FARM RELIEF (?)
In the Argentine republic the wheat acreage has been increased from 19 million acres to 29 million acres.

In Canada wheat in pool elevators totals 3,954,775 bushels, as compared with 2,470,065 bushels at the same date last year.

Producers of wheat in the United States felt certain that government aid meant fair prices and stable prices for wheat. As a consequence there was encouragement to add to the acreage in this country.

This writer wishes to make it plain that he favored farm relief, not because he believed it could do what was promised for it, but because he wanted to know whether it could do what was promised for it, and hoped he was mistaken in believing that government relief could never do permanent good.

Growers, if denied relief, would have believed such denial was responsible for the present depressed condition of the market for farm products, and would have always felt that the money powers had kept them from getting the relief that would have made them prosperous.

If farm relief would have made them prosperous, this writer wanted them to have such relief for that reason, but if farm relief could not materially help the situation, this writer wanted the grower and the world to have the question settled, so that we could settle down to some other method of solving our problems.

There were many writers who predicted that farm relief would encourage planting of millions more acres of grain in this country, but this writer does not recollect that any writer gave serious consideration to the possibility of other countries going wild in increasing acreage. It is easy to believe that the growers of Argentina, believing that farm relief here would boost the price of wheat, proposed to get in on the benefits without having any part in bringing about the higher prices, and added 60 per cent to their acreage. Evidently the same thing is happening in Canada.

To control prices by any method other than supply and demand has never been successful, and it is to be keenly regretted by all that

City Plan Ray Has This to Say:
HOWDY FOLKS — George Jacobsen denies that we are descendants from the monkey. He says his parents came from Denmark.

Ray Trask, who doesn't know very much about sports, made the crack yesterday that he knew Babe Ruth when she was a chorus girl.

Pathetic Figure.
The man who after buying a set of false teeth couldn't lick a postage stamp without cancelling it.

Another pathetic figure is a man who tries to get by without a Philco radio.

NO, IT DOESN'T NECESSARILY MEAN THAT HIS WIFE IS GOING TO DO A LOT OF BAKING WHEN HE BUYS A LARGE PACKAGE OF YEAST BEFORE GOING HOME.

We heard about a man who cussed a traffic cop and the cop threatened to arrest him for impersonating an officer.

Several C. G. husbands believe that their wives are unimpressed in some respects. They never believe that they're safe when they're out.

Your radio reception problems will be safe if you use our radio service. Ask anyone of several hundred users right here in Cottage Grove.

The new autumn colors include Juniper blue, Spanish raisin, and claret red. A guy doesn't know whether his missus is talking about a new fall dress or a gin party.

"And then," said Claude Kern, "there was the Scotchman who rushed into my store and asked for a dime's worth of arsenic."

"What for," asked I. "For a nickel," replied the Scot.

And here's another pome: Here lies a Scot. The stone's so small There's scarce room For a verse at all.

Go! to need some more jokes pretty soon. Who'll be the first one to contribute?

this tendency of other countries to get in on the killing that farm relief was to make possible have actually made the situation worse than it was before, have made the surplus the greatest in the history of the world, and the chances of profitable prices for wheat the poorest they have ever been.

The fellow who invents some kind of farm relief that will not let the hogs in to spoil the plan can have anything he cares to ask for.

Repentance that comes only when punishment stares you in the face will be materially discounted when you come to balance accounts with St. Peter at the pearly gate.

EUGENE NEWSPAPERS.
Things have been happening so rapidly recently in the Eugene newspaper field that it has been difficult to keep track of them, and now comes the announcement that the Guard has taken over the Register, bag and baggage, or maybe it is without the baggage.

At any rate the Register is to be discontinued and the Register-Guard is the hyphenated product that is going to dominate the field.

Despite our kindly feeling for the Guard, we don't like the change. Frank Jenkins and the Gilstraps have been conducting the Register ever since this writer came to Oregon and Cottage Grove. We have disagreed with the Register and we have razed it, but the boys seemed to like our fault finding as much as they did the compliments infrequently given. We don't like to have associations that have existed for 20 years broken off in this way without so much as asking our permission or advice.

If they had asked our advice, we should have told them that they were foolish to think of selling at a price that anyone capable of conducting a paper in that field would be willing to pay. We should have told them that if Eugene is the city that we have been led, from reading the Register, to believe it to be, it is going to be the city that we have been led to believe, from reading the Register, that it is going to be, it is capable of supporting two newspapers in style, and will be better able to do so in the future.

