Norway Wedding Feast One to Be Remembered

A Norwegian housewife will spend months in the active preparation of a daughter's marriage feast. Friends, neighbors, acquaintances, kinsmen and kinswomen come from far and wide. All must be welcomed. All must be fed and "refreshed," and without limit. There must be cheese, sweet soups, puddings, fish and game in enormous quantities. To have any one of the most numerous items of drink or food give out or run short would be a disgrace which nothing could wipe out. There must, above all, be brandy in mad abundance. As a rule, several couples are married at the same time. This diminishes a waste of time, and concentrates to one occasion what would otherwise be spread over several.

The gowns which the Norwegian bride wears are often of great value. There are frequently the property of the church, and are hired for a nominal sum. Other parts of the costume are often the church's, too, and the bride who cannot afford to purchase an elaborate bridal outfit can always hire one.

Familiar Phrase Roused Dozing Judge to Dignity

There was no mistake about it—the judge was asleep. The embarrassed lawyer, who had reached the telling point of his argument, spoke in a higher key, and then raised his voice to its loudest pitch. But the judge slept on. The court officers were blind to the young lawyer's hints. At length, in desperation, he turned to the opposing counsel. "Now, you see the delicate situation I am in, and there's only one way out. Unfortunately, I haven't any books with me, but if you don't object I am going to knock over that pile of yours." With a well-directed blow the young lawyer struck the books, and they went down with a terrific crash, just before his astonished brother leaped to his feet and exclaimed, "But I do emphatically object!" Then the judge, without raising his head from the position it had been occupying for the last fifteen minutes, replied, with his wonted dignity, "Objection over-ruled!"

Identifying Herself

The theater queue had had a long, long wait. But at last they began to shuffle slowly forward as the early doors were opened. Suddenly a young flapper rushed up and insinuated herself behind a stout and elderly gentleman. A keen believer in fair play, he turned upon her.

"How dare you push in here?" he demanded. "That isn't your place."

"Oh, yes, it is!" replied the girl, pertly. "I only went off to get some candy, and I put a cross on your back with my lipstick so that I'd know my proper place when I came back. Take your coat off and see for yourself!"—London Answers.

Noted Irish Patriot

James Napper Tandy was an Irish agitator, who lived from 1740 to 1803. In 1798 he went to Paris and was put in command of a vessel for the invasion of Ireland. He remained on Irish soil, however, for only eight hours and then went to Norway and to Hamburg. At the latter place he was seized and delivered to the English and upon his return to Ireland condemned to death. Bonaparte, however, brought pressure to bear in his favor and he was released. He then went to France, where he lived until his death. He was the hero of the famous ballad "The Wearing of the Green."

Hearing Insects Feed

"You wrote recently in this column," writes a correspondent to "Looker-on" in the London Daily Chronicle, "that one of your readers heard slugs eating. I have never heard them, but I have heard snails and caterpillars eat. Snails make a scratching noise. Caterpillars crunch. The caterpillars of the private hawk moth make quite a loud noise, and I have often heard them when sitting in the garden, and they have been eating the lilac leaves." Other correspondents state that they have heard snails feeding.

Nature a Partnership

Without plants animal life would disappear from the earth and without animal life our plants would be different in many ways. Some plants would even cease to exist, says Forests and Mankind. Many of our flowers depend on bees and nectar seeking insects to spread their pollen to other flowers and form fertile life-bearing seeds. Without bees such plants would soon become extinct and without their nectar, life for the bees would become impossible. So in a sense all nature is a vast partnership.

Polyglot Editions

Polyglot books are those containing the subject matter in several languages, usually arranged in parallel columns. The most complete of the polyglot Bibles is the London Walton edited in the Seventeenth century, Hebrew, Samaritan, Aramaic, Syriac, Arabic, Ethiopic, Persian, Greek and Latin being used.

"Dry" and "Wet" Snow

When snowfalls emanate wholly from high cirro-stratus clouds in extreme cold, minute subcrystalline varieties or dry snow predominates. Wet snow is an accretion deposited by mist or by clouds laden with minute raindrops upon the crystalline varieties or dry snow while they are passing through the air on their way earthward.

Good Breeding First

The scholar without good breeding is a pedant; the philosopher, a cynic; the soldier, a brute; and every man disagreeable.—Chesterfield.

Health Hint

One way to judge how much to eat, and one of the best, is to leave the table feeling that you could manage to eat just a little more. Eat heartily, but never overload.

Some Learn Earlier

One of the tragedies of life is that it isn't until you reach old age you realize that being good isn't as foolish as it seems.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Come Into the Kitchen

Ella M. Lehr.

Make Him a Chicken Pie.

