"dame" lie. Writers of such a letter do not represent the CCC boys.

It has been often observed that nothing can be done that will satisfy such persons as those who speak of an "artificial" and "dame" lie. In this case, however, it is peculiarly pertinent to call attention to the fact that the disgruntled two or three of Brice Creek camp, who may succeed in getting others in bad, probably have done nothing for the government that has done so much for them, that in furnishing them with the necessities of life under fairly comfortable conditions, under much more comfortable conditions than were known by the boys who went across the pond a few years ago to settle a little dispute with Kaiser Bill. And if they were running the government, they would have it in such a mess that there wouldn't be any CCC camps of any kind for anybody.

The boys of Brice Creek camp are a dandy bunch of fellows as a whole, but there seem to be two or three who ought to be sent home to join the few other obstreperous ones who weren't appreciative of a good thing when they had it. The boys of other CCC camps are equally decent.

As to the officers, this writer has never met a finer bunch of fellows than those sent to man the CCC camps. And they are reasonable in their dealings with the CCC boys. Probably the two or three who endorsed the letter to the R-G won't agree with that statement. They are invited to sign over their signatures to the letter, but they are not to be held liable for it. It is time for them to hustle back to Illinois. There are many decent chaps anxious to take their places.

ABOUT AN "ARTICAL"

"The boys think that this artical is one dame lie. Brice Creek Camp."

That is a letter received by the Eugene Register - Guard. Accompanying the letter was a clipping of a story with a Cottage Grove date line that told of a trip of the chamber of commerce to that camp. The story was written by this writer, who was among those who made the trip, and the same story appeared in The Sentinel, which has received no word from the camp, although The Sentinel is delivered there regularly.

It may be said without any likelihood of successful contradiction that the boys of Brice Creek camp did not write the letter and that few of them would endorse the sentiments therein so poorly expressed. In its comment on the letter, the R-G speaks as if the letter had been written by camp officers. Inasmuch as the camp officers have spoken approval of the story in question, The Sentinel rises to their defense. None of them would endorse the atrocious English that appears in the note.

Inasmuch as only approval has come to The Sentinel, possibly the story took on some malignant features when printed in the R-G, despite the fact that the wording was the same as that of the story (or "artical") in The Sentinel.

The letter to the R-G needs some elucidating. The Sentinel has never heard of an "artical," and this writer doubts whether the R-G ever has. The word appears in no standard dictionary.

And what is a "dame" lie? Have the women taken to swearing? The Sentinel has no apologies whatever to make for its treatment of the CCC boys. It has shown a consideration which the greater portion of them appreciate, which the officers appreciate.

So far as The Sentinel is concerned, it isn't worrying about what may be thought, said or written by one or two CCC boys who speak of an "artical" and a

BECOMING AMERICAN.

Elsewhere on this page appears a letter from James A. Scott offering some constructive criticism of an editorial which appeared in last week's Sentinel in which criticism was offered of those who want the benefits of our government without assuming any of the responsibilities of citizenship.

Mr. Scott shows that there are two sides to the question.

His contention that Uncle Sam should meet law-abiding aliens half way has considerable merit. It should be easy for a desirable person to secure citizenship, but the Sentinel's criticism was of those who have no desire to become citizens of the country under the protection of whose laws they live. The particular case referred to was of a person who had lived here 23 years, had made no attempt to become a citizen and then attempted to upset a program launched by our government.

The Sentinel has no doubt that Mr. Scott is correct in saying this country has many undesirable citizens, some naturalized and many born here, but that is no argument against the point we made. The criticism against citizens who fail to vote has often been voiced by The Sentinel.

The formality of taking out citizenship papers and of claiming to be a Christian because of attending church are not exactly comparable. A person who takes out his papers is a citizen. The person who attends church may not be a Christian. A person may be a Christian without attending church, but an alien cannot become a citizen without taking out his papers. The person who becomes a citizen at the same time becomes subject to whatever demands the government may make for the protection of that country. Be it said to their credit, some of our best soldiers were born under other flags. Be it said to their shame, some of those who showed the least interest in their country were born under the stars and stripes.

The Sentinel greatly regrets any condition which makes it impossible for a person like Mr. Scott to become a citizen. If he is not a citizen, he has at least tried to become one, supports the government under which he lives, and was not an object of The Sentinel's criticism.

The Cottage Grove Sentinel gives a page one story to last Friday's Sunset. One hates to quarrel with the Sentinel's news judgment, but sundays of breathtaking beauty are so frequent in this country that we thought they had lost their news value.—Eugene News.

