CITY'S FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

Receipts of Water Department
Are $10,864.88 in Excess of Operating Expenses.

Despite the "repression" of the past year the city was in better financial condition at the end of the year than at the beginning and the much-talked-of water department made a splendid showing. This is shown by an audit report just made by O. V. Brees, city recorder.

Receipts in the water department were $22,599.56. Actual expenses of operating the department, including salary of superintendent, salary of water collector, cost of chemical help and cost of meter reading, as well as all supplies and labor, were $11,734.68, leaving receipts of $10,864.88 in excess of expenses of operation.

Of these excess receipts, $6,000 was applied to payment of bonds, $4,864.88 was applied to payment of interest on bonds and $3,822.33 was applied to interest on warrants.

After payments on bonds and interest, there remained a balance of $3,822.33 for reduction of warrants.

An item of $1,202.28 covered in receipts of the department was for sale of timber on the west side watershed. Deducting this item, the receipts from rentals in excess of cost of operation were $13,062.60, and the amount remaining, after bonds and interest were paid, was $2,722.28.

The amount that warrants were reduced remains at $3,822.33. Another item of $218.75, receipts from the same timber sale, was not entered as a receipt of the department and was applied direct to payment of interest.

These figures take no account of depreciation. The report shows that the bonded indebtedness was reduced $15,500. Water, sewer and general bonds to the amount of $10,500 were taken up and $5,000 in bond-for-bond improvement bonds were retired.

There was a reduction of nearly $7,000 in outstanding warrants. These reductions reduce interest charges for 1932 nearly $1,300.

Of a total budget of $46,039, the amount remaining unexpended was $12,953.30. All of that amount actually received was applied to reduction of indebtedness. The report shows that of anticipated income $5.8 per cent was actually received.

Excesses of income above expenses by funds was as follows: General, $2,845.34; street, $2,240.99; sewer, $643.97; water, $3,925.25.

Expenses in excess of income by funds were as follows: Bond and warrant interest fund $2,365.96; park, $100.78. As the excess expenditure in the bond and interest fund was for the retirement of warrants, the indebtedness of the city was not added to by expenditures in excess of receipts.

Outstanding warrants were shown to be as follows: General, $5,765.41; bond and warrant interest, $3,564.53; street, $303.44; sewer, $13.00; water, $3,300.92; total, $12,633.30. Although expenditures in the park fund were greater than receipts, there are no outstanding warrants, because of a balance of the preceding year.

The combined assets of the city have been inventoried at $688,905. With a population of 2475 this gives a per capita wealth of $278.34. The per capita indebtedness of the city is $101.80, not including liens against property for improvements.

INVENTORY IS FILED ON BANK COTTAGE GROVE

An inventory of the property and assets of the Bank of Cottage Grove, which closed December 5, have been listed with the county clerk by A. A. Schramm, state superintendent of banks.

Assets listed total $111,600.11, of which $45,416.27 is in loans; $27,197.25 in bonds; $14,499 in bank loans; $2,200 in furniture and fixtures; $13,123.97 in other real estate; $3,883 due from banks; $4,806.06 cash; $516.88 cash items; $86.68 in overdrafts.

Liabilities are $74,187.44: unsecured deposits, $11,245.61; secured deposits, $935.85; bills payable, $25,841.21 in clearing account.

Masons Are to Observe Bobby Burns' Birthday

In celebration of the birthday anniversary of Bobby Burns, Scotland's most beloved poet and in his life a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Masonic lodge and Eastern Star chapter of this city will hold a covered dish dinner at 6:30 Wednesday evening in Masonic hall. A program appropriate to the occasion will be held following the dinner and Rev. D. P. Cameron will be master of ceremonies.

The committee in charge of the affair are Dr. R. H. Fields, chairman, L. W. Colner and Cecil Caldwell for the Masonic lodge and Mrs. Cecil Caldwell, chairman, Mrs. R. H. Fields and Miss Mariette Hamant for the Eastern Star chapter.

