THE NEW YEAR.
 It is customary to express the belief that the new year and others ahead will be more prosperous than the one that has gone before. Such predictions are peculiarly welcome at this time and there are good reasons why they can be made.

In the first place the depression has run its usual length of time. The time has arrived for the pent-up forces to swing the other way. Such persons as Babson say that the turn has come. Such changes in business as are reported are largely for the better—not much better—but some better—which is a big improvement over former reports that business was getting slightly worse.

Take the lumber business, for example. That is the one in which we are most interested. All seem to be agreed that the bottom was reached some time ago. Nothing stands still. It must get better or worse. If it can't get any worse, it must get better.

There are a few crumbs of encouragement in every report from those who follow the lumber market graphs. Production is still down. Mills are not planning to make any huge cuts. But the market is keeping pace with the reduced cuts. Last week showed an improvement in cargo business—the very place where it was feared there might be a decline.

From everywhere come reports that retail stocks have been sketched, that retailers are buying from hand to mouth. Whatever lumber is used must come from the mills. And lumber is going to be used in large quantities, in increasing quantities.

What is true of lumber is true of other manufactured necessities. As to the luxuries, there seems little likelihood that we are going to discontinue their use.

We have learned during the past year or two that we can live on a lot less than we formerly had. Times will seem prosperous when we can have easily the things that we are struggling for now, and that time is in the not distant future.

As to future years, there are many reasons why we can look forward to them with hope. We won't have as many expenses as we have had. We have gradually reduced our installment payments. When better times arrive we shall have a far lighter load of indebtedness than that with which we went into the depression.

During the depression we have been paying for the things that we bought when times seemed good. When money becomes easier we shall be able to use it for other things that we need. The money that has gone into paying for things that were manufactured a year or so ago will go into things not yet manufactured. That will give further speed to the wheels of industry.

Strange as it may seem, there is prospect of a major tax reduction within the next few years. That decrease will come, not so much from actual decrease in cost of operation of the several branches of the government as from elimination of special taxes.

We are now paying for streets that were built years ago, for water systems that were built several years ago, for public buildings that were erected years ago, for roads that have been using for years. A part of the present budget for the city of Cottage Grove shows that all special street assessments will be cleaned up in 1940. The huge sum of $88,000 in special street assessments will be cleaned up in five years, after which there will be only $16,000 remaining. The original $100,000 in bonds for a water system will be cleaned up in 1935. At the present rate of reduction the city will have no outstanding warrants at the end of five years. In ten years the city will have cleaned up practically all its bonds, water, sewer, street, city hall, armory and refunding.

What is true of Cottage Grove is true of practically every other city, as well as of the county and state. When we complete paying for the things we have had we shall have money to buy things that we want, and when we have money to buy what we want we are prosperous. The present may be tough, but the future is bright, and within two years we shall have forgotten about our present struggle.

REAL PROPERTY PAYS THE TAXES

Interesting figures compiled by County Clerk Dillard relative to disproportionate amount of taxes paid by real property are published elsewhere in this issue. They show that personal property bears only 8 per cent of taxes, while Mr. Dillard is of the opinion that values in this kind of property are far greater than those in real property.

The county clerk's figures bear out statements made by The Sentinel during one or more of the income tax campaigns, when Weeping Walter and others made the statement that 12 per cent of the property bore 80 per cent of the taxes and then inferred that the 12 per cent that paid the 80 per cent was all farm property.

The county clerk's figures show that in Lane county taxable land and improvements are but 20 per cent of the real estate, while city lots and improvements are 34 per cent. The clerk goes on to add that the ratio of taxation in cities is so much higher than the city proportion should be doubled and the farm proportion cut in two.

That farm property is paying taxes way out of proportion to that paid on personal property, no one can deny, and the cities get the best of that arrangement because the larger proportion of personal property is in cities. Also a large proportion of farm personal property is in the form of livestock that can be counted, or in machinery that can be seen, while the larger proportion of personal property in cities can be kept out of sight or is in such form that it can't be counted or correctly estimated.

The county clerk is correct when he points out that it is this grossly unfair ratio of taxation that has made income taxes popular. However, enactment of income taxes does not cure the trouble. The fact that we have income taxes should not halt our efforts to equalize taxes as between real and personal property. The farmer and owner of city lots are still being too hard hit.

Oakland, in Douglas county, is putting on the largest turkey show in the United States with some of the finest birds grown anywhere on exhibition. That part of Oregon is well adapted to turkey raising and the birds to the market in price. Yet Oregon raises only a few turkeys compared with Texas, Vermont and other states. This is an industry we can do well in and we should make it a leader. Let's find out what we can beat the world doing and then set out to do it.—Springfield News.

The Sentinel contemplated starting the leap year by publishing a list of the city's eligible bachelors, but there are so few that publishing such a list would hardly be worth while. How could there be many bachelors with such a list of irresistible maids as the city has?

"Legs" Diamond, noted gangster, was buried in a muddy plot and not even his former pals were in attendance. That's the way that suits us. These gangsters are nothing more than booze-running murderers and when the glamor is taken out of the gangster's life we may expect to have a fewer of 'em.

If a man showed as much celerity about getting home from work as he does about getting to work, his wife would be happy to pardon the latter.

It sometimes puzzles us how a woman can keep from bursting out laughing at the comical disfigurement her tears are causing some man.

Don't test the friendship of your acquaintances by boring them with your troubles.

The dove of peace will have to grow talons.

Has This to Say:

HOWDY FOLKS—Only 366 days until Christmas. Start raising that beard now and save 26c a day. By December 25 it will be just three feet long. Long enough to hide the Christmas necktie.

Well, we got Christmas over with and here's hoping that you folks didn't spend all of your money because we have some electric appliances that the boss says have to be moved out. Stop in and see the saving prices.

AS AN AFTERMATH OF CHRISTMAS, COTTAGE GROVE SEEMS TO BE FLOODED WITH THESE MUSICAL DE-CANTERS WHICH PLAY A TUNE EVERY TIME YOU POUR A DRINK.

The trouble is, according to apartment house rules, you can not take a drink after 10:30 at night or before 6:30 in the morning.

BE THAT AS IT MAY, THERE IS NO TIME LIMIT ON THE SAVINGS YOU MAY ENJOY BUYING FROM US. YOU WILL FIND HERE THE LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES ALL THE TIME.

Vic chambers says that a man may be as old as he feels, but not as important. We wonder—if this won't be a Happy New Year after all.
