raise money for local boy scout troops. The membership committee reported that 43 paid up members had been signed up in the recent two-week drive.

Frederic Bennett reported that the Legion honor roll board had been lighted and that stars will be printed after the names of 1930 paid up members.

Hubby Does Some Back
Seat Driving in Kitchen

What's the trouble, anyhow, aren't you going to get any dinner tonight? You sure are getting a late start. Watch out there, can't you see you have the gas turned too high? Why don't you put some water in that teakettle or else take it off the fire? Hey, you, don't shake that after so hard, you are getting floor all over the floor. My goodness alive, that bread won't be fit to eat if you put all that salt in it. Look out, you came very near cutting your hand severely with that can opener. What's the special attraction out side; don't you realize that you can't look out the window and scramble eggs at the same time? For pity's sake, are you blind? Look at that oven thermometer, over 50 degrees too high. Why don't you turn off those jets when you have nothing cooking over them? No wonder the gas bill runs over $10 every month. Holy smoke, turn that meat over before it burns to a crisp. I don't believe you would ever get a meal ready if I didn't come out here and help you.—Kansas City Times.

Humble Ax Revealed as Instrument of Romance

The ax is a tool of romance. In almost every age it has played a major part in man's struggle for existence.

From earliest history, on down through the Stone age, the Bronze age and the Iron age, and more especially during the time of America's early pioneers—the ax has been the indispensable friend of man.

With the building of primitive log cabins went the building, too, of strong characters and stout muscles.

Washington, Boone, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Gladstone of England, and many other great names in history are associated with the ax. No other tool promotes the same kinship of man with nature. Through its medium one captures the spirit of the forest, one senses that feeling of sublimity which comes through aiding the growth of majestic trees, by the removal of deformities, weak specimens and fire hazards.—Peter McLaren, America's champion chopper, in the Ax Manual.

Smoke and Sight

It probably has never occurred to many smokers that much of the pleasure in the habit is derived from seeing the smoke curl up from one's cigar, cigarette or pipe. It had never occurred to the Sun's Rays reporter either until recently when he offered a cigarette to a blind man, who had once been an inveterate smoker.

"No, thank you," the sightless man replied. "I have never smoked since I became blind, although I once thought I could not do without my tobacco. I don't care anything about it now because I can't see the smoke."

"As a general rule, if you'll notice, you'll find that very few blind persons smoke. After all," he added philosophically, "smoking is a negative pleasure, anyway."—New York Sun.

Forestry Officials Guests
Chamber of Commerce

Talks Are Given on Forests, Roads, Goat Raising, Proposed Mining Activities.

Forestry officials and employees were special guests at the monthly luncheon of the chamber of commerce Tuesday night and forestry affairs and forest roads were discussed.

Those present were C. B. Neal, for many years district supervisor at Roseburg; Vernon Harpham, who was recently appointed to take Mr. Neal's place; Ray Engler, former ranger at Rujada, now stationed near Oakridge; Paul Pieper, ranger at Rujada; Kenneth McReynolds, Cottage Grove boy now with the forestry office at Roseburg, and C. A. Thurston, of the Klamath lakes district, who is employed for several weeks assisting Ranger Pieper.

J. T. Smith reported on his attendance at a recent session of the Western Traffic association held at Medford.

O. E. Crowe, county commissioner, spoke briefly on roads, with particular reference to those into the Bohemia mining district and in south Lane county.

E. E. McLendon gave an interesting talk on goat raising and what it has done for other sections of the country.

George Jennings, of the Lead Crystal Mining company, spoke briefly on proposed activities this season in the Bohemia district.

PART TIME ECONOMICS
SCHOOL STARTED HERE

Organization of a part time school in home economics was completed Friday at a meeting at which Miss Frances M. Wright, state supervisor of home economics, was present. Miss Merle Bowen, domestic science teacher in the high school, will have charge of cooking; Mrs. Orpha Benson, domestic art teacher in the high school, will have charge of sewing and Mrs. Hugh Trunnell of Latham, who was instrumental in securing the school, will have charge of the singing, topics and projects.

The class is designed for those engaged in home duties and is for girls and women 14 years of age and older. The class was organized in a 24-hour unit basis, which may be increased if the demand continues.

The first meeting is being held today at the practice house.

Gas Company Seeks
Fifty Year Franchise

The Natural Gas company of Portland has made formal application to the city for a 50-year franchise. The application has been turned over to the city attorney for scrutiny. No statement accompanied the petition as to a date contemplated for the establishment of a gas business here.

TRIANGLE

The financial triangle we have in mind is not the one that may be thought of by those who believe it to be the problem of adding and subtracting a person's income to make it meet multiplying expenses. The triangle we are thinking of is federal inspection, the federal reserve system and the known reliability of its directors which make this bank the outstanding financial institution of the country it serves. While inspection and regulation may at times be irksome to business, they are welcomed by this bank which thinks first of the safety and security of the funds entrusted to it. Every resident of south Lane should have a checking account with this old reliable banking institution.
