HIGHER EDUCATION AT LESS COST.

Between vetoing of appropriations by the governor, threat of a referendum on the portion the governor did not veto and the threat of a federal condemnation to make recommendations for readjustments between Oregon's two institutions of higher learning, the university and agricultural college have had their programs seriously upset and have had forced upon them such economies and changes and consolidation of courses that the two institutions are in a mess that it will take years to clean up.

As to the partial veto by the governor of appropriations of the recent legislative session, as well as his veto of the emergency clause, which leave the appropriations subject to the referendum, the two institutions have recourse in the courts and The Sentinel has no doubt that they would be upheld in a contention that the governor can not legally veto a portion of an appropriation nor can he legally veto the emergency clause.

That no protest is to be made against this apparently illegal action leads many to believe that the recommendations of the federal experts for rearrangement of courses in the two institutions and elimination of competition between the two comes at the right time and that such recommendations should be followed. Officials and members of the faculties of the two institutions seem to believe that the institutions should make an honest endeavor to follow out the recommendations of the federal experts.

The situation is one calling for the best that is in the heads of the two institutions, the best that is in the members of the faculty, the best that is in the student body.

One recommendation that pleases The Sentinel is the one for toning down football activities, which The Sentinel long has claimed have been carried beyond all reason and have become more important than the education for which children are supposed to go to college. That contests should be more intermural and that they should be actually a part of physical education in which a large portion of the student body can participate is a sane recommendation.

While the colleges may have been to no additional expense because of the huge salaries paid coaches, it has seemed out of reason that such persons should receive salaries comparable with those of presidents of the institutions.

The Eugene Register-Guard, published in the home of the university, refers to "the wilderness of jealous extravagance that has been devoured Oregon for many years." In that statement is one secret of the ever increasing cost of education, and it applies in a greater or less degree to every educational institution in this and every other state.

This writer is not familiar enough with affairs in either of our institutions of higher learning to know what the situation is, or how bad it is, but it seems to this writer that in trying to root out unnecessary expenses we are likely to curtail legitimate activities, and the result will be that the institutions will be fighting for their lives until adjustments are made, until they are again fully in the good graces of the taxpayers, until the fact is right now many who approve the half million slash by the governor do not approve the referendum on the remainder.

But the general opinion is that the expenses of institutions of higher learning are too high. That opinion is based a great deal upon statistics made by those living in the homes of the institutions, and it is based a great deal more, probably, upon the stories brought home by college students of the soft snuggles given football stars. When students tell of some other idol of the football fans getting $175 or some such amount a month for doing practically nothing, it is no wonder that there has been an undercurrent that money is being wasted. And all institutions of higher learning are equally at fault. This is some of the "jealous extravagance" no doubt to which the Eugene paper refers.

We have strong met at the head of both of our institutions and we expect to see them pull their institutions out of the quagmire which they are now struggling and set them upon more solid ground than they have ever before occupied.

And it should be borne in mind that Oregon's institutions are not the only ones guilty of "jealous extravagance." What applies here applies equally as strongly to many institutions in other states.

We have splendid student bodies at both institutions, and they can prove that they have been ably trained, that they are fit to buffet the world, by being a tower of strength to their presidents, to their faculty in the present extreme emergency.

The Sentinel does not wish the institutions to have to again make a fight similar to that they were making when this writer arrived in the state. The heads of the institutions are to be commended for the determined and sensible manner in which they are preparing to meet the issues.

A visitor from England says bread there only costs a third as much as it does here. He might have enlightened us still more if he had told us that American flour costs less there than it does here.

The human body is said to contain three ounces of calcium — which leaves no reason why anyone who desires should not be a shining light.

The trouble with doing a favor for a man is that he feels he has owed the way to ask for more.

Remember Bode, The Sentinel.

INFLUENCING OUR CHILDREN.

The Eugene Register-Guard takes exception to criticism by this paper and by the Corvallis Gazette-Times, edited by the discoverer of famed male limbs, both of whom took exception to bringing the youth of colleges in contact with radical ideas, either by lectures or motion pictures.

The hyphenated Eugene paper avers, or seems to aver, that youth is not affected by coming in contact with examples which it should emulate. The Eugene paper thinks youth is not affected by what it sees at the movies, or by examples set it.

