

Thrill Without Action
 Jud Tunkins says he would go up in an airplane just to show that he isn't scared if the way he felt about it appeared to make the slightest difference. So he just admits he is scared, stays where he is and gets a thrill just the same.

"Watered Stock"
 When the face value of the stock issued is greater than the property value represented by it at the time of its issue, it is called watered stock. It will not increase the property value of a corporation to increase its stock unless the same is exchanged for real value.

DARKEST BEFORE DAWN?
 (Eugene Guard.)
 It may sound forced to say that right now, when nearly all our mills are closed or closing, the outlook for the lumber industry is the best in many months, but such we believe to be the fact. With thousands of men in the northwest out of work there is a big depression of buying power which is having its reactionary effect on business. It's no recent time for affected optimism which would only add insult to the injury of the millman whose capital is tied up and the logger who is adrift hunting work.

Tells How Fat Men Can Lose Half a Pound a Day

Here's a simple way to get rid of that corporation and quickly feel in both body and mind the joy of living.
 It's the safe way, too—for every day you continue this easy method of losing unwanted and unneeded flesh you'll gain in energy, vigor and endurance.
 Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity—it means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs need to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.
 When you take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot or cold water you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.
 Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.
 This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

 The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.
 And after two weeks your excess flesh starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.
 As one, once corpulent man remarked—"I feel so energetic that I want to get up with the lark and I'm just as lively as a cricket."
 Kruschen Salts is not a purgative or a cathartic, but a real system conditioner and for those who are the victims of constipation or toxemia, its daily use soon means blissful regularity.
 Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—last 4 weeks—at Cottage Grove Pharmacy or any druggist in the world.

But we believe we are justified in the statement that the outlook is better than for a long, long time for this reason:
 The multiplication of over-production seems to be pretty well stopped; for the first time in history 95 per cent of the millmen are looking facts in the face.
 The lumber producers are meeting a "prolonged buyers' strike" with a "producers' strike." Though depressed conditions throughout the country may retard the "come-back" process, there is certain to be improvement within a matter of weeks because the buyers are short in stocks even for the present market. As prices revive it will be possible for the mills to resume production without the losses of interest on millions of feet tied up on the docks with all the incidental expenses of extra overhead and insurance. With some degree of care and cooperation it may be possible to prevent a recurrence of the mounting overproduction the last two years have witnessed in the face of supposed curtailments.
 It isn't all going to be simple and painless. As business picks up, hard times are going to be a problem of curbing the chaps who rush in with new mills on an advance in price, the problem of raising that is forced in order to raise money for taxes, the problem of premature cutting that is fostered by the federal policy of dumping some of its lands on the market cheap. Since the welfare of all business in the northwest is so much involved by the welfare of the lumber business, perhaps we should be thinking of what we might do to help, as for instance by tax reforms comparable to that of British Columbia's "severance tax" urging the federal authorities to follow policies which will strengthen rather than weaken the market.
 But the most potent defense of the convalescent industry should be the facts such as those at West Coast Lumbermen's association has just published. An industry which has 40 per cent excess capacity and a highly competitive status isn't a healthy place for a novice. Things aren't good but the runaway which might have wrecked all prices and wages in the industry seems to have been stopped. Turn to Harvey Firestone's interesting biography and you'll find some encouragement. In 1921, the entire rubber industry faced just the sort of crisis the lumber industry faces now. For years, easy money had turned all efforts to production problems. The production equipment was tremendously over-expanded.
 "Learn to sell as you produce," was Firestone's prescription, for some a very bitter dose.
 The tire industry came whooping back, though there were a few casualties, of course. The lumber industry of the northwest will come back.

Railroads' Police Forces
 The Rock Island Magazine says that practically every railroad of any consequence maintains a special service, or police department, for the purpose of protecting its properties and its patrons against thefts, and the traveling public against the operations of pickpockets, confidence men, gamblers and other species of crooks. The larger trunk lines employ from 100 to 300 men in this department at an approximate cost of from $300,000 to $500,000 per year.

Founder of Vassar
 Vassar college was established by Matthew Vassar who was born in the county of Norfolk, England, in 1762, emigrated to America, and settled at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he made a comfortable fortune as a brewer.
 In 1861 he gave the sum of $400,000 to found Vassar college, near Poughkeepsie. He died June 29, 1865, while reading an address to the trustees of the college. Besides the initial gift, he left the college a large sum in his will.

Tiny Photograph
 The smallest photograph in the world, so tiny as to be invisible to the naked eye, was recently on "exhibition" at the Royal Photographic society in London. In the center of a little piece of glass is a minute circle; in the middle of the circle is an infinitesimal speck, which is hidden to the naked eye. Under a microscope, however, one sees a photo of Niépce, one of the inventors of photography, taken by Professor Goldberg.

Built to Carry Weight
 The old English great horse, or black horse, was valued in olden times principally for its ability to carry the enormous weight of the armored knights. Various kings of England, from John to Henry VIII, were interested in this breed, and particularly in maintaining its size. The great horse was descended from the pre-Roman horse in part, and in part from the finer stock introduced from Flanders.

Elements in Vegetation
 The growing plant, science has proved, is a miniature chemical laboratory, requiring a stock of reagents, which runs into a formidable list. Among the elements believed to be vital to the growth of vegetation are nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, sulphur, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, iron, manganese, boron, iodine, fluorine, copper, chromium and vanadium.

Interpretation
 George, irrepressible lad of six, had been confined to the house for the day because of a slight injury. It happened to be the day of his mother's bridge party. George's interest in affairs of this kind had always been slight, but today he was compelled to stay in the house, so he became interested. His mother made a bid. "Did you say 'no trucks' mother?" said he.

In framing a treaty it is usual to put all the cards on the table except the joker.
