State Capitol, Salem, Ore., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—For once some legislators have been well paid for attending a legislative session.

Members of the taxation and revenue committee say the report that a sales tax would be collected on members who sell out is without foundation.

As this is written the governor has not signed the appropriation bill for expenses of his special session. He probably feels that he didn't get his money's worth, but he is personally responsible for getting the boys here and the bill will have to be paid.

Many have asked whether the governor has refused his salary, as it was stated during his campaign that he would do. The same person asks whether, if he is drawing his salary, is he drawing it at the rate of $7,500, the salary fixed by the legislature or whether he is drawing the $1,500 provided by the constitution.

Many wish to know why no gubernatorial message has been delivered to the session, although the chief executive is required by law to inform the session as to the condition of the state.

STATE BUDGET SHOWS MUCH BESIDES FIGURES

Estimates Can Be Used to Bolster Political Position, Gain Favor.

By ELBERT BEDE. State Capitol, Salem, Ore., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—It is possible for a state budget to contain much besides figures as to proposed cost of state government.

It is possible for the administration to use the budget as a means to bolster its position with the public and to tear down the reputation of those who have come under the disfavor of the administration.

The governor and his budget director make up the budget after having received from each department a statement of necessary expenses for the ensuing biennium.

The chief executive and his budget director may easily cut beyond all reason the estimated expenses of a department. The legislature must approve the appropriation for that department back to where it reasonably belongs.

One important thing that a budget fails to show is inequality of wages paid in the different departments to employees of equal ability.

I have known of cases when a man doing the same work as another was paid $100 a month, as one drawing $150 and did not have responsibilities equal to those of the $150 employee.

One thing members are asking this session is why expenses seem to have increased in the executive office and budget director's office, while these two have been making the most noise about cutting expenses to the bone.

Jan. 10.—The Gerald Banton family returned Sunday from Eugene, where they had been visiting several days. They were accompanied by Mrs. Harold Graves and two children, Mrs. Will Ray.

Mrs. Myrtle Aulisworth left Sunday evening for Salem on business and also to visit the Walter Sanford family.

Levi Geer returned from Coburg Friday and has been on the sick list.

The Obsidians, a hiking club of Eugene, came up Sunday and gave an inspection trip through the Black Butte mines.

Miss Helen Kirsch returned to Elkton Saturday to resume teaching, after spending a part of her holiday vacation with a sister, Mrs. Earl Johnson.

Miss Vera Gilham gave a party New Year's eve at the Earl Johnson home. It was a taffy pull, honoring her sister, Gladys, on her twentieth birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Belle Geer returned home the first of the week after spending the holidays with a daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Powell.

Miss Katie Gilerist resumed her school duties at Latham Monday, after a two-week vacation.

BATTERY "E" PRAISED BY VISITING OFFICERS

Colonel Irwin Speaks Highly of Group at Unit's Anniversary Banquet.

Praise for the excellent showing made by battery "E" 249th coast artillery, as demonstrated by its achievement records at annual encampment as well as in regular drill was voiced by Lieutenant Colonel Clifton Irwin, commanding officer of the 249th, and Captain L. D. Farnsworth, instructor for the 249th, at the battery's annual dinner Tuesday night in the armory.

The dinner was in celebration of the eleventh anniversary of the establishment of the present national guard unit here on January 12, 1922. Covers were placed for 87. Regular drill preceded the dinner, the battery demonstrating the new infantry drill regulations under the direction of Sergeant Frank Jirak of Salem and Sergeant Foster of the battery.

A five-year faithful service medal was presented to Nelson Whippis and formal presentation of purple heart medals were made to Captain LaSells Stewart for military merit in France and to Sergeant John C. Miller, who was wounded in France.

Guests at the dinner were Lieutenant Colonel Irwin, Captain Farnsworth, Lieutenant Michael Melcher, headquarters unit, Lieutenant Charles L. Unruh, acting adjutant, Sergeant Jirak, all of Salem; Major and Mrs. Victor Chambers, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Hagen, Robert Fromm, Commander and Mrs. George Matthews, Superintendent and Mrs. D. A. Emerson, Principal and Mrs. F. L. Grannis, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. LaSells Stewart, Mrs. H. W. Lombard, Mrs. Orvil Hazen, Miss Opal Wagner and Duncan P. Cameron.

Lieutenant Lombard was toastmaster at the dinner. Duncan P. Cameron gave the invocation. During the dinner music was furnished by George McQueen, banjo, and Helen Ostrander, piano. The program included two numbers by a male quartet, Roy Patchen, Brighton on Leonard, John Newman and Herchel Baccus, with Mrs. Claude Sherman as pianist; numbers by the high school girls' sextet under the direction of Miss Myrtle Kem with Miss Sara-Louise Shields as pianist, and short talks by a number of the guests.

The banquet table was colorful in red and green. Candies and flags centered the table, with red and green foliage forming a background. The dinner was served by the American Legion auxiliary.

Not His Worry. Jud Tuckins says politics is the only game he knows that lets a man make the public pay when he guesses wrong.—Washington Star.

Garden Club

The Use of Flowers. God might have bade the earth bring forth Enough for great and small. The oak tree and the cedar tree. Without a flower at all. We might have had enough, enough For every want of ours. For luxury, medicine and toil. And yet have had no flowers.

Then wherefore, wherefore were they made, All dyed with rainbow light. All fashioned with supreme grace. Uprspringing day and night. Springing in valleys green and low. And on the mountains high. And in the silent wilderness Where no man passes by?

Our world no flower requires them not. Then wherefore had they birth?—To minister delight to man, To beautify the earth; To comfort man—to whisper hope. When'er his faith is dim. For: who so careth for the flowers Will care much more for him!—Mary Howitt.
