The Junior Degree of Honor, assisted by the senior lodge, installed the following officers at their meeting Friday night: Margaret Soviec, president; Joe Baker, first vice president; Lillian Young, second vice president; Eileen Town, secretary; Irene Shandry, treasurer; Georgetta Knowles, past president; Maxine Knowles, inside watch; Genevieve McCullough, outside watch; Myrna Saitzman, Alden Garoutte, Robert Lee Nelson, Agnes McNew, Helen Deane and Agnes Lusk, color bearers; Velma Davis, drill captain; Mildred Holm and Mildred Quimby, ushers; Mrs. O. Shields, juvenile director. The girls' drill team practiced their work, preparing for inspection night, which will be the first meeting in March at which time Mrs. Geiser, state regional director, is expected. At the close of the evening refreshments were served.

Honoring the birthday anniversary of Thomas Wilder, founder of American Oddfellowship, more than 125 members of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges gathered in the hall Saturday night for a special entertainment. All persons present whose birthdays came in January were special guests. The program consisted of tap dancing by Mrs. Bennett, singing by A. E. Burrows and a brief biography of Thomas Wilder by E. J. Kent. At the close of the session supper was served in the banquet room. A special table was arranged for the honored guests. Those seated at this table were Mrs. William Kirtley, Mrs. Anna Newcomb, Miss Jessie Sanborn, Mrs. Susie Garoutte, J. H. Bennett, Bert Nokes, Bert Smith, C. A. King, V. J. Hansen and Frank Hansen. Bert Burrows was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The Utopia club celebrated its seventh anniversary Thursday of last week with a no-hostess luncheon at the Colonial. A basket of potted cyclamen and ferns and pink candles formed an attractive table centerpiece. Dainty sachets were favors. These were gifts from Mrs. S. L. Mackin, retiring president, and Mrs. A. A. Richmond, retiring secretary. A large birthday cake with seven pink candles was a feature of the menu. Following the luncheon the women went to the home of Mrs. C. E. Frost for a business meeting and social afternoon. Officers elected follow: Mrs. H. B. Griggs, president; Mrs. Vinal Randall, vice president; Mrs. Elbert Bede, secretary and treasurer.

An attendance and membership contest to close March 1 was planned at the meeting Monday night of the American Legion auxiliary. Mrs. Herbert Ries and Mrs. W. H. Baeholder were elected captains of the two sides. The auxiliary will endeavor to reach its 1931 membership quota in this length of time. Following the business meeting the women played cards and at the close of the evening the post-joined the auxiliary for refreshments. Group singing was a feature of entertainment. The hostess committee included Mrs. W. E. Lebow, Mrs. C. C. Cruson, Mrs. W. J. White, Mrs. S. L. Godard and Miss Mary Clerin.

Mrs. W. E. Lebow was hostess Friday night for the Joker club. A short business meeting was held and the following officers were elected: Miss Myrtle Kern, president; Mrs. S. V. Allison, vice president; Mrs. Inez Meeks, secretary and treasurer. Bridge followed and Mrs. Meeks held a high score. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. Additional guests were Mrs. A. W. Kime and Mrs. James P. Graham. House decorations were pink carnations and potted plants.

The past noble grands of the Rebekah lodge met Thursday afternoon of last week in I. O. O. F. hall. Election of officers was held as follows: Mrs. E. J. Kent, president; Mrs. Sarah Tennis, vice president; Mrs. Nellie Johnson, secretary and treasurer. The meeting date was changed to the last Thursday of the month. During the afternoon the "Polynesian" exchanged gifts. Refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. Henry Bennett, Mrs. Ira Beidler, Mrs. Ina Newcome and Mrs. Emily Adams.

The Daughters of the Nile will give their annual benefit bridge tea Saturday, January 24, at the Masonic temple in Eugene. Proceeds will go toward expenses in connection with placing crippled children in this country in the Shrine hospital in Portland. Local members of the organization are selling tickets. Mrs. Kari K. Mills is serving on the committee in charge of general arrangements.

