COUNTY CONTRACT PLAN STATE GETS APPROVAL

Lane Chamber Also Goes on Record Opposing Truck and Bus Bill.

The much-discussed contract between Lane county and the state highway commission, whereby the state body advanced money, without interest charges, for completion of main highways of the county, was unanimously adopted by a largely attended meeting of the Lane county chamber of commerce held in the armory here Wednesday night. Elmer Maxey of Springfield, speaking for the road committee of the county chamber, explained that the county chamber had endorsed and unanimously urged the county court to enter into the agreement, at a public meeting held for the purpose of considering that proposal, before the county court proceeded to enter into the contract. Mr. Maxey urged that, inasmuch as the contract was a child of the county chamber it should at this time reaffirm and re-state its position in opposition to statements which have been made to the effect that something had been put over on the county.

Following an able and educational talk on the West truck and bus bill by L. B. Smith, Portland attorney representing the allied truck owners, the chamber adopted, without a dissenting vote, the recommendation of the road committee that the chamber go on record against the bill.

Mr. Smith said that the bill is difficult to understand, that it makes provisions which are contradictory, that it provides for a thorough investigation upon which taxes against trucks and busses are to be assessed and then goes ahead and puts rates into effect without any such investigation, that trucks serving small mills in Lane county, and those truck-served small mills which give employment to a large number of persons, would be put out of the business by the bill, which he characterized as the progeny of the railroad interests. He feared that the 90-day revocable permit feature of tne bill would not be sufficient protection for trucks serving sawmills.

Mr. Smith said that the bill contains many good features along with the bad, but that the bad features can not be eliminated under the initiative. He said that the principal effect of the bill would be an immediate advance in freight rates. He suggested that the truck men, the railroads and all concerned sit down together, put their cards on the table and assist the legislature in working out legislation that would be fair to all.

Following comprehensive addresses by O. S. Fletcher, county agent, and Miss Gertrude L. Skow, home demonstration agent, in which each described his and her work in detail, motions were unanimously adopted expressing the appreciation of the chamber of that work.

Sam Lehman, Junction City, reporting for a committee appointed to investigate delinquencies on real property, said that little progress had been made but that a report probably would be ready for the November meeting, which will be held at Willakenzie grange hall.

Senator Ed W. Miller, of the Coast Highway association, spoke briefly in favor of the Rogue river fish bill, which he introduced in the legislature and told of the returns of the tourist crop, which he said is becoming one of the state's greatest producers of revenue. He said the turnover in 1931 was $54,000,000 and probably will be $30,000,000 during 1932.

A feature of the meeting was "Ole Geremonteson's Westfir Loggers" who gave musical numbers throughout the evening.

BIG FOUR DISTRICTS WIN COURT BATTLE

Judge Norton of Medford Declares Wheeler Law Is Unconstitutional.

Predicated upon the established fact that the per capita cost of educating pupils in high school districts in Lane county is in excess of the amounts provided for in the so-called Wheeler law, an opinion upholding the Big Four high school of the county in their suit against the Lane county officials was handed down by Judge Henry D. Norton of Medford Wednesday.

The opinion marks the end of the first phase of the battle against the Wheeler high school fund law conducted by the four larger high school districts of the county who maintain the law works a hardship upon the taxpayers of the large high school districts in forcing them to stand the burden of the education of pupils who live in districts where there are no high schools.

County Judge C. P. Barnard said Wednesday county authorities were undecided whether or not the case would be appealed, but since statements made at the time of the trial last summer indicated that either side would appeal in the event of defeat in the circuit court, it is assumed that the case will probably reach the supreme court of the state.

In the trial before Judge Norton, the Big Four high schools of the county alleged that the burden of educating students who live in non-high school districts was unfairly imposed on high school districts under the Wheeler law in that the tax levy was arbitrarily set at two mills in each district. Thus taxpayers in districts where there were no high schools paid their two mills and sent their children to the adjoining district where there was a high school. The taxpayers in that district paid the two mills but since this does not equal the cost of educating the pupil, the taxpayers of the district were forced to make up the difference by an additional special district high school levy.

HOOVER-CURTIS CLUB ORGANIZED BY WOMEN

Refutation Is Made of Untruths Told About President's Rapidan Lodge.

