ought to be hitting a lively gait before the end of the week.

It is likely that the records will show that the special session adjourned at the end of the twentieth day, but that is likely to be a day or so later anywhere except in the state house, where clocks are likely to be stopped and time made to stand still for 24 hours or more.

Bus and truck legislation has drawn large delegations. The house was jammed for two hearings on successive afternoons. A. C. Anderson, formerly of Cottage Grove, now of Salem, is one of the leaders for the truck men.

It is likely that before the end of the session we shall know who will be candidates for governor.

Liquor legislation is drawing numerous lobbyists and delegations. Various interests can not agree. Some restaurants and hotels wish the privilege of selling hard liquors, while others do not. Some wish to open up as to discredit liquor as quickly as possible. Others profess to believe that liquor can be distributed through private retail establishments without return of the saloon. A majority of members right now are for strict control of sales by the state, with no hard liquor to be drunk where sold.

The other day the senate and the governor arrived in the house for a joint session while the house was in recess. Sergeant Joe Singer, because he didn't have the opportunity to announce the arrival of the president of the senate and the governor took their usual seats on the rostrum and shortly the speaker arrived to call his house to order. This probably is the first time in the history of the legislature.

Last summer I wrote about woodpiles that marred the appearance of the highway through Salem and Albany. The woodpiles have disappeared and the appearance of the two cities has been greatly improved.

Water power is a big issue, but beer, wine and other liquors are likely to play a prominent part.

Someone played a joke on Representative Earj Hill the other day. "Yamhill" appeared in the slot in his desk where "Lane" formerly had been. Hill decided he wasn't that kind of a hill and had the sergeant at arms change the sign.

The biggest event of the session so far was the Cherrian ball given in honor of the legislature. Salem takes its society seriously. Billed shirts predominated for the men, and vice versa for the women.

Scholarship Certificates Received.
Four-H club scholarship certificates awarded for having won first prize at the state fair, have been received from Max Gehlar, state director of agriculture, for the Lane county club members: Jack Neely, Donald Michael, Nonda Pirtle, Ira Calef, Ralph Gibson, Helen Michael, Eugene; Alvin Skovbo, Carson G. Adams, Bertha Gray, Folmer Bodtker, Cleo Peterson, Junction City; Myra Laird, Creswell, and Elizabeth Holcomb, Trent.

NRA SANCTIONS USE COUPONS, PREMIUMS

Cost Must Be Added to Merchandise and Properly Advertised.

Portland, Nov. 27.—(NRA Special.)—Interpretations vitally affecting retail merchants operating under the retail code were received today from Washington by Frank Messenger, Oregon-Idaho NRA compliance director.

The rulings held that coupons and premiums may be offered in connection with sales promotion plans, if the cost of the premium is added to the merchandise sold, and the premiums are properly advertised. There is no restriction in the retail code against premiums and coupons as such, but they must be offered in accordance with retail code regulations governing their utilization.

Chain stores with three or more branches in towns of less than 2500 population must conform to the wage and hour provisions of the retail code, unless the number of employees in all three stores is less than five. Single-unit stores in towns under 2500 are not required to observe the wage and hour provisions of the code.

Towns of less than 2500 population are governed by provisions of the retail code if they border on or are in the trade area of larger towns. However, wage provisions for towns under 2500 still apply, even if the smaller town is in the trade area of a larger community, but all the fair practice provisions of the code must be observed by merchants in the smaller town.

Retail feed stores, selling livestock fodder and feed preparations, do not come under the provisions of the retail code, it was held. Any store which deals in food, whether for human or animal consumption, is not bound by the retail code, unless the store comes under the provisions of a code to be approved later, and now should be operating under the provisions of the President's re-employment agreement.

Wells, Lemley Have Edge in Handicap Tournament

H. C. Wells and E. R. Lemley have the edge on their opponents, Chester Anlauf and Victor Chambers, in the Cottage Grove Golf and Handicap Tournament now drawing to a close.

Victory last week placed the four in the quarter-finals, and with a summer sun shining down upon them and with the golf in excellent condition they battled through the first half of their 36-hole matches Sunday.

Wells, 12, has Anlauf, 14, four down, and Lemley, 14, has Chambers, 14, three down for the 18 holes. A considerable gallery followed the play. With good weather anticipated the quarter finalists expect to resume the battle today (Thursday).

