CURB OFFICIAL FAMILY WRITERS.

We out in the west have taken exception to public writings by members of families of those prominent in Washington life, especially writers of presidents, cabinet officers, senators, etc. We have taken particular exception to writings of those associated in an official capacity with those prominent in public life, the writings being thereby given a semi-official character. Our exceptions have been, of course, only to discussion of our political affairs.
 We have wondered whether our exception to this method of earning a few extra dollars has been only our western way of looking at things, but now comes no less a person than our own John W. Kelly of the Oregonian than whom there is no newspaper representative in Washington who gets closer to the pulse of things and what is going on in both public and private political life at the national capital, and he voices the same sentiment as the opinion of senators and others who are a part of political life in Washington.
 Thank goodness that life in Washington does not do away with all sense of the proprieties, as we had begun to think it had.

AROUND THE CORNER.

We republicans may dislike to admit it, we certainly didn't expect it, but it certainly looks like the democrats had kicked prosperity around the corner and have it on the run down the main drag.
 So far as Cottage Grove is concerned the turn has come so quick that we didn't realize anything was going to happen until it had happened. With little advance notice mills began to announce that they were to resume. Almost overnight the relief council announced that employment was so much on the upgrade that hours for serving the needy would be almost eliminated.
 The W. A. Woodard Lumber company has resumed, J. H. Chambers & Son will be in operation shortly, the Scott mill at Culp Creek is to start next week, pay checks will be coming in on the tenth and twenty-fifth of every month as before, and it will seem like old times again.
 The present upturn in the lumber market, with prices steadily becoming firmer, may be largely due to the fact that retailers over the country realize that prices are going up and it is now time to get under cover, but by their anxiety they are boosting prices still higher, and prices may be expected to reach the point shortly when they will be attractive to those who have heretofore hesitated to manufacture and sell at prices that were below cost of production.

 Even if the present spurt may not indicate use of lumber in proportion to purchases, rising farm prices mean that farmers are going to be in a position to make repairs that they have postponed for years. With wheat already reaching 80 cents and other grains following that lead, prosperity seems to be ahead for the farmer, and when he is in a position to buy the lumber he needs others will also be prosperous and also able to buy.
 There are other things to make Cottage Grove feel hopeful. Real mining activity is in prospect. We seem to be certain for the first time in many years of real honest to goodness operations in old Bohemia.
 We have just secured a pencil silt factory, a clay deposit at London is to be developed, settlers are arriving almost every week from various states. Everything points to bigger and better things immediately for our little city.

Do you like our band? If so, tell the members so. A word of appreciation may mean much in encouraging them to continue a musical organization that is bringing fame to our little city. Let the band know that you wish their outdoor and indoor concerts continued. Let them know that you know what they are doing to put Cottage Grove on the map. Let them know that you know what they are doing to make Cottage Grove a better city in which to live.

The wonder is how there is always such a large crop of grass widows when so few of them ever go to seed.

Each of us has something to be thankful for if we but stop to think of it.

Spray for Codling Moth.

Spraying for the first brood of codling moth on apple trees should be done in the next few days, according to C. E. Stewart, county horticultural inspector. In the foothills the spraying can be done later than in the valley he says.
 The solution should be two and a half gallons of lime and sulphur to 30 gallons of water and four pounds of lead arsenate. For pears the lime and sulphur should not be so strong, a gallon and a half being sufficient.
 The inspector cautions growers about spraying when the temperature is above 80 degrees. There should be less sulphur when it is that hot.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.
 But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.
 Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.
 The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.
 But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.
 Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.
 Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.
 There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.
 Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.
 Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.
 It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.