Evidently Editor Tugman has not reared a family of kids to college age. If he had he would know that the kids' defense all too frequently is that he or she has only done what mother or father has done, or did do when young. He would also know that when they emulate parents they do not do the things they should not do, that parents should not have done, instead of the better things parents have done. The younger members of the family quickly ape elder members of the family, and have a faculty for picking out the wrong things in which to ape them.

The movies, no doubt, have a more subtle influence than actions of parents. Didn't Tugman ever see kids trying to duplicate the things they had seen done on the stage? If we are not influenced by what we see and hear, why boards of censors? Why is indecency ruled off the stage? Why do we wish our children to read good books instead of trash?

And elders are not free from this same fault. They excuse themselves with the statement that someone else does these things. The Register-Guard's editor may be one that does not ape others. He may not be influenced by what he sees and hears. But if he does something that he shouldn't do, we'll bet a pretty penny that someone is aping him.

In addition to all this, we do not take seriously the fault finding of a paper that speaks, in the lines of sheep being massacred by dogs.

London society declares that dogs must match in color the furs of the mistresses whom they accompany. We think the most wear fur in the early hours of the day to match the dark brown taste in their mouths.

We can readily find good, sound reasons for not doing the things we don't want to do.

DIVIDE.

Mrs. Walter Downes, Mrs. Luthera Downes, Mrs. Amanda Sears, Miss Blanche Toner and Mrs. C. R. Dear went to Eugene Monday.

Mrs. Katherine Cellers Dies.
Mrs. Katherine Elizabeth Cellers, resident of this city for a number of years, died Saturday night at Springfield. Funeral services have been held there.

She was survived by her widower, William R. Cellers, three sons, Alec of McMinnville, Carl of Springfield, and Glen of Cottage Grove, and two daughters, Mrs. Robin T. Powell, Raymond, Wash.; and Mrs. Chauncey B. Crites, Aberdeen, Wash. She is also survived by two grandchildren and by a brother, Thomas Cox, of Cottage Grove.

Mrs. Cellers was a member of the Springfield Christian church and of the Women of Woodard's lodge at Drain.

High School Notes

Doctor Dan Poling of the extension department of Oregon State College addressed the student body last Thursday afternoon.

"There is nothing so worth while as the getting of a higher education," he said, and declared that there is plenty of room at the top of the business ladder for people prepared to handle the work. A person who has the training and ambition needed for a position will get it easily, he explained, in spite of hard times.

At a typing contest held Tuesday afternoon at the high school here the local team defeated a team from Springfield high school by a decisive margin. The local team, Frances Randall and Wilberta Wilson, second-year students, and Evelyn Smith and Mildred Chapman, first-year students, made an average of 54 net words a minute with 12 errors, while the Springfield team made 43 net words a minute with 16 errors. The local team made the following scores: Frances Randall, 59 net words a minute with 11 errors; Wilberta Wilson, 57 net words a minute with 6 errors; Evelyn Smith 50 net words a minute with 17 errors; Mildred Chapman, 49 net words a minute with 13 errors.

The first regular baseball practice of the season was held Monday night after school. About 25 boys turned out. The present schedule for the season is as follows:

Tuesday, April 21—Springfield at Cottage Grove.
Friday, April 24—University high at Eugene.

Tuesday, May 5—Eugene high at Eugene.
Friday, May 8—University high at Cottage Grove.

Friday, May 15—Eugene high at Cottage Grove.
Friday, May 22—Springfield at Springfield.

The G. A. A. girls held a meeting Wednesday night, April 1, in the gymnasium. A "radio program" was given by members of the organization. Five new members were welcomed. They are Lila Dutton, Pauline Wertz, Eileen Town, Helen Hansen and Maxine Nixon. After the program baseball was played. Refreshments were served.

