SOCIETY

Members of the Rebekah and Odd Fellows lodges honored Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conner Saturday night with a party in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. A mock wedding was held with Mr. and Mrs. Conner as the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burrows were the attendants. They were the attendants at the wedding 25 years ago, though at that time they were Albert Burrows and Katie Finnerty. Alfred Beidler read the ceremony. Mrs. Merle McKibben, Mrs. Clara Stevens, Mrs. Elsie Fuller and Mrs. Pearl Hazen were bridesmaids. Anna Beidler was flower girl. Ira Beidler and Mrs. Emaline Adams acted as parents of the bride. Miss Dorothy Hatch was train bearer and Miss Jessie Sandburn played the wedding march. Refreshments and a social evening followed the mock wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Conner were married July 15, 1906, in Cottage Grove at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Huff, who came to Cottage Grove from Lakeview over 30 years ago. Mr. Conner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Conner, pioneers of Cottage Grove, who came here in 1878.

A delightful affair of the week was a garden party given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Beidler, Mrs. Albert Helliwell, Mrs. Myrtle Woods, Mrs. Peter Nelson and Mrs. George Matthews at the Helliwell home. Over 100 invitations were issued. The Helliwell lawn, shaded with giant oak trees, was transformed into a bower of shrubs and flowers and was gay with attractive lawn furniture. Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Ed Smith, Mrs. B. R. Job, Mrs. Hubert Eakin, Mrs. C. F. Hoskins and Mrs. H. A. Miller poured. Assisting at the tea table were the Misses Louise Wynne, Beth Bede, Elsie Jacobsen, Madeline Beidler and Dorothy Umphrey.

The annual Masonic-Eastern Star picnic will be held today in Hanna grove on Row river at the foot of Currin hill. A group is planning to go out in the afternoon and a picnic supper will be served at 6:30. A feature of the evening's entertainment will be a group of selections by the city band. Those who plan to attend have been asked to take picnic lunches. Ice cream and coffee will be provided. H. B. Griggs and William Thum are in charge of arrangements for the Masonic lodge and Mrs. H. B. Griggs for the Eastern Star.

4-H Clubbers Here Get Achievement Awards

Approximately 400 Lane county 4-H club members, leaders and parents attended the annual county club picnic held Friday of last week at Riverside park. The day began with a baseball game between Cottage Grove and McKenzie, Cottage Grove winning 7 to 2.

L. E. Allen of Corvallis, assistant state club leader, expressed appreciation of the work done by Lane club leaders and presented achievement pins to leaders whose clubs had turned in 100 per cent reports. He said there are more than 17,000 club members in Oregon this year, an increase of 2000 over last year.

Among those from this vicinity who received achievement pins were Miss Katie Gilchrist, Lorane; Mrs. Gladys Rose, Latham, and Miss Genevieve Lansing, Cottage Grove.

Home Improvements Continue.
Owners of property continue to take advantage of the low cost of material and labor to make improvements. Building permits were issued the past week as follows: To Mrs. Mary Stoneburg for repair of porch at 1014 west Main; to H. H. Quimby for repair of property at 435 south River road, to W. E. Hersher for erection of a fruit stand at Fifth and Quincy.

Band to Play Each Thursday.
The Cottage Grove band gave its second concert of the summer series last night at the new bandstand on Main street. It will give a concert each Thursday night during the summer. The band will be a feature at the Masonic-Eastern Star picnic tonight.

"Dead Reckoning"
In his "A Systematic Dictionary of Sea Terms" C. Grand Pierre says on this subject: "Dead reckoning is the estimation of a vessel's position by means other than direct observations, when these are not feasible. Unlike all other marine uses of the word, dead, here does not express anything inert or adverse. Formerly logs were loose ruled sheets of a prescribed form. The latitude column being too narrow to admit the words 'deduced latitude' in full, the expression was abbreviated 'ded. l.' and later shortened to 'dead.' and later corrupted to 'dead.'"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Earth's Existence Timed
According to the Epistle of Barnabas, the life of the earth will be divided 2000 years between the creation and the fall and the declaration of the promise of redemption, through the prophets, 2000 from the prophetic era to the era of redemption. The Christian era, 2000 of the Christian and present era to the beginning of the millennium of 1,000 years of rest, after which will come the final judgment and the destruction or reorganization of the present earth.

Ambition
There is a vast difference between an ambition and a wish. A wish is usually the dream of an idler, while ambition is based upon intense desire, backed by untiring effort and tempered by patience to the disappointments encountered.—Grit.

Mrs. Walter C. Orr, of Syracuse, N. Y., and her sister, Mrs. Luella McCraw, of Lakeland, Fla., who were separated in their childhood, recently saw each other for the first time in 52 years.

A monument has just been unveiled in Brussels to the memory of the heroic carrier pigeons used by the Belgian army during the World war.

More than 480,000,000,000 handkerchiefs were made in the United States during the year 1930.

French Law Officials

Waited Long to Strike

"It is a serious thing to fall foul of the law in France," writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. "The elephant never forgets, naturalists assure us—nor do most French officers of the law. Whole decades after men escape from Devil's Island or the Foreign legion they are wont to be tapped on the shoulder in the streets of Marseilles or Bordeaux and told to come along to the police station."

"And recently an elderly peasant woman in a village near Honfleur was tackled for an eight-franc fine inflicted on her nine-and-twenty years ago. It appears that on September 15, 1901, three children were seen gleaming in an outfield before the sheaves had been removed. The garde champetre called on their mother and told her that she would be fined for the heinous delinquency on their part."

