WHAT WOULD IT BE? "What kind of a country would this be if everybody in it were just like me?"

If everyone were like most of us in Cottage Grove, for example, we would have no railroads, no automobiles, no airplanes, no radios, no electric sweepers, no electric stoves, no gas stoves, no electric lights, none of many things which we have accepted as absolutely necessary to our comfort and happiness, because none of us is capable of inventing or promoting the manufacture of these things.

Deserving democrats are so numerous, and have been so persistent in making their wants known to Congressman Pierce, chief patronage dispenser for Oregon, that he has had the government printing office print him a form letter by which he acknowledges for various pie and recommendations for various candidates.

Well, maybe the cut in the disabled soldier compensation will pay for the 120,000 saddles the democrats bought for 22,000 horses during the world war.

The person who suggested this subject was the late F. E. Mendenhall. If everyone the world over were like him, we would all be trying to do something even when illness had us down, and the world would go ahead faster than it ever has yet.

The Corvallis G. T. and the McMinnville T. R. are objecting to the president using airplanes. He's going to have to use airplanes to contact some of his republican friends, and maybe that's the only way he can get a peek around that famous corner.

EUGENE AND CORVALLIS.

An innocent bystander can get a lot of amusement watching the way Eugene and Corvallis are cooperating to hold federal funds for the college. They cooperate like two bulldogs who have chased a mongrel away from a juicy bone.

When the federal funds, of which the university gets none, were threatened, the Corvallis chamber asked the Eugene chamber for aid and the Eugene chamber went right to bat and tried to put one beyond the infield.

But Captions Claudius wasn't satisfied merely to have Eugene's aid. He immediately and forthwith announced that unless the federal appropriations should be saved, the college would expect the university to make sacrifices in its budget that would permit the college to function as usual.

The Eugene Register-Guard promptly and with much alacrity announces that the university can not make further sacrifices and that, if funds are cut, it is the college that will have to do the trimming.

The university is in the county in which Oregon's best country weekly is published, so we are not an innocent bystander and can't get full enjoyment of the splendid example of cooperation being shown by the two cities which have our great institutions of higher learning.

Deserving democrats are so numerous, and have been so persistent in making their wants known to Congressman Pierce, chief patronage dispenser for Oregon, that he has had the government printing office print him a form letter by which he acknowledges for various pie and recommendations for various candidates.

Well, maybe the cut in the disabled soldier compensation will pay for the 120,000 saddles the democrats bought for 22,000 horses during the world war.

Roosevelt may be able to wear 'em out. The administration is inconsistent when it asks appropriations of $2,000 for the widows of congressmen who do not need the money while money is to be taken from many deserving veterans who are sorely in need of all they can get.

Maxim says the people of Mars are smarter than those on this earth. Wonder whether Maxim intended to compliment the Martians?

There will always be scandals to make us humble, and faults and wants crying aloud to make us diligent.

Fatal Enervation

Sybaris was an ancient Greek colony and city of lower Italy, in Lucania. Tradition ascribes its building to a colony of Achaean and Troezenians about 730 B. C. It rose to a high degree of prosperity, but, becoming enervated by the mildness of the climate, the richness of the soil and their great wealth, the inhabitants soon were noted for their luxury and voluptuousness. The city was destroyed by the Crotonians in 510 B. C.

Record Strong Wind The United States weather bureau says that the strongest wind ever measured in the United States was registered on the summit of Mount Washington, N. H., January 11, 1878, and was nominally 183 miles an hour, but certain necessary corrections reduce this figure to about 140 miles an hour. Far stronger winds than this do occur in tornadoes, but they have never been officially measured.

Reflection of Rays The bureau of standards says that heat rays can be reflected with a mirror the same as light rays. The loss depends upon the reflecting surface. All polished metals reflect from 90 to 95 per cent of the infra-red (heat) rays. The reflection of visible light varies over a wide range, but may be from 90 to 98 per cent for highly polished silver.

Early Water Voyagers The men who learned to sail a raft or catamaran were also carpenters. They began to shape their bows like the Chinaman of Madras, and built bulwarks on the sides. They shaped their logs into planks and built the plank canoes of the alpine of Yera, the masula of Madras, the sampun of China, and so the Chinese junk.

Odd Mexican Tree One of the most curious trees grows in Mexico. At the tip of each of its dark green leaves there is a slender thorn in a sort of case. If this is carefully pulled out it brings with it, fastened to one end, a length of strong, smooth fiber. A needle and thread, all ready for use, and supplied by nature without charge.

Reality Reality is the basic thing in all centuries and climes. An old saying runs to the effect that "nothing odd stays." This is a fact if we survey time in its longer runs. Fashionable teachings and crazy fads do stay for a term of years, but reality at last reveals their worthlessness.

Modern Politics As a result of long experience in public affairs, John Morley, the British statesman, once wrote: "In politics the choice is constantly between two evils and action is one long second best."

Diamond Cutting At the Kimberley mines the average loss in cutting a diamond is from one-half to three-fifths of the weight of the stone. The loss depends on the nature of the stone and the style of the cut.

Hawaiian Leper Island There is a large leper colony located on the island of Molokai of the Hawaiian group. This colony is only for Hawaiians, but is managed by the United States government.

World's Finest Rugs Oriental rugs are made from the hair of the goat or certain species of sheep, and the best are colored by the native vegetable dyes, which are practically imperishable.

Oh, You Cherub! Jud Tunkins says what makes him admire a mother's love and marvel at it is a photograph of himself taken at the age of eleven or twelve.—Washington Star.

True, but Scarce The true philosopher is one who loses no sleep over conditions that wouldn't affect him if he hadn't read about them.—Los Angeles Times.

Society Older Than State The Minnesota Historical society, which celebrated its eighty-third birthday, is nearly nine years older than the state whose lore it preserves.

Extreme Low Temperature The bureau of standards says that the lowest temperature produced so far is about 8-10 degrees centigrade above absolute zero.

Vermont's Honor Vermont, admitted to the Union in 1791, was the first following the 13 original states.

Valuable Invention Doctor Plimpton, inventor of the roller skate, made $1,000,000 from his invention.

Tree Expert The term, tree surgeon, is applied to a man who treats trees scientifically.

Otter's Amusement Otters build slides on high inclined snow and ice-covered or slippery mud banks at the water's edge, and have a grand time sliding down them into the water and then running up again to repeat the performance. They make the downward trip lying flat with their legs spread apart.

A Super Salesman Is At Your Service

No matter what your line of business is, the best salesman you can obtain in the Cottage Grove community is the Cottage Grove Sentinel. And this salesman is constantly at your service! The Sentinel does not have to knock at the door; it has been a familiar figure for 40 years, and enters the home as a welcome guest. Neither does it have to proceed slowly from door to door; it enters most of the homes in the Cottage Grove trading area, at practically the same time, and conveys its message to every member of the family. It doesn't antagonize your prospects, or talk a sale to death. Its salary is known to you in advance; it doesn't charge you a commission, or turn in an expense account. It isn't loafing when it should be attending to business. You can count on its getting there every Friday morning. Best of all, you can hire it when you want it, and just as long as you want it, without any arguments or apologies. Decide now to avail yourself of this super salesman of the community! Follow the lead of many local and national advertisers who recognize its value and employ it regularly. Let it help you plan your campaign and place its resources at your service!