A women's Hoover-Curtis club has been organized here with the following officers: Mrs. Clara Burkholder, president; Mrs. H. W. Lombard, secretary-treasurer. Meetings will be held at 2:30 every Saturday afternoon during the campaign.

Mrs. Burkholder has received several requests to attend meetings in outlying communities and talk on political issues. The first such meeting was with the Friendly Neighborhood club, which met yesterday with Mrs. Bittinger on the Lorahe road. The second meeting will be with a neighborhood club which will meet October 26 with Mrs. Elmer Wicks of the Dorena community.

At the meeting Saturday the address of Herbert Hoover to the women of America was read and discussed. Mention was made of the book, "The Strange Attack on President Hoover," by Arthur Train, which has been donated to the city library.

An article was read disclosing the facts about the president's Rapidan lodge. The article showed that the charge that federal funds were used in its construction were basely false, that the president, after constructing the lodge with private funds at an expense of $15,000, constructed a modern schoolhouse for the children of that section of the Blue Ridge mountains at an expense of $8,000 and maintains the school from his own funds. Formerly there was no school of any kind there.

C. G. HIGH OVERWHELMS SPRINGFIELD ELEVEN

The Cottage Grove high school football team defeated the Springfield high team in a one-sided game here Friday afternoon by a score of 27 to 0. The quarter ended with the ball in the middle of the field in Springfield's possession.

The second quarter opened by Cottage Grove blocking a kick and securing the ball. By consistent gains and well executed criss-cross playing Smith went over the goal for a touchdown and Ward converted and made the extra point. In the latter part of the second quarter Springfield completed several forward passes in a vain effort to score.

In the third quarter the Cottage Grove eleven received the ball and by long end runs by Mason and Smith they made two touchdowns and Ward converted both times, making two extra points. Mason made one more touchdown in the last quarter, but the team failed to convert, leaving the score 27 to 0. Virgil Horn, star backfield man, was able to play but a short while because of injuries suffered in a former game.

When she bent over to see what the trouble was her hair was swept into the vacuum, where it wound up on the rolls within a second or two and caused the sweeper to strike her a severe blow on the head. With some effort she got the sweeper turned off by pulling the plug from the wall. She phoned for her husband, but he was unable to remove the hair and an electrician was called. During June the total softwood lumber brought into the United States was 77,383,000 board feet, valued at $1,424,665. A tax of $4 per thousand was effective on softwood lumber imports beginning early in July, the $3 tax going into effect Juone 21 and being increased $1 per thousand feet after Canada imposed a 3 per cent excise tax on American lumber shipments.

The sudden and direct falling off of lumber imports during July is attributed by the West Coast Lumbermen's association to the $4 effective tax and tariff. The amount of import reduction—approximately 70,000,000 feet during a 30-day period—is about the equivalent of one week's sales on the part of 217 identical mills regularly reporting to the West Coast Lumbermen's association and equals 140,000 man days of labor in the American lumber industry. Seventy million board feet of lumber would keep 23,000 men employed one week in the Douglas fir region of Oregon and Washington.

However, the added employment in lumber due to reduction of imports does not come entirely to the Pacific northwest, but is scattered throughout the various lumber producing regions of the United States. The two states of Oregon and Washington normally sell approximately one-third of the soft-wood lumber requirements of the country, so it is probable the added employment due to the tariff during the month of July alone in these two states was approximately 7,600 men for one week.

Reductions were shown in the customs reports also for both lath and shingles in July when compared with June. Shipments of lath into the United States in June totaled 46,866,000 pieces valued at $124,794; in July 11,104,000, valued at $26,504. Shingles in June totaled 120,145,000, valued at $251,188, in July, the total was 77,015,000, valued at $150,928. These items are not dutiable, but as they are usually shipped in carloads of lumber it is presumed the shrinkage in both items reflect lower lumber sales from the same mills. Ninety per cent of all the lumber, lath and shingles imported came from Canada, during both months.

In spite of the reductions in imports and the gain as a consequence in American employment the revenues of the government from customs' duties did not suffer much when the two months are compared. The softwood lumber of dutiable kind imported during June totaled 37,962,000 feet and the effective duty up to June 21 was $1 per thousand board feet. This would result in a duty of $37,962. In July 7,626,000 feet was imported, all taxable. At $4 per thousand feet this lumber would pay excise taxes and duties of $30,504.
