

SENATE URGED TO GIVE AID LUMBER INDUSTRY

Secretary of Interior Suggests Control of Production in Natural Resources.

Washington, March 31.—Legislation to permit agreements between producers in the oil, gas and timber industries with a view to controlling production and avoiding waste was urged before a senate committee today by Secretary Wilbur.

Insofar as "natural resource" industries are concerned, he favored the Nye bill to enable the federal trade commission to approve agreements adopted by an industry and give them legal binding effect.

The secretary of the interior added some provision should be included requiring the agreement becomes inoperative if it produces coercion on a member of the industry or results in exorbitant prices to the public.

President Hoover in his annual message recommended congress consider changing the anti-trust laws along this line.

In answer to a question from Senator Steiwer (R., Oregon) who also is keenly interested in such legislation, Wilbur said the government has a direct interest in controlling production as an owner of enormous quantities of natural resources.

Staiwer proposed an amendment which would more emphatically insist upon the natural resource industries the right to make agreements for controlling production, saying if this were incorporated, he would drop a separate measure introduced by him to accomplish a similar end.

Eugene Starts Drive For Building Repairs

Aiming to strike a body blow at unemployment in Eugene, the more than 100 members of the Eugene Building Congress have started a campaign designed to furnish work for skilled building trades workers at a time when property owners can take advantage of rock-bottom material prices.

Pointing to the many odd jobs of alterations, repairs and minor new construction and improvements which can be made at little cost to the property owner and at the same time create a large volume of work, the members of the building congress urge "Do It Now."

Through newspaper stories and advertising, radio talks and personal solicitation, members of the building congress, headed by President Earl M. Drew, will attempt to bring the jobless property owners and employers of labor together to the mutual benefit of all.