BAND IS TO PRESENT CONCERT DECEMBER 7

The opening winter concert of the Cottage Grove band will be given Thursday evening, December 7, in the armory and promises to be an event of unusual interest.

Under the baton of John Stehn will known musical director of the University of Oregon band, the members of the local band have put in some real hard training in preparation for the concert. If the enthusiasm of the members is any criterion, this concert will be one of the best ever held. The program will include the following numbers: "King Cotton March," Sousa; "Light Cavalry Overture," Suppe; "Rainbow Girl—Selection," Hirsch; "The Butterfly," Bendix; xylophone solo: "Creme de la Creme," Tobani; "Battleship New York," march, Fulton. No admission will be charged.

Under the Big Dome

State House, Salem.—Whoever it is that looks after the weather must approve of the special session, for which summer weather has prevailed. A number of those on the payroll have been enjoying golf after the close of sessions. Members have not been able to indulge, due to the fact that committee work keeps them busy during most of their spare time.

Fog has prevailed during a large part of the session. The special session was called for the purpose of clearing away fog, but no resolutions on the subject have been adopted as yet.

Representative Shy Huntington of Lane appeared rather sleepy when he reported for opening roll call Thursday. He and Mrs. Huntington had spent the larger part of the night driving home through a fog from Oakridge, where they had been called the preceding afternoon by the serious illness of Mr. and Mrs. Jap Hill, parents of Mrs. Huntington.

One suggestion for solving the problems of higher education is to unscramble the consolidation program and make Dr. Kerr president of the University of Oregon. That ought to settle everything.

An odd thing was noticeable when the session opened. Jackson county was completely without representation in the house. Former Representative Kelly has a job at Washington and Former Representative Day is county judge of his home county. Representatives Brockway and Taylor now fill the Jackson county section.

Legislative members seem to favor infant industries. Several report additions to their families since the regular session.

The state now has free power for nothing. The legislature is the power and the members work for nothing, in fact, pay for the privilege, which beats the platform on which Governor Meier was elected.

The several big programs are moving slowly. That is necessary. Important legislation can't be enacted in a few days, besides many from over the state wish to be heard before committee. But things

CHURCHES TO TAKE RELIGIOUS CENSUS

Churches of the city are planning a religious census of the city and surrounding communities soon. Plans are being made for the work to be done in Cottage Grove and in as many outlying districts as possible on Tuesday afternoon, December 5, when workers from the churches will call at every home in the community and secure what will be of use to the churches in the common effort to carry forward Christian work in this community. This is a cooperative effort undertaken in the spirit of Christian brotherhood to aid all churches in their work. The churches will appreciate the hearty cooperation of the people in the community.

A preliminary meeting of workers for discussion and instruction will be held at the Methodist church Monday evening, December 4, at 8 o'clock. All who are to help in the canvass should be present.

After canvass is complete each worker is to return cards to the Methodist church, where workers from various churches will assemble, tabulate and prepare for distribution to the proper churches. The cooperating churches are Methodist, Episcopal, Christian, Presbyterian, Baptist, Nazarene

Dorena Basketeers Win Close Games at Lorane

Dorena, Ore., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—The high school girls' and boys' basketball teams defeated Lorane Friday evening on the latter's floor. The girls' score was 34-37 and the boys' was 24-23. These close scores along with some good individual and team work make the games very interesting.

The Dorena lineups follows: Girls—Centers, Juanita Bales and Edna Steele; guards, Carol Wicks and Pauline Grayson; forwards, Faye England and Lita Mosby; subs: Mary Doolittle and Alda Bales. Boys: Center, Eldon Steele; guards, Wayne and William Vaughn; guards, John Collins and Earl Cooper; subs, Glenn Jennings and Robert Vaughn. The teams are looking forward to a successful season with the first success game December 8 with Vida at Thurston.

Mrs. McCarthy Dies in Portland.
Thomas McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George of this city, died Thursday at her home in Portland following an illness of six weeks climaxed by an attack of pneumonia. She was 31 years of age and had resided in Portland about ten years. She is survived by the husband, one daughter, Mrs. Beulah Schick of San Diego, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schaffer, another daughter, Mrs. William George, a sister, Mrs. John Schaffer, all of Cottage Grove. Funeral services were in Portland Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.
