Another "Garden of Eden"

No less a person than Gen. Charles G. ("Chinese") Gordon, a man of deep religious faith, firmly believed the Seychelle islands, along the eastern coast of Africa, to be the site of the Garden of Eden. The coco de mer, or double coconut palm, which produces the largest and heaviest fruit in the world, he believed to be the tree of knowledge of good and evil. These trees flourish luxuriantly in the islands.

Micrometer With a Dial

An improvement in the design of the micrometer has a dial attachment about the size of a watch by which fine measurements may be read at a glance. ### Two "Wall Streets"

Wall street is a municipal thoroughfare in New York city on the lower end of Manhattan island, but the term "Wall Street" has been applied to the financial district of New York city in which the street itself is the center of activity. In this district are located many of the financial institutions in the city and also the New York Stock exchange.

Envy

Envy shoots at others, and wounds herself. Envy and covetousness are never satisfied. The greatest mischief you can do the envious, is to do well. An envious man waxes lean with the fatness of his neighbor. Envy never yet enriched any man. Envy is the worst disease. Envy never has a holiday. The envious die but envy never.

Tongs Not Imported

Garden Club

Who Makes a Garden
Whoever makes a garden Has never worked alone: The rain has always found it, The sun has always known, The wind has blown across it And helped to scatter seeds— Whoever makes a garden Has all the help he needs.

Whoever makes a garden
Should surely not complain: With someone like the sunshine, And someone like the rain, And some one like the breezes To aid him in his toil, And some one like the Father, Who gave the garden soil.

Whoever makes a garden
Has, oh, so many friends:— The glory of the morning, The dew when daylight ends, The wind and rain, and sunshine, And dew, and fertile sod, And he who makes a garden Works hand-in-hand with God. —Douglas Malloch.

Possible to Retrieve Letter From the Mail

If, in a moment of artificial bravado or pensive dream, you should mail a letter which, come morning, you are sorry you mailed, there is a regulation way of getting it back. I am told that an average of two letters a day are thus recalled in Manhattan and the Bronx, says a writer in the New York Morning Telegraph.

By the Monroe doctrine, or something like that, one's letter belongs to one until the sender gets it in his hands. That's a post office rule.

Here, then, is what you do. Re-address a second envelope, a duplicate of the first, and rush to room 224 at the central post office. This is the office of the assistant postmaster. Give the man your facsimile envelope and ask for form 1500. Fill it in. It asks nothing more personal than your name, we understand.

The post office promptly gets in touch with the substitution of the district to which your letter has been sent and with the carrier who naturally would deliver it.

You then go home and wait for notification that the letter has been recalled, whereupon you go down and claim it. Letters to distant points are wired or even cabled for, and the sender must pay for this, but for letters within the city there is no charge. I thought you'd like to know.

Mosque of Omar

Visitors to Jerusalem never fail to make the Dome of the Rock or the mosque of Omar one of the first things to see. It is sometimes considered to be the finest building in Asia, if not in the world. It is octagonal in form, each side being 66½ feet wide and composed of richly colored marble and tile, with a dome of beautiful proportions.

In part it is the work of the Moslems before the Crusaders, but the Crusaders enlarged it, and Suleiman the Magnificent completed it in 1561. When you have seen its interior, says a confirmed globe-trotter, the mosaics, the rich rugs given by a past sultan, the sixteenth-century stained-glass windows and all the architectural effects and groupings, you realize why it is so praised. It is the chief landmark of the city.

Confidence In Financial Institutions Necessary For Return To Normalcy.

One of the first requisites for a return to normal conditions is confidence in our financial institutions, a confidence which we may well have as a result of actions of the national administrations, whose recent drastic bank holiday resulted in only banks proved to be in sound condition being permitted to operate a normal banking business.

While banks who made the necessary showing are operating as usual, while their deposits have increased materially as the result of restored confidence in our banking institutions and because of confidence in the national administration, they can not operate normally, can not be the aid to business and industry that they should be until the money of their communities is deposited in such a manner as to show that confidence has returned and in such a manner as to permit it to circulate freely and to be used in aiding safe business and industrial development.

As a civic organization we join in the appeal to bring back prosperity by putting our circulating mediums in such condition that they can circulate and aid in revivifying business and industry, thereby recreating payrolls that will give us greater funds with which to work.

WHEN OUR MOTHERS WERE BRIDES

● "Man's work was from sun to sun; but woman's work was never done." Electricity has changed all that. Today in the "ALL ELECTRIC" home, electricity cooks, heats the water, operates a refrigerator, washer, iron, vacuum cleaner, radio, sun lamp, percolator, toaster, waffle iron, food mixer and lights the house at an average cost per day equal to the hourly wage of a good servant.

● Electricity is as clean as sunshine and by far the cheapest service you can buy. The wise woman of today conserves her health, beauty and time with the clean, cool convenience of electricity.
