LAND GRANT COUNTIES FIGHTING FOR MONEY

O. & C. land grant counties are conducting an aggressive fight for maintenance of funds which the federal government has been paying for years in lieu of taxes on O. & C. lands taken back from the Southern Pacific railway. Lane county's share of this year's appropriation has been $60,000, none of which has been received. Present indications are that this amount will be materially cut and that nothing may come next year.

The present plan of the organization of judges and commissioners of the land grant counties is, if the Oregon delegation remains at Washington for the next session, to adjournment of congress, to send Guy Cordon, district attorney of Douglas county, and Victor P. Moses, county judge of Benton county, to represent the O. & C. members of the congressional delegation return home soon after adjournment, the subject will be presented to them here. Mr. Cordon has prepared a brief for the counties.

Lumber Shipments Show Gain.
Portland, Ore., June 21.—A greater amount of lumber was shipped from Columbia river ports during the month of May than in any other one month since October, 1931, figures released by the Merchants Exchange here today disclose.

Lumber loadings along the river totaled 88,944,000 board feet this last May, compared with 79,481,000 feet in April. Lumber shipments to China, which were in coastwise trade, which was double that of April. The movement included a log raft containing 6,000,000 feet. The next largest shipment was to Japan, which amounted to 5,800,000 feet more than during April. Shipments to Japan gained slightly and to the Atlantic coast and Gulf coast dropped slightly.

Total shipments from this district for the first five months of this year amounted to 356,797,000 feet, compared with 299,285,000 feet in the corresponding period last year.

4-L OF WEST STATES TO LACK WAGE SCALE

President of Organization Declares Recovery Act Is Splendid Legislation.

Portland, Ore., June 21.—For the purpose of agreeing on minimum wage scales and regulations for the logging and lumber manufacturing industry of Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho and Montana, the board of directors of the Loyal League of Loggers and Lumbermen will meet here tomorrow for a special three-day conference.

The action to be taken will be in line with the provisions of the industrial recovery act. Preliminary district wage meetings have been held in Aberdeen, Wash., Everett, Seattle, Raymond, Longview, Spokane, Bend, Klamath Falls and Portland. Delegates and representatives of employees have been meeting to agree on minimum wage scales for logging, lumber manufacturing and remanufacturing, box factories, sash and door plants, shingle mills and plywood operations.

The national industrial recovery act was described by W. C. Feunig, president of the 4-L, as the greatest achievement of the Roosevelt administration. He returned yesterday from Washington, D. C., where he spent two weeks conferring with administrative leaders and assisting in drafting the measure for enactment into law. "In the main," he said, "the bill designed to solve the major problem of economic depression by providing work for employees, reasonable profits for business, and prevent gouging of the public. The main key to the whole solution is mandatory cooperation."

POISON EARWIGS NOW SAYS AGENT FLETCHER

War can be made now on earwigs without danger to the parasites that were off the market last year. According to County Agent Fletcher the usual poison for the pest should be used at this time and is as follows:

Bran, 12 pounds; sodium fluosilicate, one pound; fish oil, 1 quart.

In preparing the bait, mix the dry bran and sodium fluosilicate thoroughly, add the fish oil and mix again. No water should be used in the preparation which is said to have a strong attraction for the earwig on account of the fish oil.

After eating the meal, the earwig takes himself off in unknown parts from whence he fails to return.

Now is the proper time to set out this bait for the garden pests, Fletcher declared, as they are now getting in on the next two or three weeks without danger of killing off any of the parasites since they are not yet on the earwigs.

The poisoned bran should be scattered about the garden, around the walls and curbs, and around trees, bushes and other objects where the earwig is likely to be hiding.

Lawns should not be sprinkled for two or three days after spreading the poison in order to prevent washing out the bran and losing the value of the bait. Neighboring lawns where earwigs are prevalent are urged to cooperate in poisoning the ground for them. If one lot is poisoned and the next is not, the healthy earwigs from one lot will cross to the next and the work will have been in vain.

PROHIBITION VEHICLE IS TO BE GIVEN HERE

"The Aftermath" described as a fast moving, colorful, epochal, two-character economical, religious temperance drama-debate, is to be given in the Christian church Saturday evening as a part of the campaign against repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The two who give the debate-drama are Henry B. Hall, described as a young forceful speaker now in his thirties, and Judge M. C. Summers, former public prosecutor and founder of the court of general sessions in St. Louis.

Back in 1914-1918, when the liquor question was a big issue and the prohibition amendment was adopted, Hall and Summers were students of economics, lecturers and actors. They wrote a two-character play, "Wets vs. Dry," which was given over the nation and in Canada. In 1923-1927 these two men entered the war against the narcotic evil and created another vehicle, "The Judge and the Dope Peddler." Creation of "The Aftermath" resulted from the urging of friends of prohibition that they reenter the fight against the liquor evil.

Both men are said to be actors par excellence and their production calls for both argumentative and histrionic ability that few actors possess. In the character of Judge Hall is said to be cool, calculating and of a rapid fire personality representing modern youth, while Judge Summers, as Tom O'Neil, old in experience, is buoyant, good natured, tolerant one moment, then sarcastic, scathing and overwhelmingly dramatic the next.

R. F. C. Funds Will Be Exhausted by July 1

Relief work with R. F. C. funds will be discontinued June 30, it has been announced by the county court. The last allotment of federal government will be exhausted by that date, it is believed. Projects in this section that have been carried on with these funds include the beautification work that has made the Coast fork through the city look like a new river, work on the Cougar bend road out from Black Butte and work on the lower end of the Sharna creek road.

Since February 1 the county has received $75,000 of R. F. C. money, which has been spent at the rate of $3,600 a week. Wages paid have been $150 a day.

Gasoline Is Up Again.
Gasoline prices took a half cent jump this week, bringing them to almost double what they were six months ago. Standard grade now sells at 23 cents, ethyl at 26 cents and third structure at 20 cents. A portion of the advances is due to state and federal added taxes.