Hoboes Report Need Of Family

Two hoboes, who stopped Tuesday forenoon at a home a short distance north of the city to ask for something to eat, found the family larger so empty that they stopped at the city recorder's office, on their way through the city, to urge that food be sent the family.

A few minutes later Miss Evelyn Gallagher, Red Cross worker, arrived here and reported that the family was one really in need of help. She had visited the family on her way to the city.

As much in need as they were themselves, the family had let the "tourists" put in some wood to pay for breakfast.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS ARE UPHELD BY COMMISSION

State Body Says If Directors
Have Exceeded Authority
That Is Up to Courts.

The state tax commission has given its opinion that so far as it is concerned school districts of Lane county have sufficient authority to expend school district funds for the purpose of contesting the Wheeler law under which the county makes distribution of high school funds, thus settling, for the time being at least, the controversy of protesting taxpayers under the leadership of Assessor Ben Keeney, who made the claim that directors of the so-called big four districts of the county (of which the Cottage Grove district is one) had gone beyond their authority in expending funds in connection with the suit brought to force the county to adopt the apportionment law that is used by all other counties of the state.

It is claimed by the protesting districts that they are discriminated against under the operations of the Wheeler law, even with the changes made by the recent legislation.

The tax commission said that if the directors have exceeded their authority that is a question for the courts to decide, but so far as the commission is concerned "the board of directors have exercised discretionary powers which are presumably conferred upon them by law."

BLACK BUTTE, LONDON SCHOOLS CONSOLIDATE

Consolidation of the Black Butte and London school districts, which was authorized last week by a vote in the two communities, was formally ratified Monday at a meeting of the board of directors. The consolidation is to become effective July 1, 1932.

The Black Butte district, No. 61, approved the measure unanimously by a vote of 11 to 0, the clerk of the district, while the London district, No. 75, by a vote of 14 to 12. The consolidated district will be known as district No. 75.

A more efficient school at less cost to the taxpayers will result from the move, according to Lawrence C. Moffitt, assistant county school superintendent. It was pointed out that the London school building is large enough to care for the children of the enlarged district and that present transportation in the London district can be extended easily to serve the Black Butte district. At present there are 32 pupils in Black Butte, which employs one teacher, Rose L. Taylor, and 64 pupils at London, which employs three teachers, Ada T. Sherman, Jessie M. Pruett and Annabelle Gierster. Five or six children from Black Butte school were enrolled Monday in the London school in order to relieve congestion.

This is the first grade school consolidation in Lane county since 1928, Mr. Moffitt said.

Conservation League Organized

E. N. Craven of this city attended a meeting at Salem several days ago at which the Oregon Outdoor Conservation league was organized. It will be interested in all outdoor sports, particularly in the protection of game life. There will be no dues and anyone is eligible to membership.

Members of the state game commission were present and were called upon to defend themselves against criticism hurled at them.

Louise Wynne Is Honored.

75 PER CENT CUTTING RECOMMENDED MILLS

Head of Lumbermen's Association Says Curtailment Will Bring Uptrend in Market.

Maintenance of a three-fourths production rate for the first half of 1932 was urged upon members of the Willamette Valley Lumbermen's association Friday night in Eugene as a means of putting the lumber industry back on its feet.

Col. W. B. Greeley, secretary-manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, presented the plan. If it is adopted, the throughput of the northwest will operate 36 hours a week on a rate of six hours a day for six days. This is a cut of 25 per cent.

Greeley pointed out that lumber purchasers have been up and down because they believe prices are going lower. He urged that lumbermen curtail production to meet the market and said that a three-fourths operation rate for six months would effect this.

"Soon when the season has turned, lumber orders will come in," he said. "What shall we do? Shall we start sawing lumber in great quantities, glut the market again and put ourselves in the same position we have been in, or shall we operate on an orderly basis, cutting enough to meet the demand, and little more, so that the demand will continue and prices remain firm? If we plan carefully we can make 1932 a good year. Otherwise it will be just another 1931."

