SPEARING SPEARS.

"How do you like Oregon as compared with Wisconsin?"

"Oh, Wisconsin has it all over Oregon."

When Doc Spears of Oregon spent a night here with his football squad preceding the recent homecoming football game at Eugene, this writer put to Doc Spears the question quoted above, and his answer is the one quoted above as near as this writer recollects it.

A football man is expected to be an outstanding example of loyalty.

Is it too much to expect a football coach to put the state of his residence above every other state in the union?

Can a man be the best football coach if his loyalty is not to the state in which he lives, to the state wherein he draws a princely salary, to the state that makes possible the institution that requires a coach?

This writer remembers that the answer of Coach Spears made an unfavorable impression. It did not sound like the answer that should come from a man to whom was given the duty of teaching the highest ideals to our boys.

Now he has deliberately broken the contract he had with the associated student body at the university, and will return to the state that, in his opinion, has it all over Oregon.

And it has it all over Oregon in one way. It has never been recorded that Oregon ever asked a coach to break a contract held in another state. It has never been recorded that Oregon asked anyone to show disloyalty to the state in which he lived, to the state in which he drew his salary. Yes, Wisconsin has it all over Oregon. And what kind of a coach does Wisconsin think will be developed from a man who holds a contract to be a scrap of paper. It seems that something was said in recent years that describes that kind of a person.

All Oregon newspaper comment is the same. Doc Spears is getting the panning of his life, and he deserves it. No one wants him to stay, and this paper is pleased to know that a graduate of our own university is to be the one to coach our football teams in the future. We may expect real loyalty and real sacrifice, when necessary for the good of the team.

It is actions such as those of Doc Spears which are opening the eyes of many to the fact that a coach is not a superman, that the coach is not the team. It is well to have this understood. There will be football long after such as Dos Spears are gone, and football would be a great sport, perhaps a better amateur sport, if there were no high salaried coaches.

EINZIG AND PETTY GRAFT.

It was with a great fan-fare that Einzig was installed in the office of purchasing agent for the state of Oregon. Great things were to be accomplished. All leaks were to be stopped and every state officer was going to have to give his life history every time he needed a paper of pins. Petty graft of every kind was to stop. At about this time there was a great fuss about turkeys, or maybe it was geese, being given to several state officers and about apples from state property being placed in one or two state offices, four or five bushels of them altogether. Governor Meier insisted on giving the state a check for whatever had been delivered to his office and for services rendered by convicts who had washed his car.

Now reports are current over the state that Rufus Holman, appointee of the governor and one of those who put Einzig in office, is about to open up on the purchasing agent and show that he has everything backed off the boards that the state has ever known in accepting for himself what he was supposed to stop in others. We'd like to say a good word for Rufus, and we'll certainly do so if he has the nerve to open up on one of his own appointees and fly in the face of the governor to whom he himself owes his appointment.

If the state pays no more for what it buys merely because the person selling to the state furnishes items to the purchasing agent, no harm may be done, but it doesn't look right, especially coming right after the great furore about employes taking joyrides in state-owned automobiles. Rumor has it that Einzig himself is the greatest offender in riding around in state cars on semi-private business, or on entirely private business.

Rumor has it that whenever Einzig reaches a city where there is a state institution he never reaches into his own pocket to pay a bill for meals or lodging. Even sororities at the institutions of higher learning, so the story goes, are not exempt from the demands of the purchasing agent whom such sororities do not dare offend for fear of reprisal on the institution of learning.

These rumors are now spreading so thick and fast that the purchasing agent should do something to show their lack of foundation or he should be ousted from office. We hope Rufus' nerve doesn't fail him.

Appreciation Expressed.

Latham, April 5.—(To the Editor.)—I wish to thank the Cottage Grove band, the various Sunday school classes, the American Legion and all other organizations that have recently assisted in bringing the question of the attitude of the United States on peace before the people. The local committee felt that they could recommend only a general resolution. Accordingly the petitions for this community were written, "Believing it to be to the best interests of the common people of all nations we urge that the strength of the United States be used to maintain peace."

In presenting many phases of a movement for Better Homes in America, what greater fundamental could there be than peace? What could Better Homes amount to without peace? There may be those who see in Better Homes in America a desire for richer furnishings and show of wealth, but to me there is a far deeper and more poignant need if we would place the American home on the basis it rightfully deserves. There are so many sides to this question that each family will need to study its own problems and in some cases several families will solve them together.

