Cause of Twilight
The Naval observatory says before sunrise and after sunset on the earth, sunlight is reflected from that part of the upper atmosphere on which the sun is already shining or still shining, thus causing twilight; but the moon has no atmosphere and therefore no twilight.

Legend

An old Indian legend: When plants and animals were created they were told to stay awake and watch for seven nights. The first night nearly all the animals kept awake. The next night several dropped to sleep. The third night will more went to sleep. At last on the seventh night, only the owl, the panther and a very few of the animals still were awake. Therefore these have the power to see and move about in the dark. Even the trees went to sleep. Only the cedars, the pine, the spruce, the holly and laurel were awake all seven nights. For that reason they are always green.—The Earth.

Meaning of "Junket"

The word junket is often applied to congress was originally applied to a banquet, or a picnic for exen-sion with feasting but it has come to mean a trip at public expense by government officials to some distant post, territory or public works for the purpose, they claim, of investigating conduct or for inspection.
Congressmen, especially, have been noted in the past for their junkets to distant regions flying the American flag.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Making Emery Wheels

Emery wheels can be made by mixing about one ounce of shellac to a pound of emery. Use finely powdered shellac and add a small portion of rosin, a piece about the size of a walnut, to an ounce of shellac, and a piece of old vulcan-ized india rubber about the same size, to give toughness. These are well mixed and melted together.

Naming Wall Street

Wall street owes its name to Peter Stuyvesant, who in 1652 as governor of the little Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam ordered a palisade built on the site to protect the town from invasion of the Enlish. The last of the wall was removed in 1699 and both sides of the street were alkly built up.

The Word "Scamp"

The word scamp originally signified a traveler, but three hundred years ago when a man traveled he generally had a good excuse for doing so, for few left home save when compelled, and to be a traveler was practically equivalent to being a rogue.

Blend Chimney Color

Frequently, a chimney seems to out of a house in parts. It is important, in painting a small dwelling in an attractive color scheme, to make the chimney an integral part of the picture. It may be painted with either stucco or concrete paint.

"Streamline"

The word "streamline" has been in use for a number of years in connection with hydrodynamics. It was defined by Horace Lamb in 1906 as "a line drawn from point to point so that its direction is everywhere that of the motion of the fluid."

Breeding Age of Seals

The bull fur seal does not come to breeding age until it is about six years old, but the female becomes mature during her second year and by the end of her third year generally gives birth to young.

Naming Cape Verde Islands

The Cape Verde islands received their name from the green seaweed which drifts into their numerous bays, not from the vegetation of the islands, which is very sparse.

Early Roman Blondes

The Romans were mostly dark haired people, but the desire to be blond led some Roman ladies to experiment with dyes and other preparations.

Spread of Glaciers

Figures of the Alaska geological survey indicate that glaciers of the territory when at their maximum spread covered approximately 255, 000 square miles.

thorium and actinium.

Birds Like Hairy Caterpillars

Fifty-three different species of birds have been observed feeding on hairy caterpillars.

At Weather Stations

At a weather station, even of the simplest character, at least one observation is taken every day, says Literary Digest. At the more important stations the number of daily observations ranges from two to several. The number of observations taken throughout the world in the course of a year cannot be less than 15,000,000. In addition to all this personal observation, records of temperature, barometric pressure, wind force and direction, sunshine, rainfall and other weather elements are made continuously, day and night, by automatic instruments at thousands of stations.