In discussing the general situation, Col. Greeley offered figures to show that lumbermen are not so greatly affected by the depression as some other great industries. In 1931 sales were 38 1/2 per cent of capacity in the lumber industry. The percentage had come down from 74 per cent in 1928. "But study the sales of other great industries comparable to the lumber industry and you will find few with higher percentages," Greeley said. He mentioned the steel industry as an example.

Warriors Are Defeated In Battle at Wendling

In a nip and tuck battle the Cottage Grove Warriors lost a county basketball league game to Wendling by the narrow margin of 28 to 24 Wednesday night at the Wendling floor. Two lucky field goals shot from the center of the floor in the last minute of play spelled defeat for the local quintet. Play was rough and the officiating lax.

The Wendling five maintained a lead throughout the first half, the score at half time being 22 to 14. The Warriors hit their stride in the second half and tied the score 22-22 at the end of the third quarter. Both teams battled on even terms in the final period until the last minute of play when Wendling loped in the two field goals.

Bagley and Goff, warrior forwards, were high point men of the game with 9 markers each. Each chalked up four field goals and a foul.

Gates, Comet forward, carried off high point honors with 12 markers, while Mattoon, Drain forward, was runner-up with 10 points.

GENUINE NATIVE FILIPINO IS DEFENDED AS OF HIGH TYPE

Ex-Member of Island Health Service Describes Various Tribes; Pygmy, Who Represents Civilization of Another Age, Timid.

When Colonel Theodore Roosevelt talked over the governor-generalship of the Philippines he will find within a comparatively few miles a citizenship comparable to our own and another citizenship that is the same as it must have been a thousand or a few thousand years ago, as well as indications that in past ages there must have lived there a race that was mentally the equal or superior of the most enlightened civilization of the Orient of today, according to Dr. H. I. Cole, for many years in the Philippine health service, but now a guest here at the home of Mrs. Cole's parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Fields.

A high type of citizenship is represented in the genuine Filipino, who far outnumbers the other races of the islands, is ambitious, bright and has developed to that state which he himself has attained. He is a high type of citizen, the Bontocs and the Ifugos, who live in the northern portion of Luzon. When a wife fails to give birth to children the Bontocs are known by the head man of the tribe. These tribes also, while they have been subjugated, run their own affairs in the most primitive manner.

Trials marriage, advocacy of which recently brought fame or notoriety to Judge Ben Lindsey, is an old custom among at least two tribes of the Philippines, the Bontocs and the Ifugos, who live in the northern portion of Luzon. When a wife fails to give birth to children the Bontocs are known by the head man of the tribe. These tribes also, while they have been subjugated, run their own affairs in the most primitive manner.

In the country of the Ifugos, in the mountain province, is found an example of engineering that indicates that a vanished race of high intelligence must have once lived there. There is a great system of terraced and irrigation ditches known as the rice terraces. Evidently the race had been driven from the lowlands and was forced to make the mountainous produce or perish. There are thousands of miles of the terraces and irrigation ditches.

They could never have been built by the race which now exists there, but they are kept in a fair state of preservation and are a thing of beauty. The building of these terraces antedates recorded history and there is no explanation of where this superior race came from or where it went to. There may be some connection between these terraces and the abandoned cities of Indo-China that must have teemed with a population of millions. One of the most interesting trips made by Dr. Cole during his residence in the islands was to the mountains of the Asian mainland. Masonry still stands as it was left possibly a hundred centuries ago, and why the civilization disappeared is as inexplicable as where it came from. It is not likely that it was exterminated by invasion, for there was no attempted destruction of the abandoned cities. One explanation is that a small number of persons that had come from the sea of learning may have subjugated a race that revolted, destroyed its rulers and was unable to maintain, or did not care to maintain, the works of a higher civilization.

The dog is as highly esteemed as an article of diet among the Bontocs and Ifugos as the turkey is among residents here. Formerly there were markets where dogs for consumption could be purchased, but under American government these markets have been discontinued, although the appetite for dog remains.