The schools may be rich in helps and they will this year demonstrate more than ever their practical value in our community.

MRS. HUGH TRUNNELL.

KEM PERSISTS.

Cottage Grove, March 27. —(To the Editor.)—I certainly am at a loss, Mr. Editor, to know just what attitude I should assume toward your very strong and persistent declarations of faith in my honesty and integrity as expressed in your reply to my last letter. Your repetition of this declaration three or four times, seems to be going to extremes and suggests the thought of a sort of veiled suspicion lurking in your mind, else why the suggestion? It certainly never entered my mind that you are trying to deceive any one and yet I verily believe I can track back over this controversy and find as much evidence justifying the charge against you as myself. However, I shall proceed with this letter in the profound hope that I may succeed in convincing you that this suspicion, if there be one, is wholy unfounded.

(No suspicion as to honesty, sincerity or integrity intended.)

You criticize me for not quoting you in full in the following: "We presume it is admitted that bonds can be redeemed in ten years to our figures of a week ago."

Now you say, "What the Sentinel said was: We presume it is admitted that bonds can be redeemed in ten years to our figure" (and then you put in capital letters what I left out) "WITHOUT COLLECTING ANY MORE ANNUALLY THAN IS TO BE COLLECTED THIS YEAR."

First, I want the reader to observe that you did not quote me correctly because you left out, "to our figures of a week ago." Second, I also want the reader to observe that the words in capitals that I left out have nothing to do with what I was criticising, in my quotation, although you seem to lay much stress on them. Can it be possible that you are trying to deceive your readers? Oh! I hope not.

Continuing, you say, "There are no ifs, ands or buts about such a statement." No, indeedy, there is not. However, there is a very outstanding "presumption in the following: "We presume it is admitted?" This is the only point in the first quotation, and my only reason for reentering this controversy. After I had repudiated your figures and had gone to some length in an effort to convince you of your error by pointing out that they had no sure foundation upon which to rest, and for that reason were worthless, you come right back with, I was about to say, the impudence of the devil, but will change it to the confidence of the devil, and "presume" that I accept them. This is even more simple than common sixth grade arithmetic, still you are not able to see it. Again, are you trying to deceive your readers or is it only that you have succeeded in deceiving yourself? I will be charitable and decide that it is the latter. You have allowed your mind to dwell upon these presumptions, suppositions, ifs, probables and maybes, until it would seem that you have become obsessed of the idea that the city really can pay its debts in this easy manner, although the budget, the only authority for the city's ability to pay, fails entirely to sustain it.

With reference to your criticism of my statement of the last paragraph of the budget report, am frank to say that it was justified in part. However, what I left out had no bearing on what I had to say about the budget being the report of the committee, and what I quoted was to substantiate that statement, which it does. What I left out affects only what I said to the effect that there is nothing to show that the recorder made the statement of bonded indebtedness. However, this statement is susceptible of two interpretations and, in order to make my meaning more clear, I will insert the entire paragraph:

"I, O. V. Breese, recorder of the City of Cottage Grove, Oregon, hereby certify that the foregoing estimate of the expenditures and receipts for the year 1932 are the true and correct copies of the estimate prepared by the budget committee of said city now on file in this office. THE FOREGOING IS A TRUE AND CORRECT CLASSIFIED SUMMARY OF THE INDEBTEDNESS OF THE CITY OF COTTAGE GROVE."

Inasmuch as these two statements of the recorder are included in one paragraph, it makes the last sentence susceptible to the interpretation that the word "foregoing" means the first sentence of the paragraph, and that was my first interpretation. On further consideration, however, I can see also that it can include the entire indebtedness of the budget and I have no doubt but this is what the recorder had in mind when he made the statement and, as I stated in a former letter, I never had a doubt of his reporting the bond indebtedness. All of this, however, has nothing to do with the question at issue which is, whether I was right in designating the budget as "the budget committee's report." And, to

SOCIETY

A party honoring women above 70 years of age was held Wednesday at the Christian church. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served by the ladies' aid society and a program and afternoon of music followed. The guests of honor helping with the program were Mrs. Sophronia McFarland, who sang a solo, and Mrs. Matilda Teeters, who gave a reading. There were 24 guests of more than 70 years of age. Mrs. Rose Newland, 92 years and the oldest mother present, was given an anglefood cake. Mrs. Hawkins, 87 years and the next oldest mother, was presented with a sunshine cake. There were eight women above 80 years of age. A feature of the luncheon was a large birthday cake which served all present, 75 in number.

