Clean Up Makes New River of Coast Fork

Work being done on the Coast fork through the city cleaning up rubbish and cutting out brush and trees is beginning to show up, although it has been in progress only two weeks. A crew of 10 has been employed during the past week. The number the week before was five. Looking south from the west Main street bridge, the river looks like a new body of water.

The men are being paid with R. F. C. funds and the work probably will be continued for several weeks. City Engineer Coiner is in charge. Workers have been handicapped by lack of tools and equipment. The city had very little equipment suitable for such work, but the use of some has been donated and some of the men have supplied themselves with tools.

Says Her Husband Lost 16 Pounds In 4 Weeks

"I have never found a medicine that 'peps' you up like Kruschen Salts and better still, leaves you 'pepped up'. I take it two or three times a week—not to reduce but merely to feel clean. My husband took it to reduce, he lost 16 pounds in 4 weeks." Mrs. E. A. Ferris, Washington, D. C. (December 29, 1932).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at Cottage Grove Pharmacy, but be sure and get Kruschen Salts the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar.

Radio Ray Has This to Say:

Speaking of our local flood-control work; a lady told us that she favored that work since she believed in immersion, but she wished to choose the time.

And this is a good time to choose some new radio tubes. Our prices are way down.

Our city engineer is to be highly congratulated on the immense improvement along our river banks. Prevention of floods and beautification of our town mean more home owners.

Electrically yours,
RADIO RAY.

Astronomer Had Much to Learn About Stars

Greenwich observatory began its career on August 10, 1875. Charles II decreed it; determined that British sailors should no longer rely, in their navigation, on out of date tables of the moon and fixed stars. John Flamsteed was appointed "astronomical observer" under the ordinance office; his task to devise new tables; his salary about $500 a year, out of which he had to provide his own instruments; and he undertook to give free instruction to two bluecoat boys.

His first observatory, while Duke Humphrey's tower in Greenwich park was being demolished and the new building erected, was set up in the Tower of London. From the northeastern turret of the White tower he "outwatched the bear," beginning the mighty catalogue of 3,000 stars which he modestly desired should be kept unpublished until he had finished it. Finished? Three thousand stars? And astronomers today say there are 3,000,000,000.—Kansas City Times.

Could Equip Army for Medieval Battle Fray

In Graz, seat of government of the Austrian province of Styria, there is a museum in which many a youngster would delight to linger on a rainy afternoon. Within the Landeszeughaus, or arsenal, there is preserved in perfect condition enough medieval armor to outfit completely an army of 14,000 men.

Spears, swords, helmets, chain mail, battleaxes, complete suits of armor—in fact all of the equipment a well-appointed knight could desire are kept ready to hand.

But, strange as it may seem, not a single suit of armor in the museum would fit a six-footer of today, nor could an average modern man wield with ease the cumbersome weapons of that bygone age.

Austrian mercenaries were some of this armor, and much of it saw service against the Turk when Graz was one of Europe's bulwarks against the oncoming horde of Moslem invaders.—Melville B. Grosvenor, in the National Geographic Magazine.

Stamps for Reparations

One of the most valuable stamp collections in the world was assembled by Count Philip von Ferrari, duke of Galliera. Of unlimited resources, he roamed the world for single specimens. In his Paris quarters hung a bag in which he placed $10,000 a week just for stamp purchases. Two secretaries spent all of their time looking after his collection. The stamps were kept singly in file cases instead of the usual albums. When the count died, an exile from France, at Lausanne in 1917 it was found that he had willed his collection, valued at millions of dollars, to the German postal museum at Berlin. French courts seized it as alien property and sold it at public auction. The sale of the 25,000 specimens extended over four years. The amount realized was $937,000 which the French promptly applied to German reparations.

Many Californians On Way Here

Oregon rains, which have been painted blacker than they really are, are preferable to earthquakes, according to a large number of persons who have arrived in this state following the recent California tremor. A letter from a resident of Long Beach to a relative in Lane county said that 40,000 persons left there within a few days following the quake. Oregon points are among the first visited by those seeking other locations and Lane county is being favorably considered by many.

A number from California had settled in the Cottage Grove territory even before the recent seismic disturbance.