The girls' baseball squads were chosen Tuesday morning. They are as follows: Seniors, Ruth Aldrich, Mildred Bennett, Jerrie Burrows, Melba Cochran, Dolly Newton, Louise Wynne and Maxine Lemley; Juniors, Rita Balles, Mildred Chapman, Anna Carter, Edith Easley, Margaret Leonard, Bernice Mosby, Lucille Stoneburg, Florine Strauss, Dorothy Stewart and Bernice Wiese; sophomores, Dorothy Baldwin, Mae Chestnut, Erma Bennett, Mabel Blackmore, Dorothy Haney, Anita Halderman, Gertrude Pleuward and Edith Willis; freshmen, Delia Dutton, Wilma Sprout, Carl Lindamood, Betty Jacobson, Helen Zumwalt, Pauline Wertz, Helen Hansen, Nellie Tucker and Lucile Leonard; freshmen second, Faye Woolley, Millicent DeLacy, Maxine Nixon, Arlene Dillon, Velma Davis, Evelyn Colner, Zelma Lafoon and Florine Franklin.

Six of the G. A. A. girls, Mabel Blackmore, Maxine Nixon, Faye Woolley, Evelyn Colner, Florine Franklin and Pauline Wertz, left for a 10-mile hike to Creswell Saturday, leaving the high school at 9:45. Each took her own lunch. Every girl will receive 10 points toward the number of points needed in earning her letter. Mabel Blackmore is head of hiking.

Twenty-five high school girls were invited Wednesday to a tea at the Eugene high school given by the Eugene Girls' league. Thanks to the ingenuity of Tom Wright and Wendell Spriggs, a light dimmer will be available for the stage equipment in the gymnasium. The two boys, learning the principles of a light dimmer in physics class, constructed the apparatus at small cost. If the school had bought such a dimmer, the cost would have been about $15. The dimmer will be used in the senior play.

Some of the students of Miss Myrtle Kem's English classes are making posters advertising good English and famous slogans. The posters will be used for exhibition during open house.

The savings account of the Future Farmers of America now totals $123.35, after four weeks of progress. They plan to use this money for projects or educational purposes.

The Future Farmers of America have received an invitation from the Coast Fork Farmers' union to join them April 27 in a picnic at Hebron.

Erma Bennett, assisted by Edith Willis, entertained Ethel Bennett and Jewel Brainerd Friday evening at the practice house.

The series of radio programs being given over KGW, Portland, on child welfare work, leading up to national child health day on May day, are being continued. The program for the coming week follows: April 11, 3:45 to 4:00, "Standing Up to Life," by Dr. Harold L. Bowman of the First Presbyterian church, Portland; April 14, 3:30 to 3:45, "The Child as the Future Citizen," by Mrs. William Fehrenbacher, president Portland Council of Parents and Teachers; April 16, 1:45 to 1:55, "Schools Fit for Children," by Mrs. G. M. Gilnes, member Portland Board of Education.

Parents have been urged by county health workers to listen in on this series.

Church News

Church of the Nazarene, Eleventh and Adams, T. J. Orr, pastor.—The revival, under the leadership of Rev. W. T. Johnson of Oklahoma City, is showing steady progress. Services will be held each night this week except Saturday. The revival will close Sunday evening. Services for Sunday will be church school at 10 and preaching at 11, 2:30 and 7:30. Rev. Johnson, though a young man, is said to be a forceful speaker and is popular with the congregation here.

Presbyterian Church, Duncan P. Cameron, pastor.—At the 11 o'clock Sunday service, Pastor Cameron will preach on "A Wise Investment," a study of Matthew VI, 19-20, fourteenth in the series on the Sermon on the Mount. The annual service for the Order of Rainbow for Girls will be held at the 7:30 hour. Members of the order will meet at Masonic hall and will parade to the church. The high school sextet, composed of Rainbow girls, will sing several numbers. Pastor Cameron will give an address on "The Order of the Jesus." Parents and friends of the girls have been invited to attend. Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock and Christian Endeavor at 6:30.

First Methodist Episcopal Church, Ira R. Aldrich, pastor.—At the 11 o'clock service the pastor will preach on the text, "As the Rain," Isaiah 55:11. At the 7:30 hour Rev. K. K. Clarke will give a bible drama monolog under the auspices of the Epworth League. Special music will be given by both services. The men and boys of the Sunday school, winners by a narrow margin over the women and girls in a recent airplane contest, will be tendered a banquet by the Sunday school board at 6:30 this evening (Friday) at the church. The losers will serve the supper and the winners will furnish the program. A joint meeting of the Sunday school board and the official board will be held at 7:30 Monday night. The young people's study class will meet Wednesday night and the midweek devotional meeting will be held Thursday night. Troop 15 of the boys scout council will meet Friday night in the church basement.