The Sentinel didn't speak of the sunset as breathtaking, but, considering some of the breaths we have met, both before and since booze came back, we should say that what this country needs is a bigger and better breathtaking sunsets.

If we refuse to permit France to ship us her wines, she threatens to pay back in our own coin. It seems to us it is something like that we have been suggesting that France ought to do.

Most of the feminine fur coats worn in England are of rabbit pelts, and the young swains are said to have developed perfection in the bunny hug.

It seems that it would require a water grade to care for the flow of money it would take for the proposed Lane county short-cut-to-the-sea.

Authors of the nation have organized under the blue eagle. Pegasus has become a hack horse.

The Cottage Grove Sentinel gives a page one story to last Friday's sunset. One hates to quarrel with the Sentinel's news judgment, but sundays of breathtaking beauty are so frequent in this country that we thought they had lost their news value.—Eugene News.

Han't the editor of the News ever been over the range? This valley has few glorious sunsets. They have better ones on the coast; and even more beautiful ones and more frequent in eastern Oregon and Washington, where the clouds are not so heavy as to blot out the setting sun, and where the dust in the air much of the year adds to the color effect.—Salem Statesman.

Editor Reik of Cottage Grove will doubtless be glad to join us in showing Editor Sprague of Salem an upper Willamette sunset next week-end during the editorial convention. Maybe the poor folks down Salem way really don't have sunsets.—Eugene News.

They've been doing better since booze came back.

"ONE MAN'S POISON."
(Eugene Register-Guard.)
An old adage says "one man's poison may be another's meat." Thus there comes to our desk a clipping of our Cottage Grove cor-

THE BOYS THINK THAT THIS ARTICAL IS ONE DAME LIE, "BRICE CREEK CAMP."

Keep your "shirts" on, Camp officers. There never was a camp anywhere, anytime in which some homesick youngsters didn't frame "a kick". There was plenty in every world war camp (and that included officers' camps). Besides victory accounts of camp life are always so smug. The visitor for the day sees the obvious good things, overlooks the discomforts; he forgets that the things which to the visitor are a treat, to the trooper become monotonous.

The visitor to a 3-C camp forgets that all but a few dollars of each trooper's monthly pay goes to his folks and that the lad from some prairie town in Illinois requires time to adjust himself to mountains and forests.

Everything considered achievements of the 3-C camps have been marvelous. Most of the boys are earning all they get. Nor are they unappreciative; they know a job of any kind is a piece of luck these days.

The one thing they need (just as the army needed it) is a more natural contact with civilian life. Too often those of us who describe camps take too much for granted, and that's what gets the old dander up. The 3-C trooper may be lucky but his life isn't quite "a cinch."

WORD FOR ALIENS.

Cottage Grove, Jan. 12.—(To the Editor)—Referring to your editorial entitled, "No sympathy" and dealing with citizenship, may I inform you that there are two sides to this question and, without questioning the sincerity or desires of any particular case, allow me to say that, if Uncle Sam really wants law abiding aliens to become citizens, he should do his part by meeting them half way.

There are a great many law abiding aliens who would like to be granted citizenship, but because of some foolish technicalities are not eligible to this coveted honor without first unwinding a lot of red tape which seems to be Uncle Sam's stock in trade, while on the other hand the admirable alien element seem to have no scruples in this respect and very often, through perusing themselves and friends, succeed in getting their papers, with the result that the country is overrun with cutthroats armed with full responsibility of citizenship.

Furthermore, except for the purpose of exercising their franchise, is not the formality of taking out papers a mere gesture and about as convincing as one claiming to be a Christian because he attends church?

As to the franchise, several million so called citizens forget to vote and we are reminded of one who held the highest office, yet had only voted twice "for himself."

The writer has in his possession concrete evidence of the red tape which many aliens are subject to and will gladly show this to anyone vitally interested.

In conclusion, let me emphasize the fact that I bear no resentment on account of your editorial, but rather am glad for this opportunity to warn all good Americans not to be too hasty about judging or criticizing any alien without first acquainting themselves with the facts and ever keeping in mind that citizenship cannot be acquired or forfeited by any documentary evidence or legal declaration, but rather by strict obedience of the law, service of the country, and stinted loyalty to the country of his abode.

Which is the worst, the naturalized citizen who supports his family by bootlegging, or the alien who feeds his babies by working for the CWA?

JAMES A. SCOTT.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of saline, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. It then breaks up your stomach. You have a thick acid taste. Your brain is foggy. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, among them is one called the bile flow freely when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name CARTER'S Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. See at drug shop.
