Amulet High in Favor

With Ancient Peoples

The most familiar of ancient "charms" are perhaps the amulets worn generally for luck and certain ones more specifically as a charm against disease, accidents or misfortune. They go back to the early Chaldeans, Egyptians, Greeks and Romans. The idea of suspension is connected with the word amulet, its origin tracing back through the Latin to the Arabic, meaning a pendant, Edan Wright tells us, in the Chicago Evening Post.

And having provided themselves with an amulet for safety's sake, the ancients sought to care for their animals in the same manner. The horse, of course, being the swiftest means of making a journey, was very important, and it was a bold traveler, indeed, who undertook a trip without seeing to it that his horse's trappings carried the requisite amount of amulets to afford ample protection for beast and man. There were brass amulets for the horse's forehead, ears, breast and shoulders.

Early settlers in this country hung with balls in their windows which were supposed to keep away the evil spirits and witches. We can't vouch for their efficacy as charms, but most of them were certainly charming affairs, of glass, some colored, others plain.

Canada's Buffalo Herds

Acquired From America

Legend has it that the buffalo owes its present existence to a quarrel between two Indians, father and son-in-law. In 1873, says an article in the Los Angeles Times. The son-in-law left the paternal tepee, fled northward to Saskatchewan from his home at Flathead reservation, Montana. But his longing for home was too great. He decided to return. On the way he found a small herd of the fast-disappearing buffalo. He sorted out four calves. These he led home. They brought him once more in the family circle, for the father-in-law was happy with Hunting Dog's gift. The four calves grew and bred under the care of the priests of St. Ignatius mission. Soon there was a small herd, too large for the priests to handle. Came Pablo, the Mexican halfbreed, and bought ten of the animals for $250 each. He led them home, where he bred them till they became the herd which he sold to the Canadian government at a price per head similar to what he paid for the first ten. The United States government did not want them, for he offered them in 1906. Canada took them, and now has the greatest buffalo herds in the world, totaling more than 20,000 animals.

Reduced 30 Pounds

Never Felt Better

Safe Way to Lose Fat

Take the case of Miss Madeline Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces indolence.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar of Kruschen that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at Cottage Grove Pharmacy, but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts.

But why stay in the kitchen while the food is cooking? Electricity will cook and watch your food automatically, perfectly, while you spend most of your time as you please. See your hardware, furniture or electrical dealer today about an electric range. It will save your money, your health and your time.