The Highway Baptist Church.—Rev. Henry W. Davis of Eugene will supply the pulpit during April. At the 11 o'clock Sunday service he will preach on "The Public Highway, A Symbol of Modern Progress." At the 7:30 hour his subject will be "The Reception of Divine Power Through Human Personality." Sunday school will meet at 9:45 with W. L. Leonard as superintendent and B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:30.

WHY BUNNIES ARE CONNECTED WITH EASTER.

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., April 7.—(To the Editor.)—The date for Easter is set by the moon. At least we tell by the moon when to set the date on the fourth century definite rules were made, which have been followed ever since. Now it happens that the hare and the moon have been associated in mythology for centuries. There are legends about bunny and his life in the moon. One very old story tells how one of the gods disguised as a pilgrim, to test his followers, pretended to be dying for want of food. The hare threw himself into the fire to be roasted for food for the pilgrim, and the god thereupon as a reward sent the hare to live forever in the beautiful moon. We set our Easter date by looking for the day of the full moon on or after the twenty-first of March. The Sunday following that date of the full moon is Easter, unless the full moon falls on Sunday, when Easter would be the next Sunday. Easter never comes before March 22 nor later than April 23 and is always each year somewhere between those two dates. "Br'er Rabbit" has slipped into the Easter festivities, you see, just because he is associated in mythology with the moon. He is a cunning little fellow and does no harm among the pretty things of Easter.

DUNCAN P. CAMERON.

OLD TIME RELIGION.

LONDON, April 4.—(To the Editor.)—Parts of your article on old time religion I fully endorse, and can whole heartedly give you two pats on the back.

But if you or any other man thinks he can worship God and worship him acceptably in any old way that fancy dictates you have another thing coming. Read your bible and see. And, besides, the most of us do not keep the seventh day as a day of worship.

MRS. W. L. TOWNSEND.
(Editorial Note.)—The correspondent is correct in saying we do not keep the seventh day as a day of worship, at least not the seventh day of the week as set out by our present calendar, but more serious than that is the fact that the tendency is toward having no day of worship, neither the seventh nor the first, and to give religious observance too small a place in our lives.

Choir to Give Cantata at Drain.

The choir of the Methodist church will present its Easter cantata, "Christ Victorious," Sunday night at the Drain Methodist church. The Drain appearance is being made at the special request of Rev. F. E. Finley, pastor of the Drain church. The choir is composed of 23 voices and is under the direction of C. E. Umphrey.

Radio Ray has this to say:

Mother: "Daughter, dear, I'm afraid that young man is a bad egg."
Daughter: "He's worse than that."
Mother: "What do you mean?"
Daughter: "He's a bad egg that's broke."

A colored agent was summoned before the insurance commission. "Don't you know," said the commissioner, "that you can't sell life insurance without a state license?" "Boss," said the dorky, "You sash said a mouthful. I knowed I couldn't sell it, but Ah didn't know why."

Lots of folks don't know that you can't wire a house for some one without a state license. AND a complete KNOWLEDGE of how to do a safe job. We have the license AND a bond. And the knowledge and experience necessary to do you a real job.

"How much do these dogs cost?" "Ten dollars apiece."
"Well, how much does the whole dog cost?"

It does NOT cost ten dollars apiece to install convenience outlets in your house. Most of them cost about three to four dollars apiece. The convenience outlets cannot be measured in money. Give us a ring (201) and let us make you a price on your requirements.

Pat took his wife to the theatre for the first time. They arrived rather early and she was interested in everything about them. Nudging Pat, she whispered, "What does the word 'ASBESTOS' mean across the curtain?" "Be quiet," said Pat, "and don't show your ignorance. That's Latin for 'Welcome'."

You are welcome to an estimate on your wiring jobs, at any time; BUT, don't expect us to do a CHEAP job for you. We don't want the reputation of doing CHEAP work, and we don't think that you want the reputation of having CHEAP wiring in your house. We do a GOOD job at a reasonable figure, the other guy can have the CHEAP ones.

We are telling you about wiring this time. It is the first "line" we handled when we started this business. Each week we will stress other lines of our business, in the order that they were added. Our first house wiring job was for Chas. Hall, and the latest one was likewise for Chas. Hall. There's a reason.