We should have told them that if Eugene people are the kind of people we have been led to believe, from reading the Register, to believe them to be, they will never be satisfied to be served by one newspaper.

Jenkins and the Gilstraps, and the others, are not of the kind that can sit down and twiddle their thumbs.

fingers the rest of their lives. They are too much attached to Oregon to be satisfied elsewhere, and where in Oregon will they find a better location than in Eugene.

However, wherever they go, we wish them success.

The Guard has a big contract when it attempts to fill in addition to the place it has itself filled, the place which the Register has filled, but we admire its spunk and also wish it well.

A noted physician says that an exclusive sour milk diet is conducive to longevity. Anyone who had to live on that diet exclusively would not care to live long.

The $4,000,000 Riverside church in New York has installed ear phones. Now it will be more difficult than ever to fill the front seats.

It is said that kissing is dangerous, but no one has said it isn't worth the chance.

A FARMER'S VIEW ON WAR AND PEACE.

It is carnival night in the home town and chief of attractions is the big parade of 20 Legion posts. All honor to the legionnaires! Smartly tailored uniforms in bright and varied colors, shining helmets, music, rhythm, action—all these fascinate young and old and the small boy on the sidewalk links up the idea with war and decides he will be in on the next one.

Twenty miles south of the home town is a huge government hospital where are quartered veterans to whom the gods of war have been less kind; veterans of whom may never again walk, others who may never again see and still others who may never again think with clear minds. This is the other side of the picture, slight of which unfortunately escapes the small boy on the sidewalk.

This war business is getting a lot of attention nowadays and rightly so. Since the dawn of history war has been regarded as inevitable but the last conflict was so much more of a war than anything in the past that men and nations have been jolted out of their complacency and are now looking for a better way to compose international differences in the future.

Judged by any standard war is a failure. When a dispute arises between two countries it is futile to take up arms if right be the objective sought. War will establish the fact that one nation has a bigger and better army or more food or more money but the one sure thing it will not do is establish right. There are several aspects of war which have our downright disapproval. One of these is the system whereby one set of men creates the war and another lot is sent out to fight the war. In no man's land the boy from Saxony meets the boy from Saxony. Back home there is much they have in common: a mother, perhaps a sweetheart, friends, work, play and the right to live. Yet here they are face to face with fixed bayonets, boys between whom there could be no natural quarrel or enmity and yet one will presently kill the other "in defense of the fatherland" or to "make the world safe for democracy" as the case may be. A strenuous scheme at best.

The last war was said to be a war to end war and the claim may not prove empty when one considers the progressive movement of the last decade such as the world court, the Kellogg pact and repeated attempts at naval limitation. But Mars having reigned long and supreme will die hard and his destruction remains a big job. In Germany a large society hinges its activities around the slogan, "nie wieder krieg" which translated literally is "never again war." This society has a fruitful field for work and like Abou Ben Adhem, and in all lands, may their tribe increase.

BIGGER AND BETTER

PRESENTING THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity. In the chassis and body of this new six-cylinder Chevrolet you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

For—without departing from the basic features which have won the enthusiastic approval of over 2,000,000 buyers—Chevrolet has set an entirely new standard of quality and value in the low-price field.

Your first impression of the new Chevrolet will be one of striking fleetness, grace and beauty. The car is longer, lower and modernly smart. The radiator has been deepened. The long hood lines sweep back to blend gracefully into the new Fisher bodies. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six!

Not only are the bodies roomier and more comfortable, but as you study them you will discover many gratifying new features and refinements. Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is a better automobile. The wheelbase is longer. The frame is stronger. The steering is easier. The clutch is more durable. There is a smoother, quieter, easier shifting transmission. In fact, wherever finer materials and more advanced design could add to Chevrolet quality or increase Chevrolet's traditional economy of ownership—improvement has been made. See the new Chevrolet Six—for here is the Great American Value!

AT NEW LOW PRICES

Chevrolet has long been one of the lowest priced cars in the world. Yet due to the savings of volume production and increased manufacturing efficiency, the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is offered at new low prices. Come in today. See and drive the new Chevrolet Six. Learn the new economy of owning a modern, fine quality, six-cylinder automobile.