The Moros are another race of the islands. They were once an extremely warlike seafaring people. While they still retain their love for the water, they have been subjugated and give little trouble.

What we in America know as the Filipino is an entirely different person from any of the races that have been described. He attends our colleges, learns rapidly and has attained a rather high intellectual level. Leaders are abundant, and the Filipino has been successful in industry, in business and in politics. He regards the United States highly, but is earnest in desiring the independence for which he believes himself fitted. He probably believes he would make no more mistakes in governmental affairs than are made in the nation that so far has refused him independence.

Felix Takes a Stand

After an unsuccessful trip on Tuesday an airplane delivered 300 pounds of foodstuffs Wednesday to a crew of six employed at the Evening Star mine in the Bohemia district, which is buried under 15 feet of snow. The delivery could not be made Tuesday because of fog which made it impossible to pick out a spot near the mine to drop the packages. On Wednesday the visibility was better and the Musik mine and Bohemia district were located. Two packages were dropped near the mine and one near the saddle. On account of danger of bumping into some of the peaks the plane had to travel at a high altitude and the packages suffered from dropping a distance of 1000 to 2000 feet.

After the delivery had been made and the plane had returned to its base at Eugene the telephone was used to tell the marooned miners where to look for the packages. Telephone lines have remained intact despite the fact that the district is closed to the outside world by snow. The only way to get in or out is by skis and getting freight in by that method is difficult and expensive.

The crew at the Evening Star is the only one spending the winter in the portion of the district that is difficult to reach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bartels, parents of Fred Bartels, operator of the Evening Star, made the trip Tuesday. It was necessary that someone familiar with the district accompany the pilot to point out where to make delivery.

Not more than a day's supply of food remained when the plane made its delivery.

Those in camp at the Evening Star are Fred Bartels, John Hawkins, Lester Powers, Hugh Doolittle and Mr. and Mrs. William Patton.

Eugene Obsidians were planning to attempt to carry food to the district in case delivery by plane should prove unsuccessful.

The men at the mine reported by telephone that they found all except one of the packages dropped. They were to be dug out of ten feet of snow.

Cottage Grove High and Springfield Play Tonight

The Cottage Grove high school basketball team will play its third interscholastic league game at 8 o'clock tonight (Friday) in the high school gym with the Springfield high quintet as the opposing team. The locals lost their two preceding games and are out to break into the win column in tonight's game. The blue and gold five, which is light and fast, has been hampered by the smallness of its players.

University high of Eugene defeated Cottage Grove 38 to 9 in a hard fought game played last Friday night in Eugene. The locals played on even terms with the fast traveling campus high quintet in the first half, which ended 8 to 2 for the Eugeneans. The superior height and reach of the campus five told in the remainder of the game when University high took a commanding lead. The half ended 18 to 2 for University high. In the second half University high piled up 21 points to 3 for Cottage Grove.

The lineups follow:
Cottage Grove (9) U. H. S. (38)
Dusberry, 3 F. Soula, 2

Royal Arcanum Comets Bow to Babb Tartans

The Royal Arcanum Comets bowed to the Babb Tartans in a 47 to 24 in a fast and rough basketball game played Thursday night of last week on the high school gym floor. The visitors, dominating play from the opening whistle, broke the Comets' record by winning a straight win. Although outclassed the Comets displayed speed and aggressiveness that made them a dangerous threat throughout the game.

W. J. Wicks of the Tartans carried off high point honors with 17. Gates played a good game for the Comets, while Malkasian and Swanton of the Tartans shone on defensive play.

The Comets have scheduled a return game with the Tartans to be played in Eugene in the near future. With a tightening of their defense and a few breaks the local quintet should stand a better chance to win.

The lineups follow:
Tartans (47) Comets (24)
Wicks, 17 F. Swanson, 6
Holden, 9 F. Gates, 6
Jacobs, 10 C. Pruthi, 6
Malkasian, 4 G. Cochrane, 8