The study of Greek romance was an interesting subject for the Delphian group at the meeting Monday night. Mrs. C. C. Cruson was program leader. The program follows: "Greek Romances," Mrs. James Dungan; "Characteristics of Greek Romance," Mrs. S. L. Godard; "Plots of Greek Romance," Mrs. Alice Miller; "Characters," Mrs. W. M. MacGibbon; "Reflections," Mrs. F. E. Mendenhall; "Style," Mrs. Miller; "Local Color," Mrs. Ray Trask; "Current Events," Mrs. Mendenhall. Program leader for the next meeting will be Mrs. James Dungan.

The Mothers' club met Tuesday for an all day quilting session. Dinner was served at noon by Mrs. Daisy Markham, Mrs. Laura McKernan and Mrs. Rosa Currin. Mrs. R. W. Everett gave the following report for March: Given to the needy, 263 garments, 85 pairs of shoes, 3 quilts, 12 quarts of fruit, 2 cans of lard and 2 cans of cocoa. Votes of thanks were extended Dorena club women, Mount View women and others who have given so generously to the Mothers' club. It was decided to keep the club room open two days a week, Tuesdays and Saturdays, during April.

Members of the American Legion auxiliary spent the time at their meeting Monday evening placing stickers on Memorial poppies. Mrs. D. A. Emerson, poppy chairman, reported that the poppy poster contest has been started in the schools. Pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will compete with those of the seventh and eighth grades. Prizes will be given and winning posters will be entered in the state contest. The resignation of Miss Mary Clerin, treasurer, was accepted and Mrs. C. E. Frost was elected to fill the vacancy.

Miss Maxine Nelson entertained a group of young folks with a 7 o'clock dinner Friday night at her home on Ninth street. A bowl of carnations and snapdragons formed an attractive centerpiece for the table. The evening was spent playing bridge. Prizes for high scores were awarded Miss Viola Strong and Brewer Mills. Included in the group were Miss Strong, Claude Huff, Miss Virginia Dusenberry, Fred Knickerbocker, Miss Genevieve Woodard, Brewer Mills, Darwin Woodcock, Corvallis, and Miss Nelson.

The LaComus club celebrated its thirteenth birthday anniversary Tuesday with a no-hostess 1 o'clock luncheon at the Colonial. The annual meeting followed and officers elected for the coming year were: Mrs. T. C. Wheeler, president; Mrs. W. M. Workman, vice president; Mrs. C. J. Kem, secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Harry Metcalf of Eugene, a former club member, was a guest and invited the club to meet with her in two weeks at her home in Eugene.

A union missionary day, sponsored by the W. C. T. U., will be observed today (Friday) at the Christian church. All missionary societies of the city and women of the churches have been invited to attend. A covered dish luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock and a program and entertainment will follow.

The Joker club met Friday night at the home of Miss Lula Currin, who entertained jointly with Miss Myrtle Kem and Mrs. William Thum. At cards Mrs. O. M. Kem held high score. Following cards delicious refreshments were served. Spring garden flowers were attractive room decorations. Additional guests invited to meet with the club were Mrs. Kem, Mrs. Lydia Stouffer, Mrs. Nancy Oglesby, Mrs. Melia Currin, Mrs. D. A. Emerson and Mrs. F. L. Grannis.

The missionary society of the Methodist church met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Roy Leonard. Sixteen were present. The meeting was opened with devotionals by Mrs. Omer Moore and the following program was given: Reading, "He Offers Eternal Life," Mrs. S. L. Mackin; "Life Among the Moslems," Mrs. E. E. Cone; "Call It a Day," Mrs. M. A. Groves; "The Common People Heard Him," Mrs. J. R. Hendricks. Mrs. Compton was in charge of a "mystery box." At the tea hour dainty refreshments were served.

A group of American Legion auxiliary members met at the home of Mrs. Vinal Randall Thursday for an all-day sewing session. A baby layette, to be used in child welfare work, was made. A covered dish luncheon was served at 1 o'clock. The group will meet again this afternoon (Friday) at the home of Mrs. F. L. Grannis to complete the work.