Husbands have ways, I hear, of sometimes drifting in to dinner just plain cross. Sometimes, however, good wives, like weather prophets, can determine just which way the wind blows and the wise one will make him a chicken pie. Any man will fall for chicken pie! If you don't believe me—try it out—and just watch the lovelight come into his eyes.

Chicken Pie.

One-third pound chicken; about ¾ quart boiling water; 2 teaspoons salt; 1 small onion, sliced; 1-8 cup flour; bit of bayleaf, dash of pepper and pastry.

Prepare chicken as for fricasse. Add boiling water, salt and pepper, onion (whole onion may be used and removed after cooking tender), bayleaf and other seasonings if liked. Cook slowly until tender (1 to 3 hours), adding boiling water as necessary. There should be 3 cups water at end. When chicken is tender, taste and add more salt if necessary. Take out ½ cup stock, let cool, and mix to smooth paste with the flour, add to chicken and let boil 2 minutes, let cool. Grease baking dish. Distribute pieces of chicken evenly in the dish, pour in thick part of stock and enough of the thinner part so that the liquid comes to ½ or ¾ inches of the top of the chicken. (If meat is wholly covered, the crust will soak.) Make pastry crust, rolling rather thick. It is usual to make a slit about 2 inches long in center then another at right angles to allow the escape of steam. Or let the crust lie loose at the edges allowing steam to escape there also. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 20 minutes, then moderate (350 degrees) for 30 minutes more. Heat rest of gravy to serve with the pie.

Variation 1.—Add 2 cups sliced or cubed potato or potato balls.

Variation 2.—Add other vegetables as liked—small onions, green peas and mushroom caps, young carrots — sliced — or small lima beans.

Now, a crispy green salad and a light dessert quite complete the meal and make a most pleasing combination. Perhaps you will like the following dessert recipe.

Tapioca—Lakewood Style.

Use regular recipe for tapioca cream. When cool, pile in glasses. Beat eggs white with 1 tablespoon powdered sugar. Fold in sifted pulp of two small bananas. Pile on custard and grate bitter chocolate over it.

Jelly Roll.

(Just like grandmother used to bake.)

Three eggs, ¾ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon butter (melted), 1 cup flour, flavoring.

Beat eggs until frothy and lemon colored. Add sugar and beat. Then add milk. Mix dry ingredients, add to liquid mixture. Then melted butter and flavoring. Bake in moderate (350-degree) oven 10 to 15 minutes. Should be baked in shallow pan so that result will be a thin cake.

To roll: As soon as cake is turned out, while still warm, spread with a thin layer beaten jelly. Then roll and sprinkle with powdered sugar. (By turning out on cheese cloth (damp) it is much easier to roll.)

DORENA.

(Special to the Sentinel.)

April 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coombs and children of Eugene visited Sunday with Mrs. Coomb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Teeters.

C. H. Brooks was a Eugene visitor Thursday.

The Happy Circle play, "Safety First," was presented in W. O. W. hall at Creswell Friday night. Recipts were $25. This money will be used to help purchase a piano for the Farmers' union hall here.

Bruice A. Cole spent Friday night and Saturday in Eugene at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cole.

Miss Nora Ward of Ashland was a week-end guest at the home of her father, A. S. Ward.

The intermediate room pupils are practicing now for a program which they will give sometime in the near future.

A birthday party was given at the Lot Wagner home Sunday afternoon in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Wagner and son Ernest. A pleasant afternoon was spent and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Collins and family of Long Beach, Cal., moved onto the Hubbard ranch the first of the week. The children, Patricia, John and Mendal, entered school Monday.

Many persons in the community observed the eclipse of the sun Monday. Although it was not a total eclipse it proved interesting as a phenomenon not seen here frequently.

The Happy Circle sewing club met with Mrs. Clara Kirk Wednesday.

Carl Small of London was a Sunday visitor at the A. S. Ward home.

Toll Taken by Illness

It is estimated that at least one serious illness will occur in one out of four families during the course of a year, and that 2 per cent of the population is at all times too ill to work.

A Financial Department Store

The bank that fulfills its duty to the community is in every sense a financial department store.

To its customers it has various services to offer outside of those usually thought of, those of being a depository for funds and a place to borrow money.

It has safety deposit vaults to rent at modest fees, it has a savings department for those who wish to put large or small amounts at interest, it offers the service of its notaries, it usually has sound advice to give on investments, it usually can place money for others on safe security, it has travelers' checks for sale, transfers money to any part of this or any other country, it sends money by telegraph in urgent cases, it has an escrow department, it will make collections on contracts held by its customers, and daily performs various other services.

You should have a checking account with the old reliable that will give you the advantage of all these other services.
