Eugene Farmers' Creamery—Home of Blue Bell Dairy Products

The Eugene Farmers Creamery is located in Eugene at 568 Olive St., under the direction of Mr. Harnden, which was established in 1914 and is the home of Blue Bell Dairy Products. They always pay the top market prices for cream. Phone 638.

Perhaps no part of agriculture has made such forward strides in the past few years as dairying. When we speak of dairying today, we must first consider the fact that it is one of the greatest assets to any community—it is one of our government's greatest sources of income—it is national in its scope, and is practically the only division of our agricultural enterprises which affords the producer—the man who milks the cows—a year round income.

Years ago a farmer who milked cows was looked upon with disdain by his neighbors, and although these neighbors did not say so, they had a thought that their "cow-milking neighbor" was not as intelligent as they thought he should be. What has brought this change of condition? you may ask. There are several very prominent reasons, but we believe the chief of these is that the markets. No longer has the producer to make his product into butter, take it to town and endeavor to sell it. No indeed! He has several ways of disposing of his products in their raw state, to which little or no labor is attached. Now he can market his product as milk, or as sweet cream or, if he prefers, he can sell it as sour cream.

In their community there has perhaps been no greater factor in increasing the wealth and prosperity of our people than the Eugene Farmers Creamery. This firm started business a number of years ago, but through their initiative and good business judgment, they have developed until today they have a business which is second to none as far as efficiency is concerned. This concern has always endeavored to buy the cream of the producers of its locality. They have given the producer a market for his product every 365 days in the year, and today they stand as leaders in everything where the interest of the milk or cream producer is concerned.

While they have done these things from a producing standpoint they have also had to develop outlets for their finished products—and so well has this been accomplished that it is practically impossible to go into any town of any importance within many miles of Eugene and not find Blue Bell products.

Both the securing of the raw material and the marketing of the finished product cannot, of course, be accomplished unless there is efficiency in the manufacturing of these products and the Eugene Farmers Creamery is one of the most efficient, sanitary and modern manufacturing plants in Oregon, where visitors are always sure of a hearty welcome.

Consumers of butter, as well as producer of milk and cream in this community, can well afford to patronize this firm, which has been an asset to the dairy industry in general and to its community in particular for the past few years because they are reliable; they are here to stay; and they have been "weighed in the balance" and found worthy of the trust anyone may feel disposed to place in them. Let us not forget that a great deal of the goodness is the result of the quality of raw material which is produced in this county.