"She was a busy woman with eight other small children continually getting into the sort of mild trouble that befits their age. She waited for the summons, but it never came along, and presently she forgot all about it. Recently, however, she received that summons with a demand to pay eight centimes. Mystified, she went to the office of the local justice of the peace, where they explained what it was all about, and said that they had found the matter outstanding in the books. She paid it to avoid further bother."

Nothing Modern About the Use of Spectacles

Glasses for the aid of our sight are almost as old as the universe. It is not far-fetched to think that the Atlanteans 22,000 years ago knew of lenses. Dr. Fasset Edwards writes in an article on the history of glasses, in Hygeia Magazine.

The ruins of Nineveh yielded the oldest known piece of transparent glass, which was dated 2,000 years ago. Pliny has recorded, Doctor Edwards reports, that Nero winked and blinked at objects close to his eyes. Nero was wont to gaze on gladiatorial fights through a glass cut from a huge emerald.

The first of our present-day spectacles was produced by Roger Bacon, who in about the year 1280 A. D. made a reading glass to be used in magnifying the smallest letters. Benjamin Franklin was the inventor of the bifocal spectacles.

Action of Roentgen Rays

A German physicist, Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen, born at Lemburg, Prussia, in 1845, discovered the X-ray, or Roentgen rays, in 1895. He was a professor at Wurzburg at the time. The X-rays are known to be vibrations of the ether, similar to but much more rapid than those of light. The wave length is so extremely short that every substance, regardless of color, is more or less transparent to them. A simple explanation of them is that when a high tension electric current is sent through a glass tube from which the air has been highly exhausted, the negative pole or cathode sends out an invisible stream of negatively charged particles called cathode rays. These rays can be brought to a focus like light, and when focused on a metallic target within the tube, the metal becomes intensely hot and gives off these Roentgen rays, or X-rays.

Bug-Beast Houses

The late Shah Riddhah, wealthy and pious banker of Shiraz, central India, left $100,000 to build and endow in perpetuity three rest houses into which insects may withdraw from the world. Poor travelers will be allowed to sleep overnight in these bug-rest houses, for will even be a small sum for doing so, as long as they lie still and kill no bugs. Should a sleeper kill a bug, even by accidentally rolling over, he will be ejected from the bug house by attendants and forfeit his sleep money. No less than 200 insect rest houses of a more or less similar kind are maintained throughout India by pious natives who realize that no bug is too insignificant to contain the reincarnated soul of an ancestor.—Time Magazine.

Try Yawning

If you would fortify your witting nerves before walking into the boss' office to ask for that long-delayed raise or for that luscious higher job, just yawn and indulge in a hearty stretch. The procedure is guaranteed by one authority to give renewed courage and vocal tone that will reflect confidence in the crucial interview.

Helen Hathaway, author and contributor to many noted periodicals, says that bodily poise is directly allied with mental balance through correct posture and regular breathing. One way of acquiring the elusive quality, she says, is through ositancy (English for "yawning").

Ideas of Her Own

Marjorie had developed a sudden dislike for going to bed. She admitted that she was afraid of the dark. An aunt, who was visiting in the home, said to the seven-year-old Robert: "Bob, you haven't been putting ideas into Marjorie's head and making her afraid to go to bed, have you?"

"Of course not," said the boy.

"She is five years old and has ideas of her own."

Your Job

Idleness seldom falls to the lot of a man who is always on his toes, that is, who is always in occupation or his profession. Every man is measured by the way he does his work. His job is always as good as he himself makes it.—Grit.

RULINGS ARE MADE ON VETERANS' EXEMPTIONS

Deduction May Not Be Taken on Property Purchased
After March 1.

Three important rulings, clearing up points in connection with the $1000 tax exemption in Oregon for disabled veterans, have been received by B. F. Keeney, county assessor, from the state tax commission.

The first ruling is to the effect that exemption will not apply to land the veteran is holding by contract, but has not actually purchased. Neither will exemption apply to 1931 tax on property acquired by the veteran after March 1, according to the second ruling.

The third ruling is in favor of the veterans and provides that exemption will apply to personal property.

A number in the Cottage Grove district who are entitled to exemption have made inquiries through the local American Legion post.

Mr. and Mrs. Finley Whipp were Eugene visitors Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. John Pitcher, Mrs. May Doggett and children, Mr. Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. Finley Whipp were Sunday visitors at the Doc Pitcher home.

Lester Lebow attended a dance Saturday night at the Lewis Layne home.

Lucy Risue visited several days recently with a cousin, Mrs. Adams of Cottage Grove.

Jay Blackmore has hauled his hay to the ranch he has rented on Silk creek.

A medical association of 400 physicians who plan to furnish medical care at $1 a week, has been formed in New York.

COUNTY HAS TO PAY STATE ENTIRE AMOUNT

The county court, sorely pressed by demands for a reduction in taxation that can not be made without curtailing the road program and throwing many men out of work, finds that the state is not joining fully in the tax reduction program.

When the county sent its check to the state for predatory animal control, it was returned and the county instructed to make a deduction of 10 per cent in accordance with the wishes of the governor. It sent the check at the reduced figure, but now the court has received a letter saying that the state will not attempt to make the deduction. The county was ordered to send to the state the amount which it had previously deducted to comply with the governor's wishes.
