SUGGESTED TRADES. We of the Willamette valley seldom realize the disparity in population between western and eastern Oregon.

In Baker county the entire vote for republican candidates for congress was less than 2,000, while in the slightly larger Lane the vote on the same office was 6,500.

In Crook county, also slightly smaller than Lane, a trifle over 400 votes were cast for republican congressional candidates.

Deschutes county, slightly smaller than Lane, cast 1,600 votes. Gilliam, a third the size of Lane, cast 469 votes.

Grant, the same size as Lane, cast 875 votes. In Harney, which is more than twice the size of Lane, votes numbered 529.

In Jefferson, half the size of Lane, votes numbered 233. In Klamath, nearly half again as large as Lane, votes numbered 2,994.

In Lake, twice the size of Lane, votes numbered 775. In Malheur, more than twice the size of Lane, votes numbered 1,123.

In Morrow, a little over half the size of Lane, votes numbered 556. In Sherman, a little over a fifth the size of Lane, votes numbered 431.

In Umatilla, four-fifths the size of Lane, votes numbered 2,771. Union, half the size of Lane, cast 1,450 votes.

Wallowa, four-fifths the size of Lane, cast 792 votes. Wasco, half the size of Lane, cast 1,749 votes.

Wheeler, a third the size of Lane, cast 846 votes. The quality of the vote in eastern Oregon may overcome the lack in quantity. At any rate, we have some voters that we would be willing to trade for the worst they have in eastern Oregon.

To the soapbox we recommend the broad open spaces of eastern Oregon. He would interfere with no one over there, and his removal would greatly relieve us.

WAR MEDALS. A few years ago the bravest and best of our men went across the waters to save from destruction the greatest republic of all ages.

Most of these came home again, some with medals, some with injuries and some with disease, and it is now a question whether those who didn't come back were not more kindly treated than some who did and have since lived in pain.

Not so very long ago a box arrived at Hollywood that contained 1,200 war medals. Among them were 100 croix de guerre and 300 war crosses. One was even an Italian military valor cross, so rare that when the armistice was signed only 25 had ever been issued.

The Hollywood producer paid a dollar each for these medals. Each one was authentic, and had been issued for some outstanding deed in the world war.

What must have been the tragedies of life that led the owners of these symbols to part with what had cost so much, must have meant so much. A medal issued to a man who had risked his life on the field of battle in the most wicked war of all ages, and a motion picture producer buys it for a paltry dollar.

There are those who believe that some of the world war veterans are asking too much. The boys could hardly ask more than we did when we asked them to go into the trenches of France, but there must be some whom an ungrateful country has neglected when medals of honor can be purchased wholesale at a dollar each.

The government ought to trace the medals back to their original ownership and learn whether their former owners may not even now be in need of aid from a country they served so well.

AMERICANS—CHRISTIANS. We recently heard an interesting talk in which a man of the gospel decried the fact that we are trying to make Americans instead of Christians.

So far as this writer is concerned, he would just as soon the efforts given to making Americans were given to making christians, for no christian living in America could be anything but a good American.

And isn't the reverse true? Could anyone be all that is expected of a good American citizen without being a christian?

There isn't much difference which one we make, but it is a good idea to bend our efforts toward making one or the other.

Each ballot cast in the primaries cost Lane county 47 cents. Those who went to the polls may ask themselves whether they got their money's worth, and the question may also arise as to whether it wouldn't be better to shift this expense onto party organizations.

Nothing disappoints some persons quite so much as to peddle a juicy bit of scandal and afterward learn that there wasn't a word of truth in it.

The only difference between a kicker and a jackass is that a jackass is not always a kicker.

Many men who claim to be self-made should give their mothers and wives the credit.

A pessimist is a person who believes divorce to be the happiest part of married life.
