Under the Big Dome. State House, Salem.—Thanksgiving was last week, but the people of the state probably will feel that they have more to be thankful for this week.

Regardless of what is done, there is going to be much complaint, and very little of a complimentary tone. It is ever thus, but I have noted that those who complain the most are the least able to explain how they would have done better.

By the time this is printed it probably will be certain that the special session will adjourn some time Saturday night. Much proposed legislation has been appraised in committee.

The special session business committee of the house, which passes on all legislation before it is permitted to be introduced, is sometimes referred to as the steering committee. Presumably it will keep the bulls out of the bills.

When members arrived here Friday after the Thanksgiving holiday they found the state house in darkness, and it was almost time for the sessions to open before power lines had been repaired. It was suggested that the legislature works better in the dark anyway.

Governor Rolph of California has been severely criticized by members for his announcement that he would pardon any who might be convicted for the lynching of the cruel murderers of the Hart lad. While members had no sympathy for the murderers, they sensed that openly condoning acts such as this might lead to other similar performances which might not be justifiable, in which innocent persons might be hanged, as nearly happened in the California lynching. Oregon legislators want no lynch law government.

A suggestion that legislators attend to their knitting was made by Mrs. Corbett, wife of Senator Corbett, and Mrs. Ralph Watson, wife of head of the Journal's legislative bureau, who sat through the debate in the house on the liquor bill, each knitting industriously during the entire debate. There was another knitter whose name was not known to me, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter joined the knitting bee before the debate ended.

Mrs. Watson is gaining quite a reputation for her knitting. She chanced to be in the elevator the other day when it stopped between two floors for lack of power and Watson had her knitting with her, sat down on the floor of the cage and went ahead with her work. Incidentally, Governor Meier was a passenger when the elevator stopped on the fifth floor for a quarter of an hour on another occasion.

So far the debate on liquor has been rather sober, although the idea of many seems to be to let down the bars to permit bars. Many profess to believe that when the people repealed prohibition they wished to give hard liquor to all who want it whenever they want it, without restriction. I agree with those who oppose that view. Repeal of prohibition was a protest against prohibition, not under the belief that there would be decent regulation of liquor. It is going to be difficult to keep away from saloon conditions, but the wets would better watch their step or we shall have another swing to what we were pleased to call prohibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wolfard and son of Eugene spent the week end at the Lee Nixon home. Theodore Joll and family of LaTonia spent Thanksgiving at the home of a brother, J. A. Joll.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keene and son Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Benston and children of Saginaw and Mr. and Mrs. Will Foyd were Thanksgiving day guests at the W. A. Keene home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keelbeck and son of Eugene spent the week end at the Lee Nixon home. Miss Beatty's Thanksgiving program, given last Tuesday evening at the hall, was well attended and very good.

The Ladies' club will hold an all-day session tomorrow to quilt. Mrs. Minnie Chesbro and son and Lester, Dunsmuir, Cal., spent the week end with Mrs. Chesbro and family. Mrs. Jessie Glerist and family are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Overton and children were Thanksgiving guests at the home of Mrs. Jessie Glerist's mother, Mrs. E. J. Edwards of McKenzie Bridge spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Bates and children returned home Sunday after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with a daughter, Mrs. Zina Doolittle, in Ryderwood, Wash.

Leslie Johnson of Wendling spent the week end at the Hugh Doolittle home. Marie Kennedy, who is attending high school here, spent the week end with her parents at Blue Mountain.

John Holstrom returned to his home in Trent Saturday after visiting several days with his grand mother, Mrs. Clara Kirk. Lita Mosby visited Sunday with Mrs. Ruth England and daughter. Five visited relatives in Creswell Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Smith and children, Mrs. Bessie Smith, mother of Mr. Smith and Ansel Fellows, all of Springfield, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Smith.

Wallace Boslaugh, who had spent the week here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boslaugh, returned to Reedsport CCC camp Friday. Mrs. Boslaugh accompanied her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boslaugh had as Thanksgiving guests their niece, Mrs. Leah Eckstrom and family of Cottage Grove. Mr. Mrs. James Plaster and Miss Arden Plaster were present.

Addison Heath and son Wilbur of Hebron visited Monday morning at the J. W. Fisher home. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cox and baby of Cottage Grove, Mr. Mrs. Fronia Cox of Gardiner visited Friday at the Henry Lake home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Shaw feel they could claim a place in the number of Thanksgiving dinners they participated in. They were partakers of four last week and were still hale and hearty. On Thanksgiving day they were invited to Eugene to the home of a cousin, Miss Harriet Odde; Friday night, O. H. Shaw and family of Astoria, were dining guests at their home and on Saturday and Sunday another son, V. W. Shaw and family of Canyonville were dinner guests.