There will be no meeting of the Royal Neighbors at Cottage Grove Tuesday night, January 27, as the camp will be guests of the Eugene meeting. A special camp on Monday night, January 26, for the usual transaction of business.

The study of negro literature was an interesting feature at the Tuesday Evening club meeting Tuesday night. Mrs. Omer Moore talked on the "Renaissance" and an interesting book review of "Porgy," by DuBois Heyward, was given by Mrs. R. A. Trank. The author is a white man but the book is descriptive of the negro's view point. Plans were made for the annual guest night, February 17. The club made arrangements with other federated clubs of the city regarding "red letter day" in behalf of the scholarship loan fund. It is the custom of the federated clubs and the social clubs to contribute annually to support of this fund.

Mrs. Katie Grubb was honored with a delightful surprise party at her home Saturday afternoon. The affair was planned by a daughter, Mrs. Oscar Smith. The hours were spent with conversation and a splendid radio program. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith, assisted by her daughters Doris and Stella. That Six-Hour Layoff

Not in the Contract. "The man who operates a dairy has a steady job, and those who work in feeding, milking, distributing and keeping the barn in condition are sure," said Bob Bell, "as is illustrated by the dairyman who was noted for the high quality of his cattle and seeing it that his hired help were kept busy. A negro came to him for work, and after looking him over, was told he didn't look like he wanted a steady job. 'Yassuh, boss. Ah wants a stiddy job.' He was put to work. His 'stiddy job' was to milk 20 cows, curd for the milk, wash the utensils, curdy the cows and feed them, and drive them to and from the pasture. It took him eighteen hours to perform his duties, but he was getting an extra five cents a month. Then he gave notice that he was going to quit. 'I knew it! I knew it!' railed the dairyman. 'I knew you didn't want a steady job.' 'Yassuh, boss. Ah does want a stiddy job, 'but ah ain't been givin' me off six hours every night.'—Exchange.

More Than One Method

of Arriving at Truth. Can you tell when another person is telling a lie? There are people who claim to be able to detect a liar at once, and a machine has been invented which, by measuring a man's blood pressure, gives a fairly clear indication as to whether he is telling the truth or not. A non-mechanical test for liars has been in use in the East for many years. If a crime has been committed in a village, the villagers are drawn up in a line, barefooted, and questioned. The questioner doesn't pay much attention to the faces—he glances at the toes of each individual. If they are "clawing down" into the ground, their own knees more about the affair than he cares to admit.

This test, of course, only works where the natives don't know the signs for which the questioner is looking. And changes in blood pressure aren't necessarily a proof of guilt. They denote a state of anxiety, which may be felt by the innocent as well as by the guilty.—London Answers.

Fire in History

Benjamin Franklin deserves to be called the father of American comfort. The rocking chair is attributed to him, and his was probably the first attempt ever made to construct a hot-air furnace. Certainly New England had no household furnaces before 1835, and even the first successful baseburner is dated about 1830. Primitive man dug hearths in his cave lodgings, and the Middle Ages built fireplaces of a necessary enormity for their spacious halls and it was only a little while ago, as time flies, that anyone enjoyed the modern luxury of a stove such as within a century has become an "American antique."

Food of Wild Pests

One of the duties of state trappers is to determine, by stomach examination, just what coyotes, wolves, wildcats and foxes live on. The stomachs of 32 coyotes examined revealed 18 rabbits, nine deer, seven foxes, one marten and one woodchuck. Seven foxes examined showed them to be living upon woodchucks, rabbits, mice and ruffed grouse. Of seven wildcats three had eaten ruffed grouse and four rabbits. One wolf revealed that it had dined recently on venison.

Copenhagen City of Spires

There are so many fine spires and towers on the churches and palaces in Copenhagen that it has been described as the "City of Spires." Although it is ancient, Copenhagen now is modern in appearance. The earlier houses built of wood were destroyed by fire in the Eighteenth century and have been replaced with brick and stone buildings. Copenhagen is noted for its parks, among which the most famous are the Tivoli gardens, laid out in 1843.