The grade teachers' club met Monday night for their regular monthly meeting. Dinner was served at the Baptist church by the women of the church and a business session and program followed. The group then went to the home of Mrs. William Thum for bridge. The committee in charge of arrangements was Mrs. Thum, Mrs. M. C. Hickenbottom and Miss Glenda Ross.

Mrs. Merville Veatch and Mrs. Ralph Saltsman entertained at bridge Friday at the A. W. Swanson home, honoring Mrs. Ben Huntley, an aunt from Chico, Cal. Two tables were in play and Mrs. Victor Chambers held high score. Following cards a luncheon was served. Spring flowers made the rooms especially attractive.

Mrs. Charles Hall was hostess Tuesday for Elmartes club and entertained as additional guests Mrs. W. A. Garoutte and Mrs. G. A. Sanders. Mrs. Merville Veatch held high score at bridge. At the close of the afternoon a dainty luncheon was served.

Much interest and discussion centered around the topic, "The Legal Status of Women in Oregon," at the Research club meeting Tuesday night. Program leaders for the evening were Mrs. F. E. Mendenhall and Mrs. Ira Isom. The annual business meeting with election of officers will be held Tuesday night, April 19, and the lesson study of this week continued.

Mrs. C. L. Madden was pleasantly surprised Monday when a group from the Christian church called at her home to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. Guests brought refreshments, including a birthday cake. An old-fashioned taffy pull furnished amusement for the evening. Mrs. Madden was presented with a number of useful gifts.

The LaMercredi Pont club met Wednesday, March 30, with Mrs. Leslie Booth as hostess at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. C. Johnson. Mrs. George Hewitt held high score for guests and Mrs. Fred Hauger for members. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Fred Hauger at Junction City.

The 4-H health club of the fifth grade of the central school entertained the mothers at the close of school Thursday afternoon. A program of music and readings was given and a social hour followed. Miss Mariette Hamant is teacher and Mrs. W. M. MacGibbon leader of the club.

Mrs. G. B. Arnest and Mrs. N. E. Compton pleasantly surprised their husbands on their birthday anniversaries Friday when they invited a group of friends to spend the evening at the Compton home. Four tables of "rook" were formed and at a later hour delicious refreshments were served. Guests numbered 22.

Members of the city band and their families and a few friends met in the I. O. O. G. hall Monday night for a covered dish supper. A program of stunts and an evening of cards and dancing followed. Mrs. L. L. Harrel was chairman of the committee in charge.

The Latham Homemakers' club met Tuesday with Mrs. Minnie Nichols and listened to a talk, "Do's and Don'ts of Will Making" by Professor LeMaster over station KOAC. This is a phase of the Better Homes program and is available to anyone who has a radio.

The Mizpah class of the Presbyterian Sunday school met Tuesday evening at the church, with Mrs. W. V. McGee and Mrs. Charles Beidler as hostesses. A business meeting was followed by a social session and refreshments.

Mrs. E. A. Johnston was hostess Tuesday for the M. P. G. club. At the close of an afternoon of needlework a dainty luncheon was served. Orchids in artistic arrangement were table decorations and irises were placed about the rooms.

The Needlecraft club entertained husbands of members last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bartels. Cards was the diversion. At a late hour refreshments were served.

The Social Twelve club will meet next Thursday with Mrs. F. E. Mendenhall.

The Past Matrons club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Beidler. Mrs. R. H. Fields and Miss Mariette Hamant were joint hostesses.

The past Esther officers of the Eastern Star will be honored guests at the regular chapter meeting tonight. A program and entertainment have been arranged.

The Presbyterian ladies' aid will meet at 2:30 next Wednesday at the church, with Mrs. Charles Beidler as chairman.

The Social Twelve club will meet Thursday of next week with Mrs. F. E. Mendenhall.

Mrs. G. A. Sanders was hostess yesterday afternoon for the Beau Monde club.

Typing Contest Is Scheduled.

A typing contest for Lane county schools will be held at 10 Saturday in the high school. The Royal Typewriter company will give a silver loving cup to the winning team. Each team will consist of two beginning pupils and two advanced pupils. Schools which have entered to date are Creswell, Lowell, Walker, University high (Eugene), Elmira, Goshen, Springfield and Cottage Grove.
