The first of the band's summer open air concerts will be given next Thursday evening at the bandstand back of Woodson's garage. With an organization of at least 26 members and with intensive training under the direction of Charles Cochran for three years, the band is well prepared for these concerts. For this opening evening Mr. Cochran promises a program that will be full of life and will consist of some of the latest musical compositions now being played by bands throughout the country. He says, "It is my hope that these concerts will help to develop musical interest as well as provide entertainment for the people of Cottage Grove."

The following numbers, subject to a change or two, will be on the program: "Youth and Progress" (march), K. L. King; "The Admiral" (overture), Edward Russell; "Mystic Night" (waltz), K. L. King; "The Kansas Bandman" (march), K. L. King; "Operatic Mingle" (overture), W. Berry; "The Beloved Southern Melodies," Al Hayes; "The Drummer's Delight" (a snappy, flashy drum novelty), Mr. Cochran; "The Blue Bird" (serenade), Charles L. Johnson; "Valiant Youth" (march), K. L. King.

Chance for Profit in the Raising of Colts

Everything is in favor of farmers making money raising colts on cheap feed during the next few years, in the opinion of E. T. Robbins, live stock extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

The number of horses is getting smaller, prices of horses are going up, and there is no chance of increasing the number in a hurry, he explained.

There are only about 90,000 colts under one year of age in the state. If conditions in Shelby county can be taken as typical, and Robbins says they can, in that county there were only four colts under a year of age in 100 horses that were entered in the college's project to control horse parasites.

Twice as many colts may be raised in order to check the steady decline in number of horses, which has been progressing for more than a dozen years, Robbins said. At the present time there are only 742,000 horses on farms of the state, or 57 per cent as many as 12 years ago, he reported.

Many Farmers Lose Land

There are about 6,300,000 farms in the United States. Of this number 2,520,000 carry mortgages. The "casualties" among farmers are high, especially in the last few years. It is estimated that 230,000 farm owners become renters yearly, and today one of every six farmers has been demoted to the rank of renter. The average farm measures 100 acres, and the average mortgage on a farm is about $7 an acre. With an increase in the price of farm produce the gap between ownership and tenantry will be bridged for many farmers.

Fighting Hop Disease

Oregon hop growers, who have found their crops attacked for the last three years by the devastating plant disease, downy mildew, expect that the disease will be brought under control by the work of plant breeders who are developing varieties resistant to the disease, and by control methods such as spraying and dusting, now being worked out. The work against the disease is being done jointly by the United States department of Agriculture and the Oregon State Agricultural college.

Buyer Wants Printer To Make Profit

(Lee's Summit (Mo.) Journal.)

"A buyer asked a printer for a quotation on some printing, and the printer quoted $52," ran an item in a weekly letter sent out by W. A. Macks, manager of the Typothetae of Philadelphia, Inc.

"The buyer asked: 'Can you make a profit at that figure?' The printer answered: 'No, I can't make my actual cost at that figure.' The buyer said: 'Well, make the price $61.50.' The writer almost fainted. This was something new.

"The buyer continued: 'I am firmly convinced that business will never be what it should be until every legitimate firm is making a profit on its sales. I have made up my mind that I will do no more chiseling. If the other fellow makes a profit in his business he can afford to buy more goods from me—and pay for them. From now on I expect those from whom I buy to make a profit. That is my way of helping bring about prosperity.'

"This experience actually happened to one of the members of the Typothetae of Philadelphia, Inc. The only thing that has been changed in the figures, but the difference in the prices quoted above is exactly the same percentage of difference as in the original figures. Is this man sane? Is he thinking right? You can buy and sell at lower than cost prices, but then even the buyer can only hope for a temporary gain. Eventually his sales will come back to him, because somehow 'chickens will come home to roost'."

Denotes Correctness

The expression "put two and two together" means that the correctness of a conclusion is based upon the joining together of the known elements that constitute the reason for reaching the conclusion, just as certainly as the arithmetical addition of two and two makes the sum of four.

Great Singer Stricken
Enrico Caruso, famous opera singer, was stricken in the opera "Pagliacci," playing the role of Canio (Punchinello), when, just as the opera began he noticed the welling of blood in his throat. He tried to go on, mopping the blood from time to time, but finally had to leave the stage. He had burst a blood vessel in the back of the throat, and he never recovered, although he did not die for some time afterward.
